The Congress in 1940-41 - The with a that followed the Ramgarh session of the Congress were occupied by Intensive preparation for a were occupied in intensive preparation for a direct action movement under the guidance of Mr. Gardin side has side with expressions of hope by Mr. Gardin and other Congress halders that such a struggle might be avoided. Mr. Gardin a notion of "preparation" was as usual on the constructive plan, that is, hand spinning removal of untouchability and promotion of Mindle-Masilian units. Hindu-Masilia unity

As for communal units, Mr. Gandhi stoutistics and the Muslim League demand for Paki tan partition with force in could never be a willing party to the proposed sixtsection of the country. He wrote the whole sould receive against the idea that Hinduism and Islam represent two idea that Hinduism and Islam represent two antagonistic cultures and doctrines. To assent to such a doctrine is for me dealst of God of the Quran is also the God of the Gilla, and that we are all, no matter by what name designated children of the same God. I must rebel against the idea that millions of Indians who were Hindus the other day changed their nationality on adopting Islam as their religion."

A Big Jump - 1 fen necks later took a sudden turn for the wore. The invasion of the Low Countries, the capitulation of Belgium and the collapse of I rance produced in India a new feeling in favour of Britain. There was clear evidence of a desire on the part. of many Congress leaders actively to help in the war in spite of Mr Gandhi's known convictions on the subject

By now the feeling had grown among Indians that the war had come closer to this country and that the danger of external aggression and internal disorder were not remote possibilities. This realisation caused a revolution in the minds of most Congressmen who had not the courage to adhere steadfastly to Mr Gandill and his non-volence in any eventuality. The and his non violence in any eventuality Congress Working Committee virtually abandoned Mr Gandin and offered to eo operate in the war effort provided a fully representative National Government was formed at the centre Apart from the licelogical separation from Mr Gandhi, this offer constituted a big jump for the Congress—from non participation in any war to active help in the prosecution of this war

Poona Offer -The resolution said, among other things

The Working Committee are more than over convinced that the acknowledgment by Gr at Britain of it complete independence of loaks in the only solutin of the problems facing opinion, that such as unequivocal declaration should be immediately made and that as a namediate step in giving effect to it a provisi and the such as the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contract of the contrac

Japan's Entry into War—If Japan's entry into the war brought the war nearer to India and engendered a more realistle approach on the part of Indian leaders to the defence of their country and to political affairs, the early gains of Japan in Malaya, the Netherlands, Last Indies and Burina impelled the British authorities to consider whether the time had not arrived for settling the political problems in India If only to promote unity of purpose and co-ordinated endeavour in this country in order effectively to meet Japanese invasion of India It is also widely believed in India that Russia, China and the United States of America brought their infinence to bear upon the British authorities in this behalf

"The War Cabinet have agreed unitedly upon conclusions for the present and future action, which, if accepted by India as a whole, would avoid alternative dangers, either that the resistance of a powerful minority might impose an indefinite veto upon the wishes of the majority or that a majority decision might be taken which would be resisted to a point destructive of internal harmony and fatal to the setting up of a new constitution

War Cabinet's Offer—Sir Stafford Cripps flew to India in a few days and held consultations with representatives of the Congress, the Muslim League, the Hindu Mahasabha, the Princes' Chamber, and a number of other political and sectional organisations—Here is the text of the offer which he brought to India in the name of the British Cabinet

"His Majesty's Government having considered the analeties expressed in this country and in India as to the fulfilment of promises made in regard to the future of India, have decided to lay down in precise and clear terms the steps which they propose shall be taken for the earliest possible realisation of self-government in India. "Nevertheless the Committee cannot think in terms of compelling the people in any territo rlal umt to remain ln an Indian Union against their deciared and established will recognising this principle, the Committee feel that every effort should be made to create conditions which would help the different units in developing a common and co operative national life

"The acceptance of the principle inevitably involves that no changes should be made which result in fresh problems being created and com pulsion being exercised on other substantial groups within that area Each territorial unit should have the fullest possible autonomy within the Union, consistently with a strong national state. The proposil now made on the part of the British War Cabinet encourages and will lead to attempts at separation at the very inception of a union and thus create triction just when the utmost co operation and goodwill are most needed. This proposal has been presumably made to meet a communal demand, but it will have other consequences also and lead politically reactionary and obs curantist groups among different communities to create trouble and divert public attention from the vital issues before the country

"Any proposal concerning the future of India must demand attention and seruting, but in to day's grave crisis, it is the present that counts, and even proposals for the future are important in so far as they affect the present Committee have necessarily ittached The ittached greatest importance to this aspect of the question, and on this ultimately depends what advice they should give to those who look to them for guidance. For this present the British War Cabinet's proposals are vague and altogether meomplete, and it would appear that no vital changes in the present structure are contempiated

"It has been made elear that the defence of India will in any event remain under British At any time defence is a vital subject during war time it is all important and covers almost every sphere of life and administration To take away defence from the sphere of responsibility at this stage is to reduce that responsibility to a farce and a nullity and to inake it perfectly clear that India is not going to be free in any way and her Government is not going to function as a free and independent Government during the pendency of the war

"The Committee would repeat that an essen tial and fundamental prerequisite for the issumption of responsibility by the Indian people in the present is their realisation as a fac that they are free and are in charge of maintaining and defending their freedom. What is most wanted is the enthusiastic response of the people which that unity, especially in the modern world when them in the matter of defence. It is only people's minds mevitably think in terms of this that even at this grave eleventh hour It may be possible to galvanise the people of India to rise to the height of the occasion

> "It is manifest that the present Government of India, as well as its provincial agencies are iacking in competence, and are incapable of shouldering the burden of India's defence. It is only the people of India throngin their popular representatives who may shoulder this burden worthlly But that can only be done by present freedom, and full responsibility being east upon

> "The Committee, therefore, is unable to ac cept the proposals put forward on behalf of the British War Cabinet"

> Sir Stafford Cripps then announced that the draft declaration of the British Government had been withdrawn and that the position reverted to what it was before he came out to Indla, though not quite perhaps to that position"

> In splte of the fallure of the effort of Sir Staf ford Cripps and the bitter tone of the final remarks in the controversy, responsible Indian leaders resterated their determination to defend the country against aggression

> Madras Surprise —Just at this time, on the eve of the meeting of the All-India Congress Committee, called at Allahabad at the end of April 1942, the Madras Congress Legislature Party, under the guidance of Mr Rajagopalaeliar present a resolution recommending to the A I C C to "acknowledge the Muslim League's claim for separation should the same be persisted in when the time comes for framing the future constitution of India "and to ' invite the Musilin League for consultation for the purpose of arriving at an agreement and securing the Installation of a National Government to meet the present emergency"

> The meeting also passed a resolution voicing "the general feeling in this part of the country that there should be at this critical juneture a popular Government in this province doing its utmost to seeure the regulalte conditions for the people to play their part The party is of the opinion further that to facilitate united and ef fective action in this regard by such a popular Government, the Muslim League should be invited to participate in it"

> The party requested the A I C C to permit the party to take steps to this end, notwithstanding the general all India policy followed by the Congress

> These resolutions met with a storm of protest from Congress leaders outside Madras, but were welcomed by some moderate leaders and by Muslim League eircles

The Madras resolution acknowledging the Muslim League's cialm to separation came up for consideration before a meeting of the AICC at Allahabad in April 1942, but was defeated by 120 votes against 15, while a counter resolution, moved by Pandit Jagat Naraln, opposing cannot be evoked without the fullest trust in any proposal to disintegrate India, was earned them and the devolution of responsibility on by 92 votes to 17 The latter resolution ran The A I C C is of opinion that a y will be to king to a loreign power proposal to di integrate India by giving liberty; convinced that we are fiving today to any component Stalo or territorial unit to of ordered a arroy. The resolution ran wilderness and nationalist India may go war-

Answering the criticism that the withdrawal my proposal, it is deemed necessary by the Allies to remain in India to prevent Japanese occupation, they should do so subject to such Government that may be set up after the British sion of one nation over another I am unable to state that the withdrawal non violent effort will make India proof against Japanese or any other aggression I am not able even to claim that the whole of India is non-violent in the sense required ercumstances it would be hypocritical on my part to insist on the immediate withdrawal of the Allicd troops as an indispensable part of my proposal It is sufficient for me to declare that so far as India is concerned, sho does not need troops to defend herself, having no quarrel with Japan But India must not by any act of hers short of national suicide let China down or put the Allied powers in jeop irdy So long therefore as India heks faith in the expacity of non-violence to protect her against aggression from without, the demand for the withdrawal of the Allied troops during the pendency of the war would itself be an act of violence, if the controllers of the troops hold it to be necessary for their defence to keep them in India for that purpose and that alone

Summarising the implications of his proposals Mr Gandhi wrote early in July -

India becomes free of all financial obliga 1 tion to Britain,

The annual drain to Great Britain stons automatically.

All taxation ceases except what the 3 replacing Government imposes retams,

The deadweight of an all powerful authority keeping under subjection the tallest in the land is lifted at once,

In short, India begins a new chapter in her national life, as I shall hope will affect the fortunes of the war with nonviolence as her predominant sanction This non-violence will no longer take the shape of non-co-operation and the like It will express itself in her ambassadors going to the Axis powers not to beg for peaco but to show them the futility of war for achieving an honour-This ean only be done if and able end when Britain sheds the gains of perhaps

July Resolution —With the country thus prepared, the Working Committee of the Congress met at Wardin in the middle of July

"Events happening from day to day, and the experience that the people of India are passing through, confirm the opinion of Congressmen of India Mr Gandhl wrote "Abrupt with not mercly because localing and a continuing Japan's occupation of India and China's sure injury to the subject people, but because India I had not the remotest idea of any such in bondage can play no effective part in defending herself and in affecting the fortunes of the war that is desolating humanity. The freedom of the interest. of Britain might lead to Japanese occupation that British rule in India must end immediately, India is thus necessary not only in the interest of India but also for the safety of the world and occupation, they should do so subject to such for the ending of Nazism, Fascism, militarism conditions as may be prescribed by the national and other forms of Imperialism, and the aggres-

> "Duet since the outbreak of the world war, the Congress has studiously pursued a policy, of non embarrassment Even at the risk of making its satiagraha ineffective, it deliberately give it a symbolic character, in the hope that policy of non-cinbarrassment, carried to its logical extreme, would be duly appreciated and that real power would be transferred to popular representatives, so as to enable the nation to make its fullest contribution towards the realisation of human freedom throughout the world, which is in danger of being erushed It had also hoped that negatively nothing would be done which was calculated to tighten Britain's strangle hold on India

"These hopes, have, however, been dashed to cees The abortive Cripps proposals showed picces in the elearest possible manner that there was no change in the British Government's attitude towards India and that the British hold on India was in no way to be relaxed. In the negotiations with Sir Stafford Cripps, Congress representatives tried their utmost to achieve a minimum, consistent with the national demand. but to no avail This frustration has resulted in a rapid and widespread increase of ill-will against Britain and a growing satisfaction at the of Japanese arms The Working Committee view this development with grave apprehension as this, unless elecked, will inevitably lead to a passive acceptance of aggres-The Committee hold that all aggression must be resisted, for any submission to it must mean the degradation of the Indian people and the continuation of their subjection The Congress is auxious to avoid the experience of Malaya, Singapore, and Burma and desires to build up resistance to any aggression on, or invasion of, India by the Japanese or any foreign power

"The Congress would change the present ill-will against Britain into good-will and make India a willing partner in a joint enterprise of securing freedom for the nations and peoples of the world and in the trials and tribulations the most organized and successful which accompany it This is only possible if violence the world has seen party in the country is engaged in a deadly but friendly quarrel with the foreign rulers But in this they need no aid from foreign Powers You have been gravely misinformed, as I know you are, that we have chosen this particular moment to embrass the Albes when your attack against India is imminent. If we wanted to turn Britain's difficulty into our opportunity we should have done it as soon as the War broke out nearly three years ago

"Our movement demanding the withdrawal of the Butish Power from India should in no way be misunderstood In fact, if we are to believe your reported anxiety for the Indepen dence of India, a recognition of that Independenee by Britain, should leave you no excuse for any attack on India Moreover the reported profession sorts ill with your ruthless aggression against China I would ask you to make no mistake about the fact that you will be sadly dislilusioned if you believe that you will receive a willing welcome from India The end and aim of the movement for British withdrawal is to prepare India, by making her free for resisting all militarist and imperialist ambition, whether it is called British Imperialism, German Nazism or your pattern Our appeal to Britain is coupled with the offer of Free India's willingness to let the Allies retain their troops in India The offer is made in order to prove that we do not in any way mean to harm the Allied eause, and in order to prevent you from being nusled into feeling that you have but to step into the country that Britain has vacated Needless to repeat that if you eherish any such idea and will carry it out, we will not fail in resisting you with all the might that our country can muster

In the period between the adoption by the Working Committee of its July resolution and the meeting of the A -I C C in August Mr Gandhi Indicated that he was prepared to meet the Viceroy and discuss his demand with him and that he would call off the movement if he were eonvinced by anyone that in the midst of war the British Government could not declare India free without reopyrdising the war effort "My free without jeopridising the war effort "My complaint is that eritles tilk at me, swear at me but never condescend to talk to me", he said He wished to guard against "a sudden outburst of marely or a state of things which may be calculated to invite Japanese aggression. He intended to handle the movement gently, but he would not hesitate to go to the extremist limit if he found that no impression was produced on the British Government or the Alhed powers

Hostile Foreign Comment —Publication of the Working Committee s July resolution liostile ınuelı comment abroad in reply to which air orman. 'Indian public men should be forgiven if they

We know, that if India does not become free now, the hidden discontent will burst forth into a welcome to the Japanese, should they effect a landing. We feel that such an event would be a calamity of the first We can avold it if Indla galns her magnitude To distrust this simple, natural and honest declaration is to court disaster

> " But the critics say, 'To whom are the British rulers to hand the keys on their withdrawal?'
> It is a good question Here is what Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, the Congress President, has said 'The Congress always stands, firstly for sympathy towards democratic countries, secondly, never desires to embarrass Britain and her war effort, and, thirdly it stands for opposition to the Japanese aggression The Congress does not desire to take power for tiself but for all If real power is handed over to the Congress, surely it will approach other parties and will persuade them to join' The Congress President added that he 'had no objection to Britain handing over power to the Mushm League or any other party provided it was real independence. That party will have to approach other parties as no single party can function properly without the co operation of other parties. The only thing needful is to hand over complete control without reservation save that during the war period the Allied troops will operate to stem Japanese or Ass attack But they will have no power of interference with the affairs of India which will be as free as Great Britain herself

Indo British Apart from relationship Mr Gandhi made an important change in his policy in the summer of 1942 when he gave up his old belief that internal unity must precede political emancipation and declared instead that eommunal unity could only follow the removal of the third party Writing in Harijan in June, he said "Time is a merciless enemy, if it is also a mereiful friend and healer I claim to be amongst the oldest lovers of Hindu-Mushm umty, and I remain one even today I have been asking myself why every whole hearted attempt, made by all including myself to reach unity has failed, and failed so completely that I have entirely fallen from grace and am described by some Muslim papers as the greatest enemy of Islam in India. It is a phenomenon I can only account for by the fact that the third power, even without deliberately wishing it, wlll not allow real unity to take place fore, I have eome to the reluctant conclusion that the two communities will come together almost immediately after the British Power comes to a final end in India. If independence Is the immediate goal of the Congress and the Iergue, then, without needing to come to any terms, all will fight together to be free from bondage. When the hondage is done with not doubt the sheerity of the fierce opposition is the limined at the Congress and the which is being organised with ominous manity. The latter can only stiffen Indivision and resistance. He continued the Justice of the demand for the ending of British Power has never been questioned, the will find it to their interest to come together.

adjusted by representatives of all these free coun- 1 to Great Britain and the United Nations are so tries conferring together for their mutual advantage and for their co operation in the common task of resisting aggression Freedom will enable India to resist aggression effectively with the people's united will and strength behind it

"The freedom of Indla must be the symbol of and prelude to this freedom of all other Aslatic nations under foreign domination Burm i. Malaya, Indo China, the Dutch Indles, Iran and Iraq must also attain their complete freedom It must be elearly understood that such of these eountries as are under Japanese control now must not subsequently be placed under the rule or control of any other colonial Power

While the A -I C C must primarily be con eerned with the independence and defence of India in this hour of danger, the Committee is of opinion that the future perce, security and ordered progress of the world demand a World Federation of free nations, and on no other basis ean the problems of the modern world be solved Such a World Federation would ensure the freedom of its constituent nations, the prevention of aggression and exploitation by one nation over another, the protection of national minorities, the advancement of all backward areas, and peoples, and the pooling of the world's resources for the common good of all On the establishment of such a World Federation, disarmament would be practicable in all countries, national armles, navies and alr forces would no longer be necessary, and a World Federal Defence Force would keep the world peace and prevent aggres

" An independent India would gladly join such a World Federation and eo operate on an equal basis with other countries in the solution of international problems

"Such a Federation should be open to all nations who agree with its fundamental prinelples In view of the war, however, the Federation must inevitably, to begin with, be confined to the United Nations Such a step taken now will have a most powerful effect on the war, on the peoples of the Axis countries, and on the peace to come

"The Committee regretfully realises, however, that despite the tragic and overwhelming lessons of the war and the pernis that overhang the world, the Governments of few countries are yet prepared to take this inevitable step towards World The reactions of the Brtish Govern Federation ment and the misguided eritieism. of the toreign press also make it clear that even the obvious demand for India's independence is resisted, though this has been made essentially to meet the present peril and to enable India to defend herself and help China and Russia in their hour of The Committee is anxious not to embirrass in any way the defence of China or Russia, whose freedom is precious and must be preserved, or to jeopardise the defensive capacity of the United Nations But the peni grows both to India and these nations, and maetion and sub mission to a foreign administration at this stage is not only degrading India and reducing her capacity to defend herself and resist aggression, but is no answer to that growing peril and is no service to the peoples of the United Nations. The earnest appeal of the Working Committee

far met with no response, and the criticisms made in many foreign quarters have shown an igner ance of Indla's and the world's need and some times even hostility to India's freedom significant of a mentality of domination and racial superlority which cannot be tolerated by a proud people conscious of their strength and ol the justice of their cause

"The A ICC would yet again, at this last moment, in the interest of world freedom, renew this appeal to Britain and the United Nations But the Committee feels that It is no longer justified in holding the nation back from endea-vouring to assert its will against an imperialist and authoritarian Government which dominates over it and prevents it from functioning in Itsown Interests and in the Interests of humanity The Committee resolves, therefore, to sanetlon for the vindication of India's inalignable right to freedom and independence, the starting of a mass stringgle on non violent lines on the widest possible scale, so that the country might utilise ill the non violent strength it has gathered during the last twenty-two years of perceful Such a struggle must inevitably be struggie under the leadership of Gandhijl and the Committee requests him to take the lead and guide the nation in the steps to be taken

"The Committee appeals to the people of India to face the dangers and hardships that will fall to their lot with courage and endurance, and to hold together under the leadership of Gandhill, and earry out his instructions as disciplined soldiers of Indian freedom. They must remember that non-violence is the basis of this movement. A time may come when it may not be possible to issue instructions or for instructions to reach our people, and when no Congress Committees ean function When this happens, every man and woman, who is participating in this move ment must function for himself or herself within the four corners of the general instructions issued. Every Indian who desires freedom and strives for it must be his own guide urging him on along the hard road where there is no resting place and which leads ultimately to the indepen dence and deliverance of India

"Lastly, while the A-ICC has stated its own view of the future governance under free India, the A-ICC wishes to make it quite clear to all concerned that by embarking on mass struggle it has no intention of gaining power for the Congress The power, when it comes, will belong to the whole people of India"

The A-ICC met in Bombay on the 7th August in a tense atmosphere Maulana Abul Kalun Azad, opening the proceedings, refuted the suggestion that once India was given freedom she would ally herself with Japan 'Events,' he observed, 'have reached such a pass that this is not the time for promises. The Congress does not want to make any promises, nor does it want the British Government to make any The need of the hour is action and action right now Let us, therefore, simultaneously sign India's freedom here and now and our agree ment to the United Nations to fight along with them "Mr Gandin, who followed the President, maintained that he had no hatred for the British "In fact," he remarked, "I am the greatest Government's Reaction — Within a few product of the as they must, to the repeated hours of the adoption of the 'Only products of in the class to, days by the India" resolution by the AICC, and lenders of great communities and soliday the termination of its proceedings Mr Canadhi established interests by so nous leader of and the other Congress leaders were rounded the rail thought by these reast sections of the up under the Defence of India Ruics and kept populations which are closed united and under detention completely leadered from the invaluable support to the war a alass Axis outside world. Strict measures were taken to as an long they are confirmed in their view prevent the movement from spreading or taking that that that can has no well foundations and roof. In a resolution of the Converger (a next), that acceptance of the processis now not it the congress resolution and affirmed their determination to meet the chillenge contilned The resolution ran .

"The A-ICC have ratified the resolution passed by the working Committee of the Indian National Congress on August 5 Aint reofu tion demands the immediate utildrawal of British Power from India and sanctions the starting of a muss struggic on non-violent ilnes on the widest possible scale

"The Governor General in Council has been aware, too, for some days part of dengerous preparations by the Congress Parts for unlawful and in some cases violent activities, directed among other things to the interruption of communications and public utility services, the organisation of strikes, tampering with the loyalty of Government servants and interference with defence measures, including reernitment

"The Government of Indla have waited patiently in the hope that wher counsels night prevail. They have been disappointed in that hope To a challenge such as the present there can only be one answer

"The Government of India would regard it as wholly incompatible with their responsibilities to the people of India, and their obligations to the Allies, that a demand should be discussed the acceptance of which would plunge India into confusion and unarely internally, and would paralyse her effort in the common cause of human freedom

"For the demand of the Congress leaders there is no warrant. In the view of the Govern-ment of India that demand is difficult, if not impossible to reconcile with a full sense of responsibility on the part of the leaders of the Congress Party, or a full appreciation by them of the realities of the present situation. The Congress Working Committee admit that there may be risks involved 'They are right Acceptance of the resolution must mean the exposure of India to Axis attack from without Internally, the withdrawal of British rule invited eivil war, the collapse of law and order the outbreak of communal feud, the dislocation of economic life with its inevitable hardships

"Nor can the Government of India accept the claim of the Congress Parts to speak for India as a whole The Congress Parts has for long occupied a position of great prominence and great importance in Indian political life this day its importance is substantial

"But it is the duty of the Government of India to take a balanced view of the interests of all sections of Indian thought and Indian opinion, roof. In a resolution of the Gavernor General, that never one of the proposals now pet in Council, published on the morrow of the forward by the Congress Parcy must mean the A ICC meeting Government expressed is not information of all those for a not potential elements in the population which have con-demned the course of action proposed by the Contro . Party and which reent and recent the wide pread disjointion which its acceptance would involve of India s war effort and of the Length life of the community

> "Nor can the Congressiculors claim that only thus can India's future be assured. The Con-tress Party Is not India's monthplece. Let in the interests of securing their own dominance and in pursuit of their totalitarian policy, its tenders have consistently impeded the efforts made to bring India to full nationhood

" But for the realstance of the Congress Parts to all constructive endersours, India might even now be enjoying sell government

British policy for India s future stands clear It is that once hostilities ecase, India shall devise for herself with full freedom of decision and on a basis embracing all and not only a single party, the form of Government which she regards as most suited to her conditions, and that in the meintime Indian leaders shall fully participate in the Government of their country and in the counsels of the Commonwealth and of the United Nations. The fullest oppor-tualty for the attainment of self-government by the people of India has been guaranteed by His Majest's Government

"It is on the basis, fully accepted by His Majesty's Government and by the people of Great Britain that the fullest opportunity shall be open for the attainment of self government by the Indian people, that when the div of victory comes the final structures of India's constitution will be erected by Indians them selve. That those guarantees given by the British Parliament and the British people are accepted by the people of India we firmly believe

"The suggestion put forward by the Congress Party that the millions of India uncertain as to the future are ready, despite the sad lessons of so many martyr countries, to throw them selves into the irms of the invader is one that the Government of India cannot accept as a true representation of the feeling of the people of this great country

"The leaders of the Congress Party have claimed that the withdrawal of British rule "with good will will 'result in establishing a stable provisional government in India, and eo operation between this government and the United Nations in resisting aggression and helping China There is no justification for those claims Nor can the Government of India accept the suggestion that a stable provisional government, could be formed in a moment of time within 2 dig or two of the withdrawal of British Power dangerous fast with a view to enforcing that demand which, if conecded or agreed to under such eccreive method, it is obvious, will destroy the Muslim demand and involve complete sacrifice of the vital and paramount interests of India Moreover, mere political issues and the complex political problems of this sub-continent, involving the destinles of millions, cannot be settled or solved by means and methods of fasting adopted by Mr Gandhi I do, however, hope that your efforts may lead to the path of reason and peace and then there would come an opportunity for friendly negotiations which might, I trust, result in a settlement satisfactory not only to the two major nations—Hindus and Muslims—but to all other interests and minorities concerned"

During the controversy over Mr Gandhi's fast a mild sensation was caused by the resignation of three members of the Viceroy's expanded Executive Council, namely, Sir H P Mody, Mr M S Aney and Mr N R Sarker Explaining the reasons for their resignations they said that "certain differences arose on what we regarded as a fundamental issue (the action to be taken on Mahatmaji's fast) and we felt we could no longer retain our offices"

Meanwhile, Mr Gandhi successfully survived the 21-day foodless ordeal, although on two occasions his condition caused an iety. On the conclusion of the fast the commotion which had prevailed between February 10 and March 4 gradually subsided

Nevertheless, the situation created by the fast was further considered by the non-party leaders who again met, this time in Bombay, and issued the following resolution —

"We are of the opinion that the deplorable events of the last few months require a reconsideration of their policy both by Government and the Congress The recent talks which some of us have had with Mr Gandhi lead us to believe that a move for reconclustion at the present juncture will bear fruit

"It is our conviction that if Mr Gandhl is set at liberty he would do his best to give guidance ind assistance in the solution of the internal deadlock and that there need be no fear that there would be any danger to the successful prosecution of the war

"The Vleeroy may be approached on our behalf to permit a few representatives to meet Mr Gaudh authoritatively to ascertain his reactions to recent events and to explore with him avenues for a reconciliation"

In pursuance of this resolution representations were made to the Viceroy to let some of the non-party leaders meet Mr Gandhi Declinling to give the facilities sought, the Viceroy said that if Mr Gandhi was prepared fully to repudiate the Congress resolution of August 1912, to condemn the incitements to violence represented by his reference to "open rebellion," etc., and if he and the Congress party were prepared to give assurances for the future, receptable to the Government, then the matter could be considered further

Inactivity -The Silence and months that followed the termination of Mr Gandhi's fast were marked by comparative silence and inactivity The disturbances, which broke out in August 1942 and continued with varying intensity for six months, virtually eased in the spring of 1943 This was undoubtedly due to the stern measures taken by Government, but it was also due to the atmosphere of anxiety and sorrow ereated by Mr Gandhi's fast in February 1943 In particular, the disapproval of violence in any form voiced by Mr Gandhi in his letters to the Viceroy, published in the first half of February 1943, served to damp the ordour of those Indians who had imagined that either the Congress or Mr Gandhi had sanctioned acts of , The cumulative effect of these factors was the virtual cessation of sabotage, arson and other acts of mob violence and mischief which had marked the latter half of 1942

The apparent determination of Government to face the situation in the country should Mr Gandhi's fast prove fatal rather than give an "unrepentent rebel" facilities for normal political life, coupled with their refusal to encourage non Gandhite Congressmen and non Congress leaders to explore possibilities of an internal settlement in consultation with Mr Gandhi, produced a stifling stillness in the political atmosphere

Congress activity in 1943 44 therefore was next to nothing Such political life as prevailed in the country was confined to Liberals and non party leaders (see chapter on Liberal Federation) and the Muslim League (see ehapter on Muslim League) The only activity directly concerning the Congress or emanating from Congressmen was Mr Gandhi's letter to Mr Jinnah in the summer of 1943 and an occasional move by released Congressmen to meet together and evolve an agreed policy in the absence of official Congress leadership

In response to an appeal made by Mr Jinnah in the Delhi session of the Muslim League inviting Mr Gandhi to write to him, the latter addressed a letter to the League leader offering to meet him Not only were the contents of the letter not published, but Government refused to forward it to Mr Jinnah

The twelve-month period from the summer of 1943 to that of 1944 was one of depression and inactivity. A feable attempt made by right wing Congressmen released from jail to whip up some hind of political activity in the country was effectively scotched by Mrs. Sarojini Naidu

Throughout this period there was no sufficient time and comprehensive statement of Government's policy towards the Congress, although there were occasional announcements on specific issues. Lord Limithgow, in his farewell address to the Central Legislature in the sutumn of 1943, adopted an attitude of studied silence in respect of the Congress. People thought that it was done in order not to anticipate any new policy which his successor might infold. This belief was reinforced by broad limits thrown by the Vicerox designate, Lord Wavell, on the eye of his assumption of office

Much was, therefore, expected from Lord Wavell who assumed office in the autumn of 1913 Within a few days of his being sworn in, howe er he turned hi attention to the famine | resolution | As you have very p openly said situation in Bengal and miturally devoted all it is implemented un my differ about the his cangited it it problems in preference to the | saidton | It is the breath of life for me pol tical question

Thi period vitne-sed a sad event namely the passing at ay el Mrs Gandhi She died to detention in the Aga khan a Palace a vi tim of heart attack. There were repeated lemands from the public fo her release but ( overnment seemed to be of the view that she would be more I pry where she w s especi fly when adequate medical h lp was m de a alfable to her This was the second be ment of Mr Gandhi ince his arrest and detention the first being the de th of Mr Mahadev Desaf his secret ry and could nte in August 1942 As during the f tin th spring of 1943 friends and relatil es of the Gandhi family were allowed to enter the Aga Khan a Palace to visit Mrs. Gandhi duri the latt r part of her prolonged illne a and later to attend her funeral withdrawal, that violence was never contemplated by him or any Congress leader that he had declared that, if Congressmen indulged in an orgy of violence they might not find him alive in their midst, that the mass move ment was never started by him, that he had contemplated negotiations with Government, and that he was to start the movement only on the failure of negotiations. Therefore, he contended that, but for the arrests, no disturbances would have taken place and that he would have strained every nerve first to make the negotiations successful and secondly, if he failed, to avoid disturbances. According to him, whatever violence was committed by withdrawal, that violence was never contem- | for to him, whatever violence was committed by the people, whether Congressmen or others, was committed in spite of the leaders' wishes "Government action in enforcing India wide arrest was so violent that the populace which was in sympathy with the Congress lost self-control The loss of self control cannot imply Congress complicity, but it does imply that the power of endurance of human nature has limitations. If the Government action was in excess of the endurance of human nature, it, and therefore its authors, were responsible for the explosions that followed."

What could be the cause of the extraordinary resentment against the Congress into which the Government had betrayed themselves, he asked Did the cause he in the "Quit India" formula? There was nothing novel in the resolution of August 8 save the "Quit India" formula Mass movements had been known to be on the Congress programme even since 1920, but freedom seemed elusive "Now Hindry Muslim American and Mass movements had been known to be on the Congress programme even since 1920, but freedom seemed elusive "Now Hindry Muslim American and Mass movements had been known to be on the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Congress of the Hindu-Muslim disunity, now the pledges to the Princes, now the interests of the scheduled classes, now the vested interests of Europeans barred the gateway to freedom rule was an inexhaustible well. The sands of time were running out Rivers of blood were flowing fast among the warring nations, and politically minded India was looking on helpless fy—the masses were mert. Hence the cry of Quit India. It gave body to the freedom movement The ery was unanswerable Those who were annous to play their part in the world erisis found vent in that ery of anguish Its root is in the will to save democracy from Nazism as well as Imperialism

Gandhi contended that the resentment over what he held to be a just and honourable desire confirmed the popular suspicion about the bona fides of Government's professions about democracy and freedom after the war If the Government were smeere they would have welcomed the offer of help made by the Congress Congressmen who had been fighting for India's liberty for over a century would have flocked to the Allied banner as one man for the defence of India's freedom, newly won But the Government did not wish to treat India as an equal partner and all. They had put out of action those who made that demand foreign "Therefore the propaganda Government should withdraw the indictment I see from the preface to the indictment that the Government have in their possession 'valuable evidence, presumably incriminating the detenus I submit that if the Government cannot safely divulge the evidence, they should discharge the detenus and bring to book those who after discharge may be caught in the act of committing or promoting crimes '

The Government issued a rejoinder pointing out that the document "Congress Responsibility for the Disturbances in 1942-43" was published for the information of the public and not for the purpose of convicting Mr Gandhi or eliciting his defence. The document was supplied to hlm only at his own request and Government nim only at his own request and Government neither invited nor desired his comments upon it. It was, however, one of the purposes of the book to find an explanation of his actions in his "own defeatist outlook towards the threat from Japan, and your fear that unless the Allied forces withdrew in time, India would become a battle field in which the Japanese would ultimately win." The authorities pointed out that both in the "Quit India." campaign and the Congress resolution which was intended to enforce it. Mr. Gandhi's object was to be to enforce it, Mr Gandhi's object was to be left in a position in which he and the Congress would be free to make terms with Japan The point which was clearly established by the book "Congress Responsibility" was that those disturbances were the natural and predictable consequences of his declaration of an "open rebellion" and the propaganda which had preceded it, and if he contended that the consequences were unintended and unforeseen, that itself was an admission of his own inability to judge the reactions of his followers. The Government spokesman complained that Mr Gandhi s letter did not contain one word of explanation of his own message." Do or Die."

of explanation of his own message "Do or Die" Mr Gandhi, however, maintained that he had "unequivocally answered all the charges," adding that he had "no regret for what he had done or said in the course of the struggle for India's freedom". As to the Congress resolution of August 8, 1942, Mr Gandhi said that, apart from his behief that it was not only harmless but good all round, he had no legal power to alter it in any way. That could only be done by the body that passed that resolution, namely, the All India Congress Committee, which was no doubt guided by the Working namely, the All India Congress Committee, which was no doubt guided by the Working Committee Although his offer to meet the members of the Working Committee in order to discuss the situation and to know their mind was rejected, he repeated his offer as he thought that his talk with them might have some value from the Government stand point, but, if his offer had no chance of being accepted so long as he retained his present views and if the Government thought that it was only his evil influence that corrupted the people, Mr Gandhi suggested that the members of the Working Committee and other detenus should be discharged. He added that, since Concluding his reply Vr Gandhi affirmed that the chief purpose was to carry convetion to Government that the indictment contained in India seemed to have distrusted the indictment and had regarded it as designed of the and link regarded it as designed of the indictment and had regarded it as designed of the working Committee and other detenting should be discharged. A week later Mr Rajagopalaehari again addressed Mr Jinnah in which he sald "The proposal I gave you in writing when we last met in Dellii must be still with you, and perhaps met in Delin must be still with you, and perhaps to the read it over again and given further guarantee of Indian Independence after the guarantee of Indian Independence after the guarantee of Indian Independence after the server as you are aware, at your mability to approve submitted to Mr. Jinnah by Mr. C. I sincerely believe that the proposals form a fair and satisfactory without consulting the Working Committee, basis of settlement. I shall be grateful to but there is no doubt whatever that his views from you as to whether you have reconsidered. hear from you as to whether you have reconsidered the matter"

As there was no reply from Mr Jinnah, Mr Rajagopalacharı sent a telegram reminding him of his earlier letters. He said that Mr Gandhi still stood by the formula "I would like now to publish the formula and your rejection. This telegram is sent with Gandhiji's approval to reconsider your rejection '

To this Mr Jinnah replied "Your request to publish your formula Your wrong version "Your request our talk that I rejected your formula is unfair and surprising True facts are I was willing to place your formula before Working Committee, Muslim League, although it was not open to any modification but you did not agree to let made any modification. let me do so Hence no further steps were taken My reaction was that I could not Committee could not sit still while the people personally take responsibility for accepting or were suffering. Mr Gandhi's Gesture—Close on the hecks of the publication of the Gandhi cum CR offer to Mr Ilanah, Mr Gandhi made another gesture this time to British authority According to a British journalist (Mr Stuart Gelder), who had had a series of interviews with Mr Gandhi, the latter "is prepared to accept and to advise the Congress to participate in a war time National Government in full control of the Civil administration, leaving the Meeroy the chill administration, leaving the Viceros and the Commander-in Chilef in full control of the British and Indian armies. It would be expected that the establishment of such a Government would be accompanied now by a guarantee of Indian Independence after the of the British and Indian armies and the Hindu-Muslim proposals as endorsed by him would be accepted by them without hesitation

"I asked Mr Gandhi whether he would start ewil disobedience if the Working Committee were released from jail and the Government felt unable to give India what they wanted This telegram is sent with Gandhiji's He replied 'I have no intention of offering I would like you even at this juneture ler your rejection'' replied 'I have no intention of offering civil disobedience today. I cannot take the country back to 1942. History can never be country back to 1942 and the country back to 1942 and the country back to 1942. repeated Even without the authority of the Congress, if I wanted to do it I could start civil disobedience today on the strength of my supposed influence with the masses, but I would be doing so merely to embarrass the British Government This cannot be my object.

continue to knock so long as there is the least; Government on the one hand and the Govern Hope of an honourable settlement. After the foregoing was written, I saw Lord Munster's speech in the House of Lords. The summary given by him in the House of Lords fairly represents my proposal. This summary may serve as a basis for mutual friendly discussion. Government on the one hand and the Government on the one hand and the Government on the one hand and the Government on the one hand and the Government on the one hand and the Government on the one hand and the Government on the one hand and the Government on the one hand and the Government on the one hand and the Government on the one hand and the Government on the other, and existing financial arrangements can only be reopened at the instance of one or the other.

Viceroy's reply —15th August, 1944 "Thank von for your letter of 27th July Your proposals

"That you should undertake to advise the Working Committee (a) that in view of changed conditions mass Civil Disobedience envisaged by the resolution of Angust, 1942 cannot be offered and (b) that full cooperation in the war effort should be given by Congress, provided that His Majesty's Government (a) declare immediate Indian independence, and (b) form a 'National Government' responsible to the Central Assembly subject to the provise that during Assembly, subject to the proviso that, during the pendency of the wir, the military operations should continue as at present but without They are real and can be solved only by mutual involving any financial burden on India"

"His Mijesty's Government remain most anxious that a settlement of the Indian problem those put forward by you are quite unreceptable to His Majesty's Government as a basis for discussion, and you must realise this if you have read Mr Amery's statement in the House of Commons on July 28th last. They are indeed very similar to the proposals made by Maulana Abul Kalam Azad to Sir Stafford Cripps in April 1942 and His Majesty's Government's reasons for rejecting them are the same as they were then. should be reached But proposals such as as they were then

"Without recapitulating all these reasons in detail, I should remind you that His Majesty's Government at that time made it clear (a) That their offer of unqualified freedom after the cessation of hostilities was made conditional upon the framing of a constitution agreed by the main elements of Indias national life and the negotiation of the necessary treaty arrangements with His Majesty's Govern treaty arrangements with His Majesty's Govern ment, (b) That it is impossible during the period of hostilities to bring about any change in the constitution, by which means alone a National Government," since it is you suggest, could be made responsible to the Central Assembly The object of these conditions was to ensure the fulfilment to their duty to safeguard the interests of the racial and religious minorities and of the Depressed Classes, and their treats obligations to the Indian States

It was upon the above conditions that Hls Majesty's Government invited Indian leaders to take part in an interim government which would operate under the existing con-stitution. I must make it quite clear that "It is clear, in these circumstances, that no purpose would be served by discussion on the basis which you suggest. If, however, the leaders of the Hindus, the Mushnis and the important minorities were willing to eo operate in a transitional Government established and working within the present constitution, I believe good progress might be made For such a transitional government to suceeed there must, before it is formed, be agreement in principle between Hindus and Muslims and all important elements as to the method by which the new constitution should be framed This agreement is a matter for Indians themselves Until Indian leaders have come closer together than they are now I doubt if I myself can do anything to help Let me remind

"The period after the termination of hostilities for which the transitional Government would last would depend on the speed with which the new constitution could be framed. I see no unnecessary time need be spent after the war in reaching final conclusions and in agreeing on treaty arrangements with His Majesty's Government There again, the primary respon-sibility rests on the Indian leaders"

Mr Gandhi's reaction—Commenting on the Viceroy's reply, Mr Gandhi said "the Viceroy's proposition means that unless all the infinite parties agree as to the constitution of the future, and there is agreement between the British Government and the main parties there is to be no change in the constitutional position, and the Government of India as at present is to be carried on The names of the parties given in the Government reply are illustrative only. I have no doubt that, on due occasions, more will be exhibited as from a conjurer's bag and who knows how and when the British Government will agree to surrender control. It is clear as crystal that the British Government do not propose that the British Government do not propose to give up the power they possess over the 400 milhons, unless the latter develop strength enough to wrest it from them. I shall never lose hope that India will do so by purely moral

Political circles in India generally welcomed etitution I must make it quite clear that until the war is over, responsibility for defence and the war is over, responsibility for defence and military operations—cannot be divided and Mr Jinnah although some Liberal leaders from the other responsibilities of Government questioned the wisdom of the acceptance of and that until hostilities cease and the new constitution is in operation, His Majesty's spokesman derisively referred to it as "from Government and the Governor General must 'Quit India' to 'Split India' A fierce constitution that responsibility over the entire field so far as the question of India's share of the cost of the war is concerned, this is essentially does not block the way, but the British Governanter for settlement between His Majesty's ment do not want a just settlement of the Indian cl im fo independ nee which is overdu and they are using Mr Jinnah as a clock in d major in did least on of communications provided a freedom to India. his followers felt that what oppressed Mr based on the support of the main political Gandhi was "the propaganda of hes, the black parties—night not be more serviceable to markets, the criminal tendency to hoard while others starve, and, above all, the people s own others starve, and, above all, the people s own such a National Government during the war, complacency in regard to these crying evils and to the question of India's freedom 'A measure of heart-searching on the part of Congressmen followed, but resulted in nothing speetaeular Eventually, the contemplated food fast gave place to a "work fast" for a few weeks

Viceroy's Appeal—Addressing, the Associated Chambers of Commerce in December 1944, the Viceroy wished India could solve her political problems and present a united front to what would be, for at least some years to come, a stern, difficult, troubled world "If she is still tossing with the fever of political faction, or if her political doctors decide that she must undergo a major surgical operation such as Pakistan, she may miss the opportunity that is hers to take, but can be taken only by a nation at health within itself and fit for a struggle that will test every nerve and sinew —the struggle for greater well being and greater happiness in this great land. If I may be permitted to assume for the moment the role of medical adviser to political India, my advice would be something like tills

'I do not believe that your condition calls for a serious operation, I should certainly try all other possible remedies first. But I do not think that that "Quit India" mixture or those Satyagraha pills have done you much good I should suggest your leaving off medicines alterether and you may find that you are not altogether, and you may find that you are not as ill as you think Perhaps some fresh alr and work in the fields would do you good'

"In other words, I do not believe that there are now real differences in principle between India and Britain, or that the communal pro blem, difficult though it is, is insoluble. But also I do not believe that we can solve our problems by mutual reerliminations and by harping on past grievances and mistakes. Our best hope hes in working together, without trying to law down detailed conditions or to trying to lay down detailed conditions or to deelde everything before we begin work. To return to the medical metaphor for a moment, I think the first requirement for a return to health is a falth cure, a belief in the good intentions of the British people and in their genulne desire for a settlement and for the welfare and self-government of the Indian people I can certainly assure you that I should not be here if I did not believe in those

It is commonly said that our current and post-war problems can only be solved by a National Government, but the precise meaning of the term is seldom or never defined. I am afraid that to some a National Government may mean a government in which their own

it would quite elearly and quite definitely have to function under the existing Constitution, no material change of which is possible during the war And its primary task would have to be support of the war effort, not by mere up service which is useless, but sincercly and whole-heartedly

"It is now once more fashlonable to demand a move by His Majesty's Government 'to solve the deadlock' The previous rejections of their offers must initurally make His Majesty's Government chary of a further advance until they feel that the spirit of compromise and co operation is real But their desire for a solution remains perfectly genuine, and I have tried to indicate lines on which progress might be attempted, if the Indian leaders desire it "

Desai-Liagat Talks—In the winter of 1944-45 an interesting development occurred whileh at least provided an opening for big political changes in the summer of 1945 Mr Bhulabhai J Desai, Leader of the Congress Party in the Assembly, initiated negotiations with Nawabzada Liagat Ah Khan, Deput Leader of the Mushm League Party in the Assembly These led up to a proposal by the former which met with a measure of encouragement from the latter. At one time it was ment from the latter At one time it was believed to have resulted in a pact between the two in their individual capacity, it being assumed that neither would have continued In their efforts without the taelt approval of their respective principals, namely, Mr Gandhi and Mr Jinnah The facts, (as revealed by Nawabada Liagat Ali Khan in September 1945) showed that Mr Desai had suggested a formula for an interim agreement between the Congress and the League It is known that Mr Desai discussed this formula with Lord Wavell and that, although its main provisions were varied, it provided the basis for the proposal made by the Viceroj in Jine 1945 and in a sense for the Simh Conference (see later) Here is the Nawabzada's version, which is the only authoritative statement on the subject

Mr Desa met me after the last autumn session of the Central Legislative Assembly and we informally discussed the prevaling distressing conditions in the country, economic and otherwise. It was recognised all round that the Government of India, with its present composition, was lucapable of dealing effectively with the various problems which had arisen and were bound to arise in the future

"Mr Desu, during the course of the con-gersation, asked me about the attitude of the nay mean a government in which that of a versation, asked me about the attitude of the National Government as one formed to meet Missim League with regard to some interim a national crisis in which 'none are for a party but all are for the State' I contend that we have such a Government now, a preponderantly Executive Council in a manner which would be some of all the source for it the confidence of all the peoples but all arc for the State. "The proposed new Connell would repre ent the main communities and would include equal proportions of caste Hindus and Muslims It would work, if formed under the existing constitution But it would be an entirely Indian council, except for the Viceros and the Communiter-in Chief, who would retain his position as War Member

"It is also proposed that the portfolio of External Affairs which has hitherto been held by the Viceros should be placed in charge of an Indian member of the Council, so far as the interests of British India are concerned

"A further step proposed by Ills Majesty s Government is the appointment of a British High Commissioner in India, as in the Dominions, to represent Great Britain's commercial and in this fresh attempt to make progress towards other such interests in India

"Such a new Lecutive Council will, you realise, represent a definite advance on the road to self-government. It will be almost entirely Indian, and the Limance and Home Members will, for the first time, be Indians, while an Indian will also be charged with the management of India's forcign affairs, moreover the members will now be selected by the Governor General after consultation with political leaders though their appointment will of course be subject to the approval of His Majesty the King-Emperor

"The Council wil work within the framework of the present constitution and there can be no question of the Governor-General agreeing not to exercise his constitutional power of control, but it will of course not be exercised unreasonably

"I should make it clear that the formation of this interim Government will in no way prejudice the final constitutional settlement

The main tasks for this new Executive Council

- (1) to prosecute the war against Japan with the utmost energy till Japan is utterly defeated,
- (2) to carry on the Government of British India, with all the manifold tasks of post-war development in front of it, until a new permanent constitution can be agreed upon and comes into force, and
- to consider when the members of the Government think it possible, the means by which such agreement can be achieved. The third task is the most important. I want to make it quite elear that neither I nor His Majesty's Government have lost sight of the need for a long-term solution, and that the present proposals are intended to make a long-term solution. term solution easier
- 'I have considered the best means of forming such a Council, and have decided to invite the following to Viceregal Lodge to advise

Those now holding office as Premier in a provincial Government, or, for provinces now under Section 93 Government, those who last held the office of Premier,

The leader of the Congress Party and the Executive Council more representative of Deputy leader of the Muslim League in the organised political opinion (entral Assembly the leaders of the Congress Parts and the Muslim League in the Council of State, also the leaders of the Nationalist Party and the I propern Group in the Assembly

Mr Gandil and Mr Jinnah as the recognised hadres of the two main political parties,

Rao Bahadar N Siva Raj to represent the Scheduled Classes, and

Master Jara Singh to represent the Siklis

"Invitations to these gentlemen are being handed to them today, and it is proposed to assemble the conference on June 25 at Simia, where we shall be cooler than at Delhi

"I trust that all those invited will attend the confirmee and give me their help. On me and on them will lie a heavy responsibility a final settlement of India s future

"If the meeting is successful I hope that we shall be able to agree on the formation of the new Executive Council at the Centre

"I also hope that it will be possible for ministries to reassume office and again undertake the tasks of Government in the provinces administered under Section 93 of the Constitution Act and that these ministries will be coalitions

"If the meeting should unfortunately fail, we must carry on as at present until the parties are ready to come together. The existing Executive Council which has done such valuable work for India will continue if other arrangements cannot be agreed to

"But I have every hope that the meeting will succeed, if the party leaders will approach the problem with the sincere intention of working with me and with each other

"I can assure them that there is behind the proposal a most genuine desire on the part of all responsible leaders in the United Kingdom and of the British people as a whole to help India towards the goal I beheve that this is more than a step towards the goal, it is a considerable stride forward, and a stride on the right path

"I should make it clear that these proposals affect British India only and do not make any alteration in the relations of the Princes with the Crown Representative

"With the approval of His Majesty's Government, and after consultation with my Council, orders have been given for the immediate release of the members of the Working Committee of the Congress who are still in detention, I propose to leave the final decision about the others still under detention as the result of the 1942 disturbances to the new Central Government, if formed, and to the provincial Governments

The appropriate time for fresh elections for the central and provincial legislatures will be discussed at the conference

Meanwhile Mr Gandhi had r celved the witati n to which in plici I h n 1 dividual advice May I then say caste and castl s Hi dus tically mind d? Ti er fore will represent them at your table? Not the and that the Congress Premiers had been held Congress which seeks to represent without up pending the Working Committees decision distinction all Indians who desire and work He therefore requested His Leelleney to clarify for independence Hence the existence of the the issue raised by him (Mr Gindhi) and to Hindu Mahasabha cluming to represent Illudus send an invitation direct to the Congress as such I apprehend that even that hods will declaim representing easte Hindus More over your broaderst seems rigorously to evelude the use of the world independence Accordingly It seems to me to demand a revision to bring It in line with modern Indian thought"

The Viceroy demed that the term "easte Hindus" was used with offensive intention, adding that what was meant was that there should be equality between Mushms and Hindus other than the members of the scheduled eastes Subject to this, the exact composition of the Executive Council would have to be decided after discussion at the Simia Conference. On the question of independence, Ills Excellency said, on the authority of the Secretary of State for India, that "the offer of March 1942 stands in its entirety. The offer is based on two in its entirety The offer is based on two main principles first, no limit is set to Indla's freedom to decide her own destiny whether as a free partner in the Commonwealth or even without it, secondly, that this can only be achieved under a constitution or constitutions framed by Indians to which the main elements are consenting parties" His Excellency added that it would not be practicable to modify the terms of his Broadcast, but that he intended to deal at the Conference itself with any points requiring clarification

Replying, Mr Gandhi said "If flyity of parity between caste Hindus and Mushms is unchangeable, religious division will become officially stereotyped on the eve of independence Personally, I can never subscribe to it, nor the Congress, if I know its mind. In spite of having overwhelmingly Hindu membership, the Congress has striven to be purely political I am quite capable of advising the Congress to nominate all non Hindus and most decidedly non-easte Hindus. You will quite unconsciously, but equally surely, defeat the purpose of the Conference if parity between caste Hindus and Muslims is unalterable. Parity between Congress and the League is understandable. I am eager to help you and the British people, but not at the sacrifice of fundamental and universal principles, for it will be no help." officially stereotyped on the eve of independence

In a letter supporting his telegrams, Mr Gandhi affirmed that he could not officially represent the Congress but offered to place himself at the Viceroy's services if he could help without being a member of the conference Mr Gandln suggested that the President of the Congress be invited to the Conference

The Viceroy wired in reply that he understood Mr Gandhl's position, but that he hoped means might be found for him (Mr Gandhi) to take part in the proceedings of the Conference His Excellency requested Mr Gandhi to invite the Congress President to the Conference on behalf of the Viceroy

President in order to save time

The Viceroy responded with an intimation that he had sent an invitation to the Congress President As for the other points rulsed by Air Gandhi, His Lecelleney said that he could not change his broaderst which constituted the terms of reference to the Conference, but added that "none of the persons or parties concerned is expected or required to accept or reject the proposals now The only immediate question is whether the proposals are worth discussing at the Conference "

Mr Gandhi answered that the fact that the members were free at the conference to accept or reject the proposals cleared the ground for the invitees to attend the Conference Although his objection to parity between Muslims and Caste Hindus continued, he agreed to meet the Viceroy on the day preceeding the Conference

Barring the Congress and the League, which wanted certain points cleared, and the Hindu Mahasabha, which was resentful not only of the element of parity contained in the scheme but also of the evelusion of Hindus from representation on the Conference the general opinion in India was favourable to the Wavell Plan In Britain, the opinion was enthusiastically in support of it Mr Amery declared that the Viceroy's veto would be exercised in the interests not of Britain but of India

On receipt of the Viceroy's Invitation the Congress President informed His L-celleney that the question would be placed before the Congress Working Committee and that the latter's decision would be communicated to the Viceroy

Mr Gandhi gave a lead to the Working Committee by observing that the composition of the Simla Conference was "a very great advance upon all similar bodies" Whereas in all the previous conferences convened by the British Government the members had been nominated by the Government principally, on the present occasion the invitees were underno obligation to the Government for their nomination, so that they need not vote or speak merely to placate the Government This was echoed by the Congress President who observed that "we are very near our goal of complete independence. There remain only the control of the burdless late with determination of complete independence There remain only one or two hurdles Lut with determination, unity and strength we will cross them"

The Congress Working Committee met in might be found for him (Mr Gandhi) to take part in the proceedings of the Conference. His Excellency requested Mr Gandhi to invite the Congress President to the Conference on behalf of the Vicerov

Without the acceptance of the amendments suggested by him, Mr Gandhi declined to invite the Congress President on behalf of the Viceroy, and pointed out that private telegraphic communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy, the Working Communication was tardy. "I want to give you a little background"

"Therefore," Mr Jinnah declared "there is no adequate provision against the Congress

"I want to give you a little background First, the Mushm League presed its resolution in Delhi in Mirch 1943, and we there formulated our demand. The demand was that we were always ready to consider any proposals or of representation on the provisional Central Government—at that time the party meant was the Congress—provided the British Government—at the congress—provided the British Government—at the congress—provided the British Government—at the congress—provided the British Government—at the congress—provided the British Government—at the congress—provided the British Government and congress—provided the British Government and congress—provided the British Government and congress—provided the British Government and congress—provided the British Government and congress—provided the British Government and congress — provided the British Government and congress — provided the British Government and congress — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Government — provided the British Manual — provided the British Manual — provided the British Manual — provided the British Manual — provided the British Manual — provided the British Manual — provided the British Manual — provided the British Manual — provided the British Manual — provided the B ment made a declaration guaranteeing to the Mussalmans the right of self-determination and undertaking to abide by the verdiet of the Mussalmans to give effect to the Pakistan scheme in accordance with the principles out lined in the Lahore resolution of the All-India Muslim League In 1940

'The Wavell proposals do not coneede or accord with the declaration referred to Both the Viceroy's broadcast and the announcement by the Secretary of State contain certain negative assurances

'Now, as regards the Scheduled Castes, their real grievance is of social tyranny and economic oppression in Hindu society, but with regard to political ideal or political goal, it is the same so far as the Scheduled Castes re coucerned So, the representative or representatives of the Scheduled Castes will in the world "I do not think you will find it anywhere not have any particular bias for us, although in the world There are a handful of Muslims I repeat we have the fullest sympathy with who are outside the League, there are Muslims

"As regards Sikh representation, they are already opposed to dividing India and their political idea and goal are the same as those of the Congress. And so, they are not likely to have any particular blas for us

" As to any other community, I do not know

"Then there will be two British members, the Commander-In-Chief and the Viceroy The composition of this Council, will, therefore, be such as to enable—the Congress invariably to command a majority

"I know the Viceroy's veto is there, and I know that Mr Amery says that the veto will be exercised to protect the minorities, but also I know that the Governor-General and Vleeroy will be placed in a very invidious position if he were to exercise the veto constantly and as a normal business

"The powers and functions of the proposed

" There is nothing in the proposals, if accepted, that will debar members of the Council from dealing with the whole problem of reconstruc-tion entirely as they please. It will be for them to decide the industrial, agricultur if and health policies and so on. It will be in and health policies and so on It will be in their power, so far as British India is concerned, to represent her as ministers in foreign capitals, and in which capitals India wishes to be re-presented The proposals, if accepted, impose no real burder or check upon India's freedom

foreing their decisions by a majority vote against the Muslim block Therefore, we will have to eonsider how to provide against this position We are willing to make full contribution to

We are willing to make full contribution to any just and reasonable settlement

"Mussalmans desire honestly to come to a settlement and not play with facts And I do not think it can possibly be denied that 99 per cent of the Mussalmans of India are with the League We have not lost a single by election, except one—that was in the early days of 1937—out of about 70 by elections. The total number of Mushum members in all the programment legislatures and the Central the provincial legislatures and the Central Legislature is somewhere about 600 and out of them there are only about 30 who are Congressite Mushims and who happened to be in one or the other provincial legislature

"I am told that in the Central Legislature, there is not a single Congressite Muslim from a Muslim electorate. There are two Muslims who have been returned by joint electorates. We maintain, therefore, that the Muslim League alone and nobody else is entitled to give the names for the entire Muslim block to the Viceroy There cannot be un immity in this world

Letter from Sir Lyan Jenkins to Mr Jinnah, dated July 0, 1045. "Dear Mr Jinnah—His Excellency asks me to thank you for your letter of 7th July, and to say that he will be glad to see you at 4 pm this afternoon, or later this afternoon if that is more convenient to your Perlang ton yould be that described you Perhaps you would be kind enough to ask your secretary to ring me up and confirm the time -Lours Sineerely, L. M. Jenkins"

Letter from Ford Wavell to Mr Jinnal dated July 9, 1915 - "Dear Mr Jinnah -At the end of our talk resterdar evening you sald that I could make your problem easier if I replied in writing to sour letter of 7th July I do not think you expect any comment now on the first and third points in that letter Our talk was concerned mainly with the second point, 'that all the Mushm members of the proposed Executive Connell should be chosen from the Muslim League before they are finally recommended to the Crown for appoint-

"I fully appreciate your difficulties, but regret that I am unable to give you the guarantee you wish, ic, that all the Muslim members of the proposed new Council shall necessarily be members of the Muslim League As I request to your I council to yield to explained to you, I cannot commit inviself to give similar guarantee to any other party I have to attempt to form an Lyccutive Conneil representative, competent, and generally acceptable. But of course I cannot compel any person or any party to co operate in my own solution if they do not wish to do so

"It will help me greatly if you will let me have names from the Muslim League and I sincerely hope you will do so I asked for eight, but will certainly accept five if you do not wish to send more. You can consider do not wish to send more later whether any solution I put forward is acceptable to you

"During the next two or three years decisions of great importance will have to be taken by the Government of India, whatever its composition may be These decisions—on demobilisation, economic development, taxation, trade and so on-eannot wait, and it is the hope of H M G that the Executive Council responsible for them will be one in which the major political parties are represented It will be, of course, my principal duty to see fairplay between all parties not only in the composition of the proposed Council but in its working

I need the active help of your colleagues and yourself, and I am sure you will give it to me I have no objection to your showing this letter to your colleagues, but it is not intended publication - Yours Sincerely, (Wavell)"

Letter from Mr Jinnah to Lord Wavell,—I thank you for your letter of the 9th July which thank you for your letter of the 9th July which I placed before my Working Committee The Committee, after giving its very eareful consideration to the matter, desires me to state that It regrets very much to note that Your Excellency is not able to give the assurance that all the Muslim members of the proposed Executive Council will be selected from the Muslim League In my letter of the 7th July I mentioned that the Committee considers this as one of the fundamental principles, and in the eigenmentances, I regret I am not in a position to send the names on behalf of the dustin I carue for inclusion in the Executive Council, as desired by you

"I should like to assure Your Lxedlerey that it has been the carnest desire of the Com mittee and myself to assist you in every reason able way, but it is not possible for us to deput from our fundamental principles

"I need not, therefore, at present say any thing more with regard to the other points raised —Yours Sincerely, (M. A. Jinnah)

Letter from the Secretary to the Governor General to Mr Jinuah, dated July 10, 1945 "Dear Mr Jinuah,—His Lycellency asks me to thank you for your letter of 9th July will have to take two or three days to consider the position and will write to you when he has decided what to do—Yours Sineerely (etc.)

When the Conference reassembled on July 14, the Viceroy aunounced the fallure of his efforts

"As you know, my original intention was that the conference should agree upon the council, and that thereafter the parties should send me lists of names To these lists I would, if necessary, have added names of my own, and attempted to form on paper an Executive Council which might be acceptable to His Majesty's Government, myself, and the conference, I intended to discuss selections with the leaders, and finally to put them to the conference

"Unfortunately, the conference was unable to agree about the strength and composition of the Excentive Council, and on the 29th June I undertook, with the approval of the conference, to endeavour to produce a solution not based on any formula agreed in advance I asked the parties to let me have lists of names and said I would do what I could to produce a solution acceptable to the leaders and to the conference

"I received lists from all parties represented here except from the European Group, who deelded not to send a list, and the Muslim League I was, however, determined that the conference should not fall until I had made every possible effort to bring it to a successful ending I therefore made my provisional selections, including certain Muslim League names, and I have every reason to believe that if these selections had been acceptable here they would have been acceptable to His Majesty's Government

"My selections would, I think, have given a balanced and efficient Executive Council whose composition would have been reasonably fair to all parties I did not find it possible, however, to accept the claims of any party in full When I explained my solution to Mr Jinnah he told me that it was not acceptable to the Muslim League and he was so decided that I felt it would be useless to continue the discussion eireumstanees, I did not show my selections as a whole to Mr Jlnnah, and there was no object in showing them to the other leaders The conference has therefore failed

"Nobody can regret this more than I do myself I wish to make it clear that responsibility for the failure is mine main idea underlying the conference was mine

sttributed to me and I cannot place the blame for its failure upon any of the parties

I ask the party leaders to sceept this view and to do all they can to ensure that there are n recriminations. It is of the utmost import ance that thi effort to secure agreement between the parties and communities should not result in a worsening of communal feeling I a k you sli to evercise the greatest possible restraint

The Maulana edded While fully bearing and assume edged white fully bearing in mind the fact that the present arrangement is purely temporary and interim and should not possibly be regarded as a precedent for the permanent arrangement of the future I should like to emphasise and make it pe fectly elear that the Congress is essentially a national organisation and it cannot possibly be a party to any arrangement lonsoever interim and temporary it may be that prejudies its national charact r tends to impair the growth of nation alism or reduces it directly or indirectly to a communal body on the plan You can realised and resulting the control of the plan and the plan the set Wo we e thrown into a new realised and spite the difficulties the Wo king said that of r s at the precent situation was decided to prittiply in the We realised that trust changes successfully reached the war against Japan would have become not Britain's war against Japan, but India's war against Japan. There eould not be two opinions as regards the question of liberating countries in South-Past Asia. It would be the duty of the new Government of India to carry on the war against Japan cease lessly till those countries were liberated, but fift was the desire and intention of the Powers that the status quo in those countries should be restored, then surely the new Indian Government would not be a party to it. They would not permit a single Indian soldier or the expenditure of a single pie for the maintenance of the status quo of the South East Asia countries.

On the question of Caste Hludin-Muslim parity, which formed the basis of the new proposals, he said that he had impressed on the Viceroy that in the constitution of the new Government, the eriterion should be the political views held by the parties and not religious belief. The Congress did not wish to attach undue importance to the fact of a few more Muslims beling in the Government or there being fewer Hindus. "I raised all these issues at the conference itself, and I must say the replies His Excellency gave were to my mind reassuring," he said

"After the settlement of those fundamental issues, the conference came to consider the strength and composition of the new Executive Council," said Maulana Azad. "The conference was adjourned to couble private and informal talks to be carried on amongst the parties for a settlement. You know the conversations led to no results."

"In the course of those informal talks, the position taken up by Mr Jinnah was that the Muslim League on behalf of the Muslims should nominate Muslim members in the new Executive Council The Congress found that such a position would be inconsistent with its basic national character. You must remember that as far as we are concerned it is not merely a question of seats, but one affecting the fundamental principle. We were prepared to accommodate the Muslim League, but Mr Jinnah took up an uncompromising attitude."

The Viceroy asked the various groups to submit lists of names from which His Excellency would choose, after consultation with partyleader. Mr Jinnah refused to submit names "In the interview I had with His Excellency on July 12, he told me that so far as the Muslim seats were concerned, he had endeavoured to prepare a list and seek Mr Jinnah s approval, said Mullani Azad "The Vicerov further told me that he did his best, but failed to persuade Mr Jinnah who insisted that the Muslim nominees should be nominated by the League Working Committee The Viceroy was unable to agree to it, and felt it was not profitable to proceed with the proposals at present to proceed with the proposals at present Maulana Azad also revealed that he had made an offer to the League that he would not press for the inclusion of the Congress Muslims in the seats reserved for the Muslims in the proposed reconstituted Executive Council

in the proposed reconstituted Executive Council
His proposal was that if the League agreed to the inclusion of two able and suitable national ist Mushms who belonged neither to the Congress nor to the League, he would not insist upon the inclusion of my Congress Mushims

He made this offer on his own responsibility and before he had a chance to consult his colleagues of the Working Committee, but he felt confident that if the League had proved agreeable, he would have been able to persuade the Congress Working Committee to necept the suggestion

"Two points arise at present The first is that the attitude of the Muslim League has been responsible for the failure of the conference. The second point which emerges from the refusal of the Muslim League is that it is for I ord Wavell to decide whether to go forward or not. His Excellency has decided not to proceed for the present. In this connection I must say what I said at the conference.
The British Government could not absolve themselves of the responsibility for the eom munal problem here

"So long as the third Party remains in India, these difficulties will remain as pawns on a cliess-board and will continue to move in this fashlon. Whether it is today or tomorrow they must take up a firm stand in a just and fair basis. There is no other alternative but to do that. And once a decision is taken, we must move forward. Those who are prepared to go forward must be allowed to go forward and those who wish to be kept out should be left out. Without determination nothing could be done. Wavering minds and Intering steps will never earry us forward in the path of progress. We must think before we take a step. And once we decide hesitation is no virtue but a sign of definite weakness. There is nothing new in this so called communal problem.

"I have no regrets whatsoever for the Congress stand at this conference,' Maulana

Azad emphasised

Asked how in view of the fact that the broadcast and the White Paper referred to an agreement amongst parties for the success of the plan the Government could be blamed for the failure of the conference, he replied "That is true We accepted the invitiation, knowing full well the position But that certainly does not mean that any group should be given the right to veto or that any group should be given the right to veto or that any group should be allowed to impede the progress of the country. It should be seen that no party takes up a stand which is obviously wrong. There could never be perfect unanimity"

He contested the claim that the Muslim League was the sole representative and authoritative organisation of the Muslims of India In the provinces where Muslims were in a majority, there was no League Ministry There was a Congress Ministry in the Frontier Province In the Punjab, it was a Unionist Ministry In Sind, Sir Ghulain Husseln depended on Congress support, and the same was the position in Assam It would not, therefore, be claimed that the Muslim I cague represented all the Muslims. There was a large bloe of Muslims who had nothing to do with the League Mr Juniah said "On a final examination

The Hindu Mahasabha.

The Hindu Mahasabha, which in recent vers This was, however, neutralised subsequently as claimed a growing share of public attention as far as official recognition was concerned, India, is an organisation of comparatively at the Sinia Conference, for example, not only cent origin. Its beginnings can be traced to was the Hindu Mahasabha was denied repre has claimed a growing share of public attention In India, is an organisation of comparatively In India, is an organisation of compressively recent origin. Its beginnings can be traced to the first years of the current century, almost simultaneous with the awakening of Muslim consciousness in 1906 and in vigour equal but opposite to that of the Muslim Communal organisation

During the first twenty five years of its life, the Hindu organisation had to struggle for Its existence, what with the proverbial indifference of the Hindu masses, the inherent inability of majorities the world over to organise, and the better response which the Congress with its wider nationalistic appeal evoked among the Hindus All this time, however, the causes which hampered the growth of the Hindu organisation were gradually, if imperceptibly, neutralised instance, the Hindu community's Indifference began to give place to communal consciousness as a result of a number of Hindu-Muslim rlots in which the majority community came out second best—The waves of conversion from the Hindu fold, partly due to the discontent of the outcastes and partly because of the proselytising nature of the Islamic and Christian religions, opened the eyes of Hindu leaders to the growing decrease in the number of people owing allegiance to the Hindu faith

In addition to the reasons stated above, the political gains secured by the Muslim community under the Minto-Morley and Montague Chelms ford Reforms Schemes taught the Hindu community to come together and set up an organisation which will voice its claims in future adjust-

Even the wider platform of national emaneipation and Hindu-Muslim unity from which the Congress appealed to the Hindu mind has latterly given signs of weakness, because Hindu-Muslim concord, far from coming within reach, threatens to go beyond grasp

It is however, wrong to assume that the Hindu organisation is anywhere near as powerful as the Congress, or even the Mushm League of the past six or seven years The Hindu Mahasabha has undoubtedly consolidated its position in recent years, most Hindus, not eveluding many Congressmen, professing nationalistic ideals, have a sneaking sympathy for the Mahasabha, but when it comes to a question of elections to representative institutions, the Mahasabha has falled to make an appeal to the Hindu electorate to the evelusion of the Congress to the exclusion of the Congress

Just as the Muslim League, ln splte of its not very flattering success at the polls in 1937, has become a mighty organisation among the Mushms of India, similarly the Hindu Mahasabha has given proofs of considerable following among the Hinduand even of a certain amount of powerby His Excellency the Vicercy In 1940, for the first time in its history, the Mahasabha was recognised as an organisation influential enough in the country to be reckoned with for purposes of political power is bound to be shifted in their of representation in the Central Government

sentation but its demands found no place

Speaking for the present, however, it is difficult to say whether the status now enjoyed the Mahasabha will continue in the event of the Congress coming to a settlement with the British Government, because the Congress has been in the field for a much longer period and has perfected its organisation in the country to an extent which the Mahasabha has yet to achieve

Morcover, it was only recently that the Mahasabha struck out a path of its own, to the point of hostlity to the Congress, having in the first twenty or twenty-five years of its existence contented itself with occupying a status subordinate to that of the Congress and secking only to emphasise the communal claims of the Hindu as distinct from their national claims

During the past two or three years, the Mahasabha has figured prominently—advocating, from the communal point of view, more aggressive opposition to the Muslim claims than the Congress and, from the political standpoint, a less militant programme and polley than the Congress Even in respect of the latter the Mahasabha has of late tended to become less and less "soft" For instance, at the last session of the All India Committee of the Mahasabha its leaders, some of including a Knight, renounced their titles as a protest against the British pohey towards Hindus in general and the Mahasabha in particular Brond hints were thrown at the prospect of a movement to be launched by the Mahasabha for "national liberation and the vindication of Hindu rights" When the Congress went into the wilderness in August 1942, the Hindu Mahasabha camo into the lime light as it was the only organisation to which the Hindus could look up both for urging the Hindu cause. as against the militant communalism of the Mushm League and generally to propagate nationalism which, so to say, went by default as the result of the then Congress policy

Those who first urged the community to organisc were actuated by a fear lest the numerical strength of the community should be adversely affected by the proselytising activities of the champions of other faiths A Hindu leader, for instance, remarked "Political power and the community of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champions of the champ in democracies hinges more and more on the population strength of a community which in the case of the Hindus must depend in the main on the proportion in which the Hindus succeed in stopping the dreadful conversion activities of alien faiths and in accelerating the reclamation of the alienated numbers back to the Hindu fold In a country like India where a religious unit tends inevitably to grow into a cultural and national unit, the Suddhi (reconversion to Hinduism) movement ceases to be merely theological or dogmatic, but assumes the wider significance of a political and national movement. If the Austria increase in population, the centre favour "

Another Hindu leader sald which does not know itself does not feel its individual pulse does not pride in its past and belle initsfutnre is to all intent and purposes a dead and self effaced community. In order to exist at all and exi t in the midst of a struckle where the universal i w is encrosed ment and survival of the fittest the very first and most preliminary need is to realise individual existence

For a period of six or seven years since 1937 Mr Savarkar was Hindu-India's No 1, until, dwing to his ill health, his place was taken by the Bengah leader Dr Syama Prasad Mooker jee In 1937 the Mahasabha declared as its goal the attainment of complete independence by all legitimate and peaceful means. In 1945 some prominent Mahasablia leaders gave up their titles as a token sacrifiee for their ideals

In the Limelight —The declaration of war in September 1939, followed as it was by numerous efforts by His Excellency the Viceroy to get leaders of Indian opinion to agree on the political and constitutional issues with a view to unifying and intensifying Indla's war effort, brought the Hindu Mahasabha very much into the limelight. It was in 1939 40 that the Mahasabia secured for the first time official recognition at the fiands of the Govern ment of India, a fact which was appreciated hy the annual session of the Mahasabha in 1940 When His Excellency the Viceroy summoned leaders of different communities and interests for consultation on the political question, the Hindu Mahasabha insisted that it alone had the right to speak in the name of the Hindu eommunity The resolution passed by the Mahasabha welcomed "the recognition by the Viceroy and the Secretary of State that the political situation in the country cannot be satisfactorily solved without the co-operation of the Hindu Mahasabha, which is the most outstanding body representing the Hindu community's interests "

In the middle of 1940 when the Viceroy was considering the best method of associating representative Indian opinion with the gover-nance of India by means of an expanded Central Executive Council, the Hindu Mahasabha Executive Council, the Hindu Mahasabha strongly advocated the claims of the Hindu community for adequate representation thereon, and stoutly resisted the claims of Mr Jinnah that the Muslim League should have a majority In the Central Executive Council if the Congress abstained from participation

This status of equality with the Muslim League, in the eyes of authority, the Mainsabha appears to have lost, witness the neglect it suffered at the time of the Simh Conference

Mahasabha and Indian States — A some-what recent development in the outlook of the Hindu Mahasabha is its attitude towards Indian States Presimably as a result of Muslim agitation in certain Hindu States, the Hindu Milasabha leadership took the side Mahasabha thought is to be found in a strong

Princes were not foreigners, he said, and as such their people should back them up in all their attempts to preserve their individuality Savarkar envisaged a bright future for the Indian Princes who, he thought, would be required to play a great part in laying the foundations of a united and free India

Opposition to Pakistan —During 1939 40 the Hindu Mahasabha was considerably exer-Pakistan —During eised over the demands of the Muslim League for the division of the country into Muslim and Hlndu Indias Anxiety was also expressed over the statements made by the Secretary of State for India on this subject, which were interpreted by the Mahasabha as conceding too much to the Muslims The Working Committee of the Mahasabha elaimed that India should be granted Dominion Status within a definite time limit and expressed the opinion that the statements made by the Viceroy and Mr L S Amery as highly "unsatisfactory and disappointing" in that they contained no reference to India's right to independence, which was the declared goal of the Mahasabha, and that the reference made to the grant of Dominion Status as an immediate step in constitutional advance was vague and uncertain The Statement to the effect that the British Government would not agree to hand over the administration of the country to a system of Government which would not be acceptable to large and powerful elements of Indian life, the Committee thought, required elarification as it was capable of the inter-pretation that if the Musilm League, the Princes or other vested interests opposed the recognition of the legitimate rights of the majority in India the further constitutional advance would be held up, or the rights of the majority would be surrendered to them. This would mean negation of the principle of demo-eracy and an incitement to the minorities to obstruct and revolt

Direct Action Threat — The annual session of the Mahasabha met at Madura in South India in December, 1940 and passed a resolution appreciating the recognition by the Viceroy and the Secretary of State that the political situation in the country could not be satisfactorily solved the Hindu Maha without the co operation of the Hindu Maha-

The resolution added that while reiterating faith in the goal of complete independence, the Hindu Mahasabha is prepared to accept Dominion Status of the Westminster type as the immedlate step

The resolution also called upon the Governof the Princes It is also conceivable that ment to recruit Hindus for the army and the Hindu leaders tried to emulate the example navy, make military training compulsory for of I eague leadership in regard to the authority Indians, and to promote the establishment of and prestige of some Muslim Princes whose war industries in India. The resolution conadministration was entirised by their Hindu cluded. "In ease the Government fails to tige of some Muslim Princes whose war industries in India The resolution contion was criticised by their Hindu cluded "In ease the Government fails to An example of this new trend in make a satisfactory response to the demands a thought is to be found in a strong embodied herein before March 31, 1941, the plea inade by Mr Savarkar to maintain Hindu Mahasabha will start a movement of direct States and strengthen them in all possible ways Hindu Princes and Hindu States he said were the centre of Hindu power with organised the campalgn of direct action after the lapse of machinery and trained armies Hindu Princes,

India is to be an effective partner in the struggle; for freedom, her defence policy must be determined and her defence arrangements must be made on the responsibility of her own defence minister enjoying the confidence of all sections of the people The trigic experiences of Malaya and Burma have demonstrated that apart from the deplorable failure of military strategy. the apathy and hostility of the people who were deliberately kept unarmed, contributed to application of the British reverses. "We note with satisfaction that this scheme provides for a constitution-making body for framing the future constitution of India, and that the constituent assembly may begin its work with the declaration of India's independence But the principle on which it will be constituted is vicious. The constitution-making body will be elected on the basis of the Communal Award which is not only anti-national but runs counter to the essential principles of democracy

"Unless and until the scheme of his Majesty's Government is radically altered and readjusted on the vivil issues mentioned above, the Hindu Mahasibha cannot be a party to the acceptance in smile has the scheme is to be accepted or rejected in toto"

The rejection did not mean, however, that the Mahasabha refused to co operate in any ease. In fact, Mr Swarkar agreed to join in a Government at the centre, in spite of the Mahasabha's opposition to the other parts. of the Cripps formula

The months that immediately followed the Cripps visit witnessed a strong demineration by Hindu Mahasabha leaders of the demand for Pakistan, rendered more fleree by the proposal of leaders like Mr C Rajagopalacharlar to settle with Mr Jinnih and the Muslim League on the basis of Pakistan When Mr Rajagopalacharlar s move was condemned even by the bulk of Congressmen (see chapter on the Indian National Congress) it is easy to under the Makes like leaders. stand the opposition of the Mahasabha leaders

Dr B S Moonje, for instance, expressed pain and humiliation at Mr Rajagopalachails and himiliation at Mr Rajagopalachal's insistent propaganda in favour of Pakistan and devise ways and means whereby Britain and her forget that he is a Brahmin and that for a Brahmin to talk of thisecting our holy land and motherind is bluspheny and, in the words of Sir 1ej Buhdur Sapra, 'a black treachers' If Muslims persist in regarding them thee is an aben or separate nation, with posting in common with the Hundre or mutual basis of the Mahasabha was checked with nothing in common with the Hindus or

When disturbanees broke out in the country after the arrest of the Congress leaders en August 9, 1942, the Mahasabha President appealed to his followers not to extend any active support to the Congress move, as the Congress resolution was bound to prove detrimental to Hindu interests and to the integrity and strength of India as a nation and State At the same time he urged Government to appease Indian discontent by an unequivocal Parliamentary declaration giving India the status of a completely free and equal partner in the Indo British Commonwealth, equal India with actual political power

The position of the Hindu Mahasabha was indeed unenviable It could not unduly condemn the Congress which had now given up the cry of "No swaraj without communal unity" and had instead gone all out to win freedom for the country irrespective of what the Mushims said or did Thus one of the major grievanees of the Hindu Mahasabha against the Congress had been removed. At the same the policy of the Congress was opposed to that of the Hindu Mahasabha which was one of responsive co operation. The Mahasabha would very much like the Congress demand for India's pohtical emaneipation being conceded without delay, but would not at the same time support the Congress methods

The period when the Congress was behind prison bars witnessed the growth of certain new elements within the Hindu Mahasabha A right wing came into being—rather the right wing forces which were already there came to the fore This comprised leaders like Dr Syama Prasad Mookerjee who were, in com-parison, for example, with Mr Savarkar, less communally minded, and more politically conscious

For a time there was a tussle between the old and the new forces, and the official policy of the Mahasabha fluctuated in consequence in August 1942 the Working Committee of the Maliasabha demanded immediate declaration of India's independent status and negotia tion by Britain with the principal parties in India to solve the political deadlock and establish an Indian National Government The relevant resolution stated that if the British Government dld not respond to the demand the Mahasabha would be compelled to revise its programme and devise ways and means whereby Britain and her Allies "will realise that India as a self respecting

This tendency to move away from the communit basis of the Mahasabha was checked wher in December 1942 the Vicerox, speaking at Clientia referred to the geographical unity of India and advised Indians to preserve Indian win nothing in common with the findus or main basis of the Mahasaha was checken thinks in, then the Hindus will be forced to where in December 1942 the Vicerox, speaking this them at their word and to treated. If they can be treated if they can be a should be considered in the conditions of parts of India they also noticed in the part of parts of India they also noticed as should be considered in the control of Pakistan and any proposal to the country. The failure of Mi Gandlii to evoke response from the Viceroy to this gesture soon after his release (see chapter on "The Indian National Congress") led the Mahasabha Working Committee to express deep concern at the constltutional deadlock which "continue to exist at a time when the war mence to India has become so real and so imminent" and regret that "Government have taken no practical steps towards resolving the deadlock and the establishment of national coalition Governments at the centre and in the provinces"

A resolution passed in July 1944 said "The Working Committee reiterates that no communal settlement will be acceptable to the Hindus which has not the approval of the Hindu Miliasaliba, and it will be a fatal mistake for Congress leaders to come to a patched-up agreement with the Muslim League so long as it persists in its Pakistan ideology and refuses to identify itself with the national interests of India as a whole The Working Committee declares that the smedal policy of appeasement, specially jeopardising Hindii rights, has not proved a success in the past, nor will it be so in the future. Instead of this policy being pursued, there should now be all India effort for uniting all progressive parties and organisation. tions throughout the country who believe in the unity and integrity of India on a common Indian national demand, and both Huidu and Muslim public opinion should be effectively mobilised on such lines. In the preparation of and in giving effect to, such a scheme the Hindii Maliasabha will be glad to offer its wholehearted co operation "

Reaction To C R Formula —Ironically enough, within a few weeks of the adoption of this resolution Mr C Rajagopalachari published the details of his negotiations with Mr Jimah on the basis of the Gandhi eum CR I ormula conceding the right of secession on certain conditions (see chapter on "The Indian National Congress) This roused a gorons protests from Mahasabha leaders Mr Savarkar rem irked

"Tron the 'Quit India' the Congress has Incyltably Linded on 'Split India' The Hindu Mili isablin hid forefold that just as the Swaraj Khilafat ended in strengthening the Khilafat forces and gave birth to the Pan Islamic move forces and gave birth to the Pan Islamle move at least of representative people of the provincement, the Swaraj Pikistan movement could result in strengthening the Pukistan forces." Dr Mookerjee 'Gandhiji feelingiy announced the added that this offer lad completely justified some time ago," continued Dr Mookerjee, the polley of the Miliasubha to refrain from that India's unity is an article of faith with the policy of the Miliasibha to refrain from being duped into the movement of Oult India which has now ended in such a interable fiasco."

' It is really unjust, observed Mr Savarkar, 'to look upon Mr Rajugopalachiri as the villam of this tracedy. The fict is that a Muslim Raj in India has always been looked upon by Gaudhiji and a large number of Congress-meres cent per cent Swirej. He contended that perther Mr. Gandhi nor Mr. Rajagopalachari and the authority to make a gift of any of the limitin provinces. He appealed to the Sanata to join hands with the Sanatanists in th efforts to organise the anti-Pakistan front

He made an appeal to all Hindus to save land from danger of being viviseeted, su "it is almost certain that no pact or service submission to Government on the part of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the same of the sam Congress can bring about any constitution change in India as long as the war lasts"

"The policy of satisfying disruptive for will not only fail, but will also give rise further disruption which will be numbered the highest interests of India" said Dr Syai Prasad Mookerjee He added "The solution." offered by-Mr Rajagopalachari will lead to t perpetuation of communal differences and t ideal of Indian Nationalism, for which t Congress and generations of Indian patric have fought, will never be realised Aff all, 90 per cent of the Muslims in India we originally Hindus and it is absurd to suggs that a mere change of religion will entitle the to demand a partition of India and the creatic of zones which will also include a large population of people pursuing other religions. Dr Syama Prasad Mookerjee said "Mischi has been done and it must be boldly rectific without delay." He suggested that publ opinion throughout India should vigorous opinion throughout mula should visited assert itself and indicate in no uncertain term that India would not accept any politic settlement based on the self determination principle of Pakistan of either the Jinnah of the Rajagopalachari brand "What surprise the Rajagopalachari brand" What surprise "18 us most, added Dr Mookerjee, Gandhin should have allowed his name to b dragged into this amazing offer which is partig acceptance of Pakistan India's freedom will never come by running after a man of Mi Jinnali's type Gandhiji was prepared give Muslims a blank cheque at the Round Tabi Conference Did that offer succeed? He adopted the attitude of 'neither accept no reject' regarding the Communal Award Die that please the Muslim League? He offered to make Mr Jinnali Prime Minister of India Did that change his outlook? Was it not morally fulr and equitable, before he committed himsel to Mr Jinnah on such a highly controversia issue, that he should have obtained the views him and if Pakistan is to come it is to come over his dead body. The arch magician of Madras has worked a miracle, making Gaudhiji forget this momentous declaration of his own

Militable suspicions were accentified by the prospect of Gandhi Jinnah negotiations Mali isabila leaders were so much disturbed by the fear of fresh concessions to Mr Jinnah that Dr Mookerjee sought elarification from Mr Gandhi on the latter's intentions

Ontlining his impressions of his talk with nit's to defind the peographical integrity of Mr. Gandhi, Dr. Mooderice made three points

Dr Mookerjee added "The British quack says there will be other means of solving the stead of curing the Indian patient, communal problem. The Cripps scheme, thus has already loaded him with dangerous maladles amended, may well then form a basis for Indo and has charged fees which are bleeding the British settlement so far as the future constitution to death. What India suffers from tution is concerned is a slow but dreadful poisoning and the doctor thrives on the patient's misfortune I agree "But the impasse during with Lord Wavell that the patient needs fresh then remain unsolved air, but that air must be pure and free Why ment is the party that it should not a consultative board of disinterested medical advisers from America, Russia and China—two of whom at least have saved the collapsing British patient himself—be called in numediately and if they sit along with the minal unity on the main political issues is Indian patient and the bungling British doctor impossible so long as the British Government and proceed with their task on the basis of the does not undo the mischief it has itself ereated Four-Freedom prescriptions, the Indian patient will immediately needer and be a good and strong ally Lord Wavell is right when he says that India needs a faith cure But this must be a faith in her own eapacity to lise and recover her lost liberty and not a faith to lean eternally on the charity of others, specially those who have already been guilty of numerous breaches of faith with him

"Leaving the doctors analogy aside, let analyse the Vleeroy's comments He is not us analyse the Vleeroy's comments prepared to have any modification of the present constitution during the war this means that India s destiny must completely remain in the hands of the totalitarian Viceroy and Governor-General If formal changes in the constitution are not possible, why can he not create a convention and trust a national cabinet consisting of representative Indians whose by Government to weaken and cripple the services will be readily available for organizing Hindus because it is they, more than any body national defence with the willing co-operation else, who have raised their standard of revolt

"Lord Wavell asks Indians to put faith prepared to reciprocate and trust an Indian Cabient to look after Indian interest Regarding the future constitution of India, the Cripps offer conceded India's right to frame her own constitution and India could seeede from the cuppre if she so liked. This however was accompanied by a selience whereby any existing province night secede from the Indian Union under certain conditions. We have opposed this part of the proposal as a virtual acceptance of the principle of Pakistin. No well wisher of India can believe in the breaking up of India's unity Lord Wavell, I am glad, has emphasized in his Calcutta speech that India's safety will be peopardized by any major surgical operation such as Polymer 1 surgical operation such as Pakist in

The British by fanning communal differences and hy conceding communal electorites have sown the seeds of Pakistan in India Indeed the framework of the 1935 Act did not give right to my province to seeede What happened

"But the impasse during the war will even The British Govern Why ment is the party that holds in its hand the rested power that it has to part with and deliver to and India. The Vleerov therefore cannot take shelter under the plea that two previous offers have been rejected by India Complete com Initiative for a settlement must therefore come from Britain and a fullire in this direction will be nothing but a breach of faith and a regrettable shirking of responsibility and duty

"Politleal agitation and struggle liave gone on in this country for nearly half a century true position in India is that Britain will not willingly part with power and will create divisions and barriers so as to weaken the forces of resistance in the national life of the country A survey of the constitutional changes that have come from time to time will disclose how the powers given to the people of the country have been limited by restrictions so that in the case of an ultimate clash between British and Indian Interests the former way. British and Indian Interests the former may prevail at the will of British representatives Further, a deliberate policy has been pursued by Government to weaken and cripple the Hindus because it is they, more than any body of the people and for the economic regeneration against foreign rule The Indian National Congress does not itself claim to represent "Lord Wayell asks Indians to put faith Hindu point of view It has therefore happened that although the Congress has entered the parliamentary bodies in India through Hindu seats, it has allowed Hindu interests to be sacrified and jeopardized in the vain hope of placating reactionary Muslim demands I enmot conceive of any narrow and sectional communalism in any organization supported by Hindus which genuinely aspires to see their eountry freed from foreign domination of the nation itself Hindus want that their country should be politically free They recognize that their country has been the long of many sects and religious and they are anylous that there should be a common right of entizen slip for one and all They stand for one undivided India This oneness comes not from merely geographical surroundings India has been one country and mist remain as such for all time to come Hindus are eager for complete political unity with all other communities. They insist upon two conditions one asks, either in India or in the world, which justified the British Government to accept the principle of partition of India and thus to undo its perhaps one great achievement in India under British rule? Lord Wavell, if he has the courage of his conviction should not be perty to further familing of disruptive tendencies in India. That portion in the Cripps offer referring to a possible partition of India should by with drawn immediately and as he limited. organic themselves on a national basis and if the welfare of the country as whole renders prevent any unit a convention at our till it imperate 8 for limited sacrifice will rights and liberites. The B it! h Government would not have I red to inflict this astroclous blow on the Bl du but for the secret support accorded by Gandhill to Desai I langt Pact which according to Gandhill himself forms the basis of the Simia Conf rence

Th I dian National Congress has b riered away in political rights of the cast Hindus by ep td ere n gotiations and by hopen failure to defend such a right wh never thy wer trampid under foot. The Congress has ceased to b n tion lorganisation by its persistent n gotiations with the Muslim Le gue, a body outside the Congress on communal

Gandhlii of an equal political status with an avowedly communal and reactionary organisa tion like the Muslim League In view of the fact that the Congress does not itself claim to represent Hindus as such and in view of the further fact that the Hindu community as such is not represented at the Simla Conference, any decision taken behind the back of the Hindu Mahasabha , which alone is the accredited political organisation of the Hindus and which has been in the past recognised by the Government itself as a major political organization, shall not be acceptable to the Hindus of India

"The Working Committee demands that a referendum be taken of the Wavell plan and the opinion of the people be ascertained before it is put into operation

"The Working Committee therefore declares that the Wavell Schenic even if it be accepted by the Simla Conference will be repudiated by the Hindus and if enforced will be resisted by all possible means

"The Working Committee hereby calls upon all its branch organisation and the Hindu community in general to realise the gravity of the dangers that he ahead of them to raise their voice of protest against the plan and to be prepared for any action necessary to combat it "

Renunciation of Titles — Government's tincreasingly hostile attitude towards the legitlmate rights of Hindus" came in for vloient criticism at the meeting of the All-India Committee of the Mahasabha held at Delhl in August The meeting witnessed the unprecedented spectacle of some Mahasabha leaders renouncing their title as a protest against Government's policy

Opening the session of the Ali-India Committee Dr S P Mookerjee, the President, said that a new situation had been created by the Wavell offer Dr Mookerjee added Lord Wavell Mookerjee added had not invited the Hindu Mahasabha to the Simla Conference, because the Viceroy feared opposition from the Mahasabha, who not only opposed the offer but also charged the British Government with unwillingness to part with real power

Referring to Mr Jinnah, Dr Mockerjee said. the League leader had now changed his demand from parlty with Hindus to that of parlty with the rest of India Dr Mookerjee claimed that the Mahasabha was the only national organisation and challenged any one to prove that the policy and programme of the Mahasabha was inconsistent with national aspirations He strongly demanded that the future of Indla should be based on unity and drew support from the speeches of Pandit Nehru.

Sir Gokulchand Narang was loudly cheered when he rose to announce that he was giving up his knighthood issues and by its latest acceptance through calls upon all Government title holders who are office bearers or who are members of the Council or committees of the provincial or district Sabhas to relinquish their titles. No Govern ment title holders shall therefore be eligible for any elective office or offices in the Hindu Mahasabha '

The principal political resolutions ran as follows "On the termination of the world war causing untold misery and sufferings to millions of people in Indla and the other countries both in the east and the west, we call upon His Majesty's Government to redeem the pledge of liberation of oppressed humanity from both political and economic fetters Hindusthan was bled white and made great sacrifices both in men and materials in fighting the forces of agression and sacrificed millions of her sons due to famine and pestilence caused by the conditions created by the war In view of the glorious part played by the Indian Army in achieving victory in theatres of war, and particularly by the Hindus, who formed about 70 per cent of the combatant forces and won as many as 27 Victoria Crosses out of 31 won by Indian soldiers, the United Nations should stand by India's demand for justice fairplay and see that no injustice is done to the Hindus in this crisis If Democracy has any meaning, no power on earth can deny with impunity the united demand of the vast majority of the Indian masses for independence By the independence of India and other countries in bondage will the United Nations now be judged

"To make agreement between political parties and communities a condition precedent to the freedom of India is a pretext for imperial-1sm to cling to power The present constitution is based on the so-called communal award which is a negation of democracy and makes impossible the real verdict of the Indian people to be expressed constitutionally We call upon the British Government immediately to repeal the communal award, which is uniair, un democratic and anti-national The Hindu Mahasabha has all along rejected the communal award We are of the opinion that the election should be based on the genuine democratic principle of one man, one vote A constituent assembly returned on communal electorates based on the communal award can never reflect the true mind of India and will mcrely create artificial issues which will disrupt Indian unity and help imperlahsm to continue its domination The Mahasabha insists that any constituent assembly or any body entrusted with the work of drafting India's new constitution should proceed on the basis that India is and shall remain one and indivisible and further, that any majority community shall not be reduced to a minority or equality

"A genuine national election based on democratic franchise will pave the way for the formation of a true constituent assembly for framing the constitution of free Hindusthan The resolution on titles said "As a mark of protest against the increasingly hostile attitude of the Government towards the legitimate rights of the Hindus, the Working Committee of the All India Hindu Mahasabha for the uplift of the masses, the economic prosperity of the people, the uprooting of the present corrupt official regime for tackling the problem of hunger and unemployment and for preventing the exploitation of the impoverished masses

We giv helow the figur s which abund ntiv prov our contention

From the honndary of D lhl to the hanks of th Ravi riv th population is di ided s follows --Muslims--45 05 000 Sikhs and othe non Muslims-76 46 000

From th Delhi houndary to th hanks of the Jhelum riv r xeluding Multan and Jh mg districts — Muslims—8 88 000 Sikhs nd othe non Muslims-03 48 000

To this may be added the popul tin f the Sikh tee of Patiala Nabha Jind kapurthala and Faridict which is about 600000 Of this the Muslims constitut h rely 6 per cent and this reduces the ratio of Muslim population still further

"We do not wish to indour the point any hand, to the growingly militant Muslim League more We have lost all hope of receiving any campaign for Pakistan and, on the other, a consideration We shall resist, however, by all possible means separation of the Punjab from the all-India union We shall never permit our motherland to be at the merey of The advent of the War and the supply by those who disown it "

Subsequent to the withdrawn of the Cripps' offer, the Sikhs have been somewhat in the offer, the Sikhs have been somewhat in the limelight in connection with several proposals, unofficially mooted, to determine the allocation of territories and powers in the event of a compromise between the Muslim Lergue and nationalist India. The virile and compact proposals for the community of Sikhs, mostly confined to the large the considering the considering for an interim. community of Sikhs, mostly confined to the Punjab, had an important say in regard to the question of Pakistan With a view to buying over Sikh opposition to Pakistan and thereby strengthening the demand vis-a ris the rest of India, Mr Jinnah made more than one attempt to reassure the Sikh community and thereby induce them to come under the scheme of Pakistan on the basis of guaranteed safeguards for their interests At one stage it looked as though a section of the Sikh leadership was favourably inclined towards Mr Jinnah's gesture Some of them seemed to be impressed with the argument that, whereas in an All-India Federation the Sikh community would be a drop in the ocean, they would not be a negligible frop in the ocean, they would not be a neglipide factor, in Pakistan not only because of their proportion in the population of the Punjab, but also by virtue of statutory guarantees offered to them by the Muslim League leader Eventually, however, Mr Jinnah's overtures were turned down because the bulk of the Sikb community was opposed to Pakistan

The advent of the War and the supply by the murtial race of Sikin of a large number of recruits for the Allied armed forces invested this community with added importance in the eyes of British authority Thus, for instance, the establishment of an interim Government at the Centre It now seems certain that a Sikh leader will find a place in any new Government that may be formed at the Centre

Whereas the bulk of Sikh opinion continued to be hostile to the idea of partitioning India Into Hindusthan and Pakistan, there is a small section of opinion which suspects the possibility of the Congress compromising with the Muslim League in its Pakistan demand. This section tends to take the destinies of the community in its own hands and forestall a possible division of the country by entering into advance arrangements with the League in the event of the creation of Pakistan

The position at the time of writing is a trifle confusing, as Sikh opinion is divided between those who would fight partition tooth and nail, those who seek to establish a sovereign Sikh State called Sikhisthan in the event of the establishment of Pakistan, and those a small number-who would safeguard the position At the same time there began to grow up of the Sikh community by a pact with Mr in the Sikh community a tendency at exclusivism Jinnah cashing in on the latter's overweening and self-rehance. This was due, on the one desire for Pakistan

When the satyagraha movement was in progress, there was hardly any politics worth the name except the activities of the Liberals and officer Another reason for public directed towards moderate moderate leaders attention being politics was the effort made by the British The pleblscite vote is to be determined by a bare Government to meet the demands of moderate majority. The Council feels that the decision It eannot be said that the authorities dld anything substantial to enhance the reputation, and strengthen the position, of the sober element in the Indian political world, on the contrary, the point was frequently made that the way in which the Liberals were ignored gave for the elections to the legislatures, and can be additional impetus to extremism But such action as was taken was the result of the outspoken representations made by the moderate leaders The year 1944-45 was marked by the jubilee session of the Liberal Federation which eompleted 25 years of public service. Another remarkable activity was the evolution by Another Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and a Committee of non-party leaders of a compromise formula relating to India's future constitution was drawn up following the fallure of the Gandhl-Jinnah negotlations in the autumn of 1944

Cripps Offer—When Sir Stafford Cripps eame to India with the proposals of the British War Cabinet in 1942 (See Chapter on "The Indian National Congress", elsewhere in this Indian National Congress", elsewhere in this issue and earlier issues of The Indian Year Book.) the Council of the Liberal Federation expressed itself thus

"The Council of the Liberal Federation has very carefully examined the draft declaration brought by Sir Stafford Cripps It welcomes the proposals to make India a self-governing dominion with the same status and functions as are enjoyed by Great Britain and other members of the Commonwealth On examination of the different heads of the proposals the Council feels that the provision giving liberty to any province not to accede to the Indian Union is fraught with serious difficulties and dangers The ereation of more than one Federal Union In India, having their own separate armies, may result, in certain conceivable circumstances ha a conflict between them It would almost immediately lead to customs barriers, and complicated questions about ports, railways, existing public debt, etc., would arise Moreover, the weakness of the military organisation of the one or the other of the different Unions will seriously impair the safety and defence of India as a whole

"The Council further feels that communal feelings would be further exacerbated in the course of earlying out the process of arriving at a decision about accession or non accession

"Ali these and other considerations, and the serious dangers and difficulties should be fully considered before His Majesty's Government finally decide to implement these proposals

"The Council has always been of the view that the interests of different communities should be adequately safeguarded and that the of the ease and will seriously affect not only the unity and solidarity of India but her stature

"One of the effects of the proposals is that the question whether a Province accedes to the union or not will in the last resort be determined by a pieblseite uniess 60 per eent of the lower house of the legislative vote for accession of such momentous question should not be eoneluded by a bare majority, but that some mini mum percentage, say at least 55 per cent, should be prescribed. The Council also sees no reason why women who are entitled to vote and are members of the legislature, should be denied a vote in the plebiselte

"With regard to the representation of Indian States on the constitution-making body, the Council urges that the people of the States should be given a voice in the selection of the representatives of the States on this body "On the subject of defence, the representation of India on the War Cabinet and the Pacific War Council is satisfactory so far as it goes But this should not stand in the way of the appointment of an Indian as a Defence Member Such an appointment will have a tremendous effect in producing the necessary psychological reaction which will bring the Indian people whole heartedly in the war effort

"The Council of the Liberal Federation would also urge the British Government to appreciate the fact that totalitarian aggression involves totalitarian defence and that a total war cannot be won unless the Indian nation as a united political entity throws itself into this war heart and soul Malaya, Singapore and Rangoon serve as grave warning as to how even in modern warfare, technical skill alone, without the spontaneous support of the millions on the 'home front', ean achieve little on the military front It is the considered opinion of the Council that full co operation of the Indian people will not be secured in the war effort unless an Indian Defence Member is appointed

"With regard to the question of reconstituting the Executive Council of the Governor-General, the Liberal Federation Council would suggest that the Governor-General's Council should be nationalised, so that by conventions in the near future, the Governor-General may assume the position of a constitutional head of his Government."

Expansion of Executive Council.—Undeterred by the failure of the Cripps Mission, the Viceroy went ahead with his plans for the better government of the country and more efficient prosecution of India's war effort. Undeterred hy their fallure to move the Government following Mr Gandil's fast, the moderate leaders urged the appointment of an impartial tribunal to investigate the charges made against Congress under detention or, in the alternative the release of those leaders so as to enable them to review the situation and attempt a solution of the deadlock To this, however, the Secretary of State replied in the House of Commons, saying that the Government of India had no intention of "staging a trial" of Mr Gandhi and other detained Congress leaders - (See last year's issue)

In the winter of 1943-44 the annual session of the National Liberal Federation met in Bombay under the presidentship of Kunwar Sir Maharaj Singh The Session was remarkable for the diametrically opposite viewpoints expounded by the President and the Chairman of the Reception Committee (Sir Cowasjee Jchangir)

While deploring the August resolution of the Congress, Sir Maharaj Singh criticised Government for failure to announce a complete change of policy at the commencement of the war, that the division of the country into two or adding that "if Sir Stafford Cripps had come more separate sovereign states was not a right to India with his proposals in 1939 or early in 1940, instead of 1942, there would have been an excellent prospect of their acceptance" Under present conditions, he deplored, 'we are face to face with a divided India, with thousands ne rre of our fellow-countrymen, including many prominent and popular leaders, in prison, the retention by European officials of the key departments of Finance. Defence and Home in the Government of India, a complete absence of popular government in large portions of India, swollen prices, general distress and faminc in large and densely populated areas"
Sir Maharaj complained that the advice of moderate leaders had been brushed aside by Government'

Sir Cowasil Jehangir took a different view of the problem. He blamed the Congress for the failure of the Cripps Mission and affirmed that it broke down owing to the eleventh-hour raising of the issue of the Viceroy's veto cited Mr Jinnah's opinion in support of the contention that the formation of a national Government on the lines of the Congress demand would have been totally opposed by the minoritles in general and the Muslims in particular

After drawing attention to the events that followed the August resolution, Slr Cowasji declared that if any progress was to be made it was essential that the Congress should not only withdraw the August resolution but also give an assurance to the British public and to the peoples of the Allied Nations that of the kind now decided upon and Mr Gandhi all people in India were behind this war and

Early in the summer of 1944, a session of the Non party Leaders' Conference met at Lucknow under the presidentship of Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru (See last year's issue)

Two-fold Appeal.—In June 1944 the Council of the National Liberal Federation met In Poena and made a two fold appeal one to the Government unconditionally to release Congressmen not found guilty of violence and the other to the Congress to treat the August resolution as a dead letter, to put it aside and take measures to arrive at a working arrangement with other political parties for the formation of a provisional Government

The next meeting of the Council was held at Allahabad in October and expressed the opinion that the two-nations theory advanced by Mr Jinnah was opposed to facts while his insistence on a plebiscité confined to Muslims was unfair to other communities and incompatible with democratic concepts. The Council also declared democratic concepts The Council also declared that the division of the country into two or solution for the Hindu-Muslim question

Committee -Soon after the Conciliation Committee—Soon after the failure of the Gandhi-Jinnah talks in Bombay Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, President of the Non-Party Conference, announced his intention to set up a committee (Calied the Conciliation Committee), comprising eminent public men with no marked political affiliations, to examine the Indian communal question from a political and constitutional point of view. Sir Tej Bahadur added that it was his intention that there should be on the committee no one who was a partisan or one who had expressed himself violently on political issues of tile con try was also the idea that there si ould be one or two retired judges who would bring a judicial mind to hear on the country a probi m

The basic conception of the committee was that it a discu sion of the communal and political problem should be lifted from the partisan level to the scientific and judicial level

The effort of the committee would be to under tand the views of each p rty act as a s rt of conciliation board by e tablishing contact with all parti a and recommend some solution that they thought good on their own respon i billity I would be open to each party to accept it wholly or p ritally or to reject it said Sir Tej Bahadur Thera is no qurstion of failure are success. When the committe has done its work it will be for the lead as of diff rent parties to consider whether at that stage they hould not call a bigger confe ence—either an all parties conf rence or a convention

Explaining the function of the proposed committee Sir Tel Bahadur stated that it would approach ratious poilite 11 aders very politely and very conrecusly and insite them to xplain their points of view It w a pos like that some mi ht refuss their ope at in and rebuilt the committee hut that would not deter

Answer - " No. Qolda Aram's position un-focturately was that plille he could come as far as seeing me and testing to construe me of 1 is the life, he, the fre ident of the leading could not discuss details with ris, a more in Westerst But so for as I could gather from our conversations, he had no properly eleme. As the correspondence shows he had referred me to two tools, both of which I read, but reitles of which could help me to understand his exact position. One thirs he insisted upon was that if I first accepted the I'al istan of his conception, he could then discuss other thin, as the me, even though I was tot an individual?

Asked If it was true that the real breakdown between him and Mr Jinnah come about on the question of central authority or Government, Mr transfil replied 'It can be said that the brial down tool place because we could not · come to an exercment on the two cation theory of Quide Aram As the correspondence all *how, I wanted to avoid a central Government I ruggested an authority acceptable to both the parties, but he would invist hist on complete partition as bety cen two nations and then an agreement between them as on foreign affairs, etc. He would not agree to anything simul-

Gandhl's attention was drawn to a 311 presage in his letter to Mr Jiunah dated September 28, 1914, In which he said —"That if it means utterly independent sovereignty so that there is to be nothing in common between the two, I hold that it is an impossible proposi-tion. That means war to the lufte" and was asked what he meant by "war to the knife."

Mr Gandhl replied 'ls a simple English idiom "War to the kulfe I have never known It used in the literal sense. It simply means a determined quarrel between parties. that if there is nothing in common between the two or nothing which does not come in conflict with each others culture, there can be no friendly mutual agreement"

To another question Mr Gandhi replied " Although I could not agree to the two nation theory, I agreed on the basis of members of a family desiring severance of the family tie in matters of conflict but not in all matter so as to become enemies one of the other as if there was nothing common between the two except enmlty"

wrote to the Committee —

"I have your circular letter of Dec 3 about the Conciliation Committee I need hardly say how warmly I wish you every success

"As regards my views of which you have asked for a memorandum, they are contained in the 'C R Formula' which formed the subject matter of the Gandhi-Jinnah talks I am unable to improve the terms of that formula

"I may charify a point which has been deliberately misrepresented by certain advocates of the Muslim League It is only for fixing

" My position after the fallers of the Gredhi Jinrah talks is a tout in the introduction to the found i Jirrah talks published by the "Mindustan Times" I need add nothing to what I have stated thereig about the communal issue. I wish however, to ad I one other point for the consideration of the Committee. It is not psychologically possible to create an atmosphere of reasonableness unless Self-Government den ocratic lines in some shape or other is a settled fact, and such form of Government as ir functionion and threatens to continue is replaced by an arread constitution. I therefore appreciate the stand taken by the Non-Party Conference. The federal part of the Government of India Act of 1935 should with suitable modifications, be introduced at once with or without fresh Provincial elections according to the convenience of the British Government I would prefer fresh basic Provincial elections, so that if the federal part of the Government of India Act of 1935 cannot be brought into force at once during interim period, an 'ad hoe' control executive may be constituted out of the Provincial Governments of the 11 Provinces which should all be restored in replacement of the Section 93 regimes. This ad hoc. Central I vecntive should replace the present Viceroy's Council. This can be done with very little parliamentary legislation and may be statutorili vested with a fixed term of If either of these things is done and a tenure Central Executive is constituted on a popular basis, there will be a sanction of conciliation An agreed constitution on the basis of the declaration of His Majesty's Government of April 11, 1942, will replace the interim arrangement Parties will feel that unless they come to an agreement the interim arrangement will continue"

Cable to Lord Wavell-While the Com mittee was still in session and before the formulation of its conclusions, Sir Tej Bahadur sent a cable to Lord Wavell, who was then in London discussing with His Majesty's Government proposals for a solution of the Indian political deadlock, communicating the following resolution unanimously adopted by the Committee

"In view of the Internal situation particularly relating to the economic life of the people and ln view of the rapid pace at which international events are marching, and in view of the necessity of India being represented in her own right and by her own representatives at all international conferences and peace conferences, if any, this committee strongly recommends that the following steps be taken at once

  - Muslim India will n t accept any attempt to chenge the present constitution in any way which would directly or indirectly be on the basis of annited Indic The question of Pakistan is the fir t and the foremost 1 sue to be decided preliminary to any consideration of the framing of any future constitution eny attempt to

countenanced by the British Government will be at the exceller and betrayal of the hundred million Mussalmans in this land

"I am confident that having regard to the solemn declarations of His Majesty's Government and the pledges and assurances given to the Muslims they will not go back as an honomable nation and coerce the Mussalmans or force or impose upon them a constitution against their will and without their approval and concent if the British Government are stampeded into any departure from or reversal of their declared policy by some undue pressure, which I do hope will not be the ease I shall be falling in my duty, having regard to the temper, determination and the deep feelings of Muslim India regarding this issue, if I did not draw the attention of Britain to the disastrons consequences it may lead to, for which the British Government alone will be responsible

Hindu-Muslim Parity-Within a weck the Sapru Conciliation Committee unfolded its proposals for the future constitution of India which proceeded on the basis of parity between Hindus, other than the Scheduled Castes, on the one hand, and Muslims on the other, in the constitution-making body, the future Central Legislature and in the Executive, the overriding condition being that the unity of India and interested to the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the co and joint electorates were accepted

The Committee emphatically declared itself calmst Pakistan Mr N M Joshi dissented against Pakistan from this declaration, as also from the corollary that no province should elect not to needde to the future Indian Union or seeede therefrom

The Committee envisaged the transfer of Paramountcy to the Union, and recommended the appointment of a Minister in charge of functions in relation to Indian States, with whom a body of three Indian States' advisers in to be associated

A declaration of fundamental rights, the setting up of a minorities commission, and special proposals for minorities in the Punjab were included in the Committee's recommenda-

"It is needless to say that the recommendations do not constitute a full blue print for the future constitution" Said the Committee "They merely indicate the outlines which the Committee feels would suit the conditions in India They are essentially suggestions made for the constitution of the country at large

"These proposals are confined to British India only When the Indian States decide to come into the Union, as the Committee hopes they will, it is obvious that arrangements will have to be made in consultation with them for necessary adjustments and additions"

The Constitution-Making Body—The constitution-making body shall be constituted in the manner prescribed in Clause "D" of the draft resolution of His Majesty's Government, beautiful by St. Stafferd Children and St. brought by Sir Stafford Cripps, subject to the following modifications militate against, prejudice or torpedo the namely, commerce and industry, land holders, Pakistan demand directly or indirectly, if universities, labour and women—16. Hindus, countenanced by the British Government will exchiding the Scheduled Castes—71, Muslima— 51, Schriduled Costes-20, Indian Christians-Slibs 8, linekware 3, Anglo Indians 2, Backward arcas and trlbcz--3, Luropeans

- -1, othera-1
  (2) It Is became Clause "D" of His Majestr's Government's decirration provides for election he a joint electorate, composed of members of all Provincial Legislatures, under the system of proportional representation, that the Committee has decided to recommend that, in spite of the disparity in the population strengths between Muslims and Mindus other than the Scheduled Castes, the Hindu community should, in the intere ts of promoting communal unity, agree that the representation of the Muslim community on the constitution-making body shall be on a par with that given to the Mindus, other than the Scheduled Castes
- (3) No decision shall be valid unless it is supported by three fourths of the members present and votlag
- (4) His Majesty's Government shall enact the constitution on the basis of the valid decisions of the constitution-making body, supplemeated wherever necessary by Its own awards on matters in which the regulate majority for decision was not forthcoming

Division of India — The Committee, having considered carefully the resolution of the Muslim League passed at Lahore in 1940, the various other resolutions of the League and the published version of the talks between Mr Jinnah and Mahatma Gandhi, and having also considered the "C R" and Gandhi proposals, is cmphatically of the opinion that any division of India into two or more separate independent sovereign States is unjustified, and will endanger the peace and orderly progress of the whole country without any compensating advantage to any community, and that the political unity of India should therefore, be maintained

Indian States - Provisions should be made in the constitution for the accession from time to time of Indian States as muits of the Union, on such terms as may be agreed upon establishment of the Union should not, however, be made contingent on the accession of any Indian State or of any minimum number of Indian States The Union should be brought into being and should commence to function at the earliest possible date, even if no Indian State has acceded to it as a unit by then

Non-Accession and Secession vince of British India may elect not to accede to the Union, nor may any unit—whether a Province or a State, which has acceded—be entitled to secode therefrom

Provincial Boundaries — While it is not desirable that the new constitution should be delayed by the realignment of provincial boun-daries on linguistic or cultural considerations, the Constitution Act shall indicate the machinery and prescribe the procedure for such realignment of the oid Provinces and for the creation of new Provinces after it has come into force, and on such realignment or creation of Provinces aii (1) The total strength of the body shall be consequential amendments may be made, in 160, distributed as foollows Special Interests, the constitution

Silver Jubilee Session—The Silver Jubilee Session of the National Liberal Federation was heid in Lahore in March 1915 under the presidentsinp of Mr T P Venkatrama Sastri of He made a demand for an immediate deciaration by the British Government granting Dominion Status to India and nrged the release of political prisoners and Congress detenus including the members of the Congress Working Committee

"The Government must Mr Sastri said declare immediately that India shall have the status of a Dominion at the end of the war from an existing state to which that print Her millions have fought on the battle field for the cause of the United Nations The Cripps Offer contained that declaration and grant they had a territory capable of sustain

"That declaration must be made forthwith and implement d so fir a it may be, b, the Pritt h Covernment While they are dealing (D) The term of office of members of the hierarche for the reconstruction of Italy, Poland minister whall be the same as, and sandroughe forces, they even have no legithmate excess for portpanila, the freedom of India intricae of the problems in the countries me atland above did not bur them from taking st packen when the war is on, and the Indian problem procent no features more difficult problem on ent no features more difficult to resolve than the problems, they are solving now tist win re-

"I should say that the Governor General should have released the political pri-oners and the Courtes detenns long ago Neither the public peace nor the sifety of the State any longer requires the detention of these persons, and the continuance of their detention is wholly unju tified. They should be immediatel released I ven for a solution of the present communities, and to submit a report to the de diock, mutual consultation between the Prime Minister

(I) The recommendations of the the Cabinet Jali and the refusal of the Government to allow mutual consultation between them only adds to the difficulties in the way of finding a solution

> Mr Sastri deait at length with the problem of minorities and said "Pakistan is no solution for the problem of the minorities creation of separate foreign states does not really get rid of the minority problem altogether There will be a large proportion of non-Muslims in the Muslim areas so separated and comparatively a small proportion of Muslims in the Definite and satisfactory safe-Hindin areas Definite and satisfactory safe-guards for the non Muslims in the Muslim are is are offered. If such an offer is just and fair to minorities of over 40 per cent in those provinces, would it be impossible to devise safeguards for the protection of the essential enitural features of all groups, including the Muslims, within a united India? Hindu areas

> "What, again, of the expense of defence which each independent state will have to maintain? and would the defence organised by the separate states be adequate in the event of aggression? will the four states in the North West agree to join and belong to one state? Will the Punjab agree to look after their financial needs and requirements? Will the non-Muslim areas in the Punjab desire to remain in an independent Muslim State or claim to form a separate state of their own? if separate independent states are formed and they have their own armies will joint netion invariably result when emergeneies arise? may they not be turned against each other in a fratricidal

"The Muslim League appeals to the principle of solf determination. This principle is a much misunderstood one. It is a case of seession from an existing state to which that principle The has been recognised that it is impossible to grant independence to a section of the population the answers of Sir Stafford Cripps to the ques-tions put to him made clear that the status the ceonomic and political framework of a of India shall be the same as that of the other lination some with the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the stat

The Federation also passed a resolution demanding for Indians in South Africa full citizenship rights

Deploring the failure of the Government of the Union of South Africa to abolish the Pegging Act, the resolution stated in part "In view of the uncompromising attitude of the Government of South Africa towards this legitimate demand of India, this Federation feels that it was a mistake on the part of the Government of India to have sent the High Commissioner to South Africa and it urges the Government of India to recall the High Commissioner forthwith and to adopt all fiscal and commercial sanctions against South Africa until the Pegging Act is abolished "

Another resolution 'expressed deep regret and concern at the "misuse of the Defence of India Act and Rules on numerous occasions" The resolution stated that the civil liberties were being invaded without adequate justification and for political ends

The Federation also deplored racial pre-judice existing between the white and nonwhite peoples of the world and suggested that "unless a determined effort is made on a world senie against the course of race prejudice, the non-white peoples of the world who are now fully conscious of their rights, are bound to revolt against the tyranny of the whites and imperil the cause of world peace "

The Federation pressed upon the Rulers of Indian States to declare full responsible government as their policy as rapidly as possible and assured the people of the States of its full support in their constitutional methods for securing reforms and the redress of their grievances

future recruitment to these services from outside India

The Federation, in another resolution, expressed profound concern at the food situation in the country "which, though somewhat improved is still far from antisfactory. It urged the Government to evolve a more satisfactory policy and administer it efficiently so as to save the people from all avoidable linrdelijpe and distress

The Tederation unanimously passed a re-solution demanding that in the Imperial and International conferences India should represented largely, if not wholly by non official public men commanding the confidence of the people "until such time as a National Government can appoint its own proper accredited representatives"

Demanding complete nationalisation India's Defence services within a short period, the Federation also urged that India's status as envisaged in the post-war world and her future role as a bulwark of peace in Asia required a radical change in regard to her defence policy The Federation suggested that the Defence portfolio should be entrusted to an Indian Member commanding the confidence of the public and that a policy of Indianisation in all grades of the army, navy and air force be expedited It further suggested that Indian emergency commissioned officers should not be demobilised after the war and that the army should be recruited from all provinces and classes to a much greater extent than at present

The President, Mr T R Venkatarama Sastri, winding up the session, expressed gratification at the formation of a Ministry by the Congress in the Frontier Province and expressed the hope that this will be followed by the assumption of office by the Congress

Paying little heed to these words of warning the Congress leaders went their own way Puffed with the sneeess of the polls they affected what the success state point they affected to ignore the clims of Lesgue leaders. In what m y be describ d as non-Muslim provin ces—that is those in whi h the Muslims are in a minority—the Congress formed Ministries with out entaulting and securing the co-operation of the Muslim League No doubt ettempts were made to arrive at an understanding with the Muslim Le que but they falled mainly on acc ant of the Congress demand that wherever ace nnt of the Congress demand that wherever such an undersland g war seehed the Mindlin Le gue ho ld ceas to be a separate parliamen lary body and merce liself liate the resultant Congress Lesque Party The Lesque for lar p rt mponed by the Congress In the result the negotiation of life in the Lesque remained in the Opposition Although the built of the M silm represe tatt as returned to the provint als legislatures by the letter to ware in apposition to the Congress the fitter proceeded to the who did not reverent Muslim orbino to the Shortly after the 1936 elections Mr Jianah as legislatives with features we are Heven explained the position of the League members into the Conferes the letter proceeded to of provincial legislature is away other groups constitute Governm to with Muslim control in the sadesid The constitution and policy of the who did not represent Muslim opinion in the legislature Nowhere in any of the so called office and without the power and influence which Congress provinces did the Muslim Ministers went with it. Whereas the Congress lost through have the support of the majority or even a decent the resignation of its ministries such bargaining number of Muslim legislators. Thus these power as it had white in office, the League Muslim Ministers in the Congress provinces acquired some indirect power through the interwere the objects of repeated displays of national complications that resulted from the Muslim hostility

Having failed to reach an agreement with the League and its leaders, the Congress tried to crush the League and its leaders by making a direct approach to the Muslim masses through an economic and national programme. For a time this appeared to succeed, but eventually rights and privileges of the Indian Princes in falled to achieve its object. The League leaders counteracted the Congress propaganda by per another direction the League manœuvred pointing out to the Muslim masses that their itself into a comfortable position, whereas, the true interests lay in their organisation under the banner of the League which alone could serve from the war, the League abstained from taking them truly The League's counter drive any such attitude and merely insisted on the succeeded in a large measure aided by allegations that in provinces where the Congress was running the Government the Muslim minorities were not treated well. The widening gulf between the Congress and the League gave an additional stimulus to the consolidation of the Muslim forces under the League which found fruition at the Lucknow session of the League in the autumn of 1937

Lucknow Session — The session was unique several respects For the first time in in the history of the Muslim organisational movement, complete unity was achieved, and every section of Muslim opinion, including those which till then had been opposed to the League or outside it, railed round the League There was no discordant note and Muslim political unity was complete The Muslim League emerged the only strong and influential political organisation of the Muslim community

The session changed the creed of the League to "the establishment in India of full independence in the form of a federation of free democratie states in which the rights and interests of the Muslims and other minorities are adequately and effectively safeguarded in the constitution."

(For details of the proceedings of this session, see Indian Year Book, 1938 39)

The foundations of Muslim solidarity laid at the Lucknow session of the League in the autumn of 1937 proved very strong indeed. The League grew from strength to strength in the two succeeding years and today it is admittedly the most powerful organisation of the community The League's spokesmen claim that it is the only mouthpiece of the Muslims, and one may be inclined to recognise that claim but for the existence of other organisations in the community with more or iess following and influence, not excluding a large number of Muslims who are members of the Congress There may be two opinions about the claim that the League is the only organisation of the community, but no one can question that it is the most powerful and the most influential

With the outbreak of the war and the changes it wrought in Indian polities, the League found itself in an extremely advantageous position perusal of the chapter on the Indian National Congress will show how the Congress withdrew its ministries from the provinces where it had its ministries from the provinces where it had "While Muslim India stands against held sway for nearly two and a half years As exploitation of the people of India and has a result of this the League came to be on a par repeatedly declared in favour of a free India, it with the Congress in that both were now out of is consult and a stands against held sway for nearly two and a half years.

war Again, whereas the Congress had alienated the sympathics of the Indian Princes by sponsor ing and encouraging agitation for responsible government for the States people, the League earned the friendship of the Princely order by condemning such activities and upholding the rights and privileges of the Indian Princes in any revision of the Indian Constitution In yet another direction the League manœuvred Congress categorically withheld its eo operation antisfaction of its claims prior to making up its Even this was only the official attitude of the League as an organisation Most of its individual members were in favour of wholeheartedly aiding in the prosecution of the war And the League winked at this

A fortnight after the declaration of the war, the Working Committee of the League passed a resolution which illustrates the tact and firmness with which the League steered the Muslim ship The League Committee stated that "if full, effective and honourable co operation of the Mussaimans is desired by the British Govern-ment in the grave crisis which is facing the world today and if it is desired to bring it to a successful termination it must create a sense of security and satisfaction among the Mussaimans and take into their confidence the Muslim League, which is the only organisation that can speak on behalf of Muslim India"

Attack on Congress Ministries—Side by side with the demand for the redress of Muslim grievances and the assertion that their full and free consent should be obtained before any change in the Constitution was attempted, the League continued its campaign against the Congress ministries to which a against the Congress ministries, to which a reference has been made in past issues of the Indian Year Book Apart from the "atrocities" which, the League affirmed, had been perpetrated on the Muslim minorities in the provinces administered by the Congress, the League made a fresh point which was soen to become the nucleus of a serious development in Indian polities

In a resolution passed in September 1939, the orking Committee of the League said "The Working Committee of the League said developments that have taken place, especially since the inauguration of the provincial consti tution based on the so called democratic parliamentary system of government and the recent experiences of over two years, have established beyond any doubt that it has resulted wholly in a permanent communal majority and the domination by the Hindus over the Muslim minorities, whose life and Liberty, property and honour are in danger, and even their religious rights and culture are being assailed and annihi lated every day under the Congress Governments in various provinces in various provinces with the Congress in that both were now out of is equally opposed to domination by the Hindu

This attack on provincial auto omy and on majority rule was an alto ethe n w line which was struck almost for the first time by the League Till then the Muslim demand had always been am tieu die Aussim densaud au aussis been for effective safeguards fo the protection of the Muslim community e rell lous entitural and other rights now the fin lims beg in to question the very basis of democracy in declared that the western democracy in this sense of rule hy majority was unsuitable. This was developed in the summ r of 1940 into a demand for the sepamtion of Muslims on the ground that they constituted an integral nation and not a minority in the Indian population.

In the succeeding weeks numerous attempts were made to ascertain the grievances of the huslims and to find out whether th y we a justified—in other words whether th Congress ministries had been guilty of oppressi g them or even neglectin th m But all thes ended in smoke in 1940 41 followed the lines in April 1940 when the Pakistan resolution was adopted at Lahore Percentages and weightages, proportion of representation and share in services, guarantees and safeguards—notions which had held the political field for decades were clean swept aside Mr in terms of these trifles, outworn gadgets of a democracy held to be unsuitable to an oriental people and totally mapplicable to the peculiar conditions of India All these devices pre-supposed the continuance of Musiums as members of a State, more or iess secured and safeguarded, enjoying greater or less share of power, but scarcely likely as a community ever to occupy people living in different states as well as among dominant position Mrto think of an arrangement which would not respecting each, the other's rights" give the Muslims equal power and authority with the majority community He would not with the majority community be party to making the Musims subordinate to the Hindus Being a numerical minority they as a community would perforce be the junior partner in any composite State

As in a composite State the Musilms could not in the nature of democracy expect to be reckoned as equals with the majority community, much less as the dominant force, Mr Jinnah nations, in this sub-continent, when you have went away from the idea of a composite State totally two different societies." He also and proposed that India should be divided into referred to Dravidistan in South India and said two spheres Muslim and Hindu Each was to be autonomous internally and for purposes of a Central Government with minimum powers the two should collaborate as equals

The Pakistan ideal began to exercise the uslim mind. It provided the League and Muslim mind Mr Jinnah with a new plank, gave the Mushm community a new goal, a new vista free from what was described as "the danger of Hindu Raj" Every development affecting the future of India in any way was viewed against the background of Pakistan, how will more power for the future Indian State affect the Muslims? Therefore the League claimed the right to approve or reject every proposal calculated to affect the country and its population. The threat was put forth that "any move by the Congress to widen political power in India without the League's approval will meet with the League's resistance"

Madras Session — The annual session the League was held in Madras amidst seenes of great enthusiasm in the middle of April 1941 Mr Jinnah, who presided, urged the British Government to give up their policy of appeasement towards those who were bent upon frustrating the war efforts and to get on with those who wanted to get on with them

Outlining the policy of the Muslim League, said "The goal of the Ail-India Muslim he said League is that we want to establish a completely independent State in the north-west and eastern zones of India with full control finally on defence, foreign affairs, communi cations, customs, currency, exchange, etc do not want under any circumstances a constitu-tion of an Ali-India character with one Govern ment at the Centre We will never agree to same as laid down in the Declaration of August

The evolution of Musim League thought so far as our free national homelands are con 1940 41 followed the lines laid down cerned. Muslim India will never submit to at Aii-India constitution and one Central Govern The ideology of the League is based of tive fundamental principle that the Muslim of India are an independent nationality and that any attempt to get them to merge their nationa Jinnah was not thinking and political identity and ideology will be trifles, outworn gadgets of a resisted. The policy of the League is to be unsuitable to an oriental endeavour to promote goodwill and harmony among other peoples on the basis of equality fair-play and reciprocity. This can best be secured by agreement with other peoples and parties and states with the object of achieving collective security and orderly development of the Jinnah refused the different free states as members of a comity

> Emphasising the unsuitability of democracy to India, Mr Jinnah said "Majority rule in a single nation, in a single society is under-Representative government in a standable single nation, harmonious and homogeneous, is understandable But you have only to apply your minds for a few minutes to see if such a system can even work or succeed when you have two different nations, more than two different that they were fully agreeable to the establishment of Dravidistan

> Change of Creed —The most important resolution of the Madras session was that which changed the creed of the League

The establishment of completely independent States formed by demarcating geographically contiguous units into regions which shall be so constituted with such territorial readjustments as may be necessary that the areas in which the Muslims are numerically in a majority as in the north-western and eastern zones of India shall be grouped together to consti tute independent States as Musiim free national homelands in which the constituent units shall be autonomous and sovereign

(2) That adequate, effective and mandatory safeguards shall be specifically provided in the constitution for minorities in the above mentioned units and regions for the protection of their religious, cultural, economic, political, administrative and other rights and interests

in consuitation with them

That in other parts of India where the Muslims are in a minority, adequate, effective and mandatory safeguards shall be specifically provided in the constitution for them and other minorities for the protection of their reilgious, euitural, economic, political, administrative and other rights and interests in consultation with them"

Towards the end of 1941 the League Working Committee expressed itself on the political question A resolution passed at Nagpur in December said "The Committee are deeply Wo December said ment at the Centre We will never agree to same as laid down in the Declaration of August that If you once agree to it, let me tell you that 8, 1940, there is a growing tendency in a the Muslims would be absolutely wiped out of existence. The Working Committee, therefore consider it necessary to warn the British public and the Government that any departure from the the dovernment that any departure from the policy and solemn Declaration of Augu t 8 1940 and pied es given th rein to the M sal mans would con titute a gross breach of faith with Muslim Indi and th t any re 1 ion of with Muslim and and the any re iton or policy or sny fresh declaratio which adv rs ly affects the demand of Falltan or proceeds on the basis of a Central C rnm nt with india as one single unit ind the Mn salmans as an all India minority shy ill be strongly resented. by the Muslims who will be compelled to red t it with all the fore at their command will is with all the fore at their command with a would at this critical innerion among oth r this as necessarily result in cri us impedien at been targely carried on with the hip and support of Messalmans because of the polt y and attitude hitherto a lopted by the MI League to order not to misarrass or impede ware fortas not far as possible.

Internal Troubles -- Encouraged by the suc internal frombies—Lacouraged by the Success achieved throo b the Lucknow Latore and Madras ses lons of the League Mr Jinnah was engaged in 1914 in forther consolidating, the influence of th League among the Muslim master and propagating the new policy of the League In this task be achieved a large messura of success although it must boadmitted that he met with one or two reverses

i willingness not to raise that question in a net such constitution making body whose polited form while it we raws in progress m in nighet is the cration of a new Indian Provided however that in any transition i Union With conditions as they are it will be a regiment of the transfer of power from oot only tuille but on the contrary may exaper British to Indian hands steps were taken to state but raises and animosity amongsi the enque that the Leg use got a fair shere

"Besides, the machinery which has been the procedure laid down is that reference shall be proposed for the creation of the constitution- made to the whole adult population of the promaking body, namely that it will consist of vinces and not to the Mussalmans alone, which is members elected by the newly elected lower to deny them the inherent right, to self deterhouses of the eleven provinces, upon the cessation of hostilities, as a single electoral college by the system of proportional representation, is a fundamental departure from the right of the Mussalmans, hitherto enjoyed by them, to elect their representatives by means of separate cleetorates, which is the only sure way in which true representatives of the Mussalmans can be chosen

"The constitution making body will take deelsions by a bare majority on all questions of most vital and paramount character involved in the framing of the constitution, which is a departure from the fundamental principles of justice and contrary to constitutional practice so far followed in the various countries and dominions and the Mussalmans, by agreeing to this will, instead of exercising their right and judgment as a constituent factor, be at the entire mercy of the constitution-making body in which they will be a minority of about 25 per cent

"The right of non accession to the Union as contemplated in the draft declaration has been conceded presumably in response to the insistent demands by the Mussalmans for the partition of India but the method of procedure laid down is such as to negative the professed object, for in the draft proposals the right of non-accession has been given to the existing provinces which have been formed from time to time for administrative convenience and on no logical basis

"The Mussalmans cannot be satisfied with such a declaration on a vital question affecting their future destiny and demand a clear and precise pronouncement on the subject attempt to solve the future problem of India by a process of evading the real issues is to court disaster

"In the draft proposals no procedure has been laid down as to how the verdiet of the province is to be obtained in favour of or against accession to the one union but in the letter 2nd of April from the Secretary of Sir Stafford Cripps, addressed to the President of the All-India Muslim League, it is stated that "a province should reach the decision whether or not to self-determination is conceded by means of a stand out of the Union by a vote in the Legislative machinery which will reflect the true verdict Assembly on a resolution to stand in

"If the majority for accession to the Union is less than 60 per cent, the minority will have the right to demand a plebiseite of the adult male population. In this connection it must be emphasised that in the case of the major provinces of Bengal and the Punjab they (the Muslims) are in a minority in the Legislative Assemblies, and in the Assemblies of Sind and the North-West Frontier Province, the total number, namely, 60 and 50 respectively, is so small and the weightage given to the non-Muslims so heavy that it can be easily manipu lated and a decision under such conditions cannot be the true criterion of ascertaining the real opinion of the Mussalmans of those provinces

"As regards the suggested plebiseite in the provinces in which the Mussalmans are in a majority, in the event of the requisite majority not being available in the Legislative Assemblies,

"(4) With regard to the Indian States, It is the considered opinion of the Committee that it is a matter for them to deelde whether to join or not to join or form a union

"(5) With regard to the treaties to be negotiated between the Crown and the Indian Union or Unions, the proposals do not indicate as to what would happen in ease of disagreement on the terms between the contracting parties nor is there any provision inade as to what would be the procedure when there is a difference of opinion in negotiating a revision of treaty arrangements with the Indian States in the new situation

"(6) With regard to the Interim arrangement, there is no definite proposal except the bare statement that His Majesty's Government desire and invite the effective and immediate particl pation of the leaders of the principal sections of the Indian people in the counsels of their country, of the Commonwealth and of the United Nations The Committee are, therefore, unable to express their opinion until a complete picture is available

"Another reason why the Committee are unable to express their opinion on the Interim arrangements for participation in the counsel of the country, is that Sir Stafford Cripps has made it clear that the scheme goes through as a whole or is rejected as a whole and that it would not be possible to retain only the part relating to the immediate arrangements at the Centre and discard the rest of the draft seheme and as the Committee has come to the conclusion that the proposals for the future are unacceptable it will serve no useful purpose to deal further with the question of the immediate arrangements

In conclusion, the Committee wish to point out that the position of the Muslim League has been and is that unless the principle of Pakistan scheme, as embodied in the Lahore Resolution of March 1940, which is now the creed of the All-India Muslim League is unequivocally accepted and the right of the Mussalmans to of Muslim India it is not possible for the Muslim League to accept any proposal or scheme regard ing the future

Attitude to Congress — During 1942 43 the policy of the Muslim League was somewhat negative in character It made no specific contribution towards the settlement either of the Indo British question or of the Hindu-Muslim problem. The resolutions of the League and the utterances of its leaders have been in the nature of comments on the actions of other people and response—rather the lack of it—to others' moves

When Mr Gandhi on behalf of the Congress evolved the "Quit India" slogan and developed it up to the stage of the AICC resolution Mr Jinnah made a series of public statements repudating Mr Gandhi and the Congress and warning his community against the dangers of playing into the hands of the latter

(See last year's issue)

There is reason to believe that Mr Jinnah also utilised his tour to reach an agree ment with the Sikhs so that the Pakistan proposal, at any rate as far as the Punjab was concerned, could be satisfactorily settled While he falled in this last object, Mr Jinnah achieved a large measure of success in pro venting the materialisation of any proposal to bring about a provincial solution of the Hindu-Muslim problem He also infused the spirit of the League among the Muslim masses of the Punjab Doubts whether Mr Jinnah's campaign in the Punjab would succeed or not were laid at rest by the sudden death, a few weeks later, of Sir Sikander Hyat Khan and the succession to the premiership of Mallk Khisar Hayat Khan who seemed more amenable to the League than his predecessor

As regards the Slkhs, Mr Jinnah sald "Slnee I am on the Punjab soll I should like to say that the question between the Hindus and the Muslims is an all-India question and the question between the Sikhs and the Muslims is that of Pakistan, and, for all practical purposes, it is a question between the Sikhs and the Muslims in the Punjab If our Sikh friends wish-and we wish-that there should be an understanding and settlement between them and us, then I tell them let us not talk at each other but let us talk to each other no designs on our Sikh friends I We have I only appeal to them to free themselves from external influences, meet us, and I am confident that we shall come to a settlement which shall reasonably satisfy our Sikh friends

He ridiculed the idea that self-determination should be extended to all communities in the Punjab and said "The Muslims cialm the Punjab and said right of self-determination because they are a national group on a given territory which is their homeland and in the zones where they are in a majority Have you known anywhere in history, he asked that subnational groups scattered all over be given a State Where are you going to get a State for them In that case you have got 14 per cent Muslims in the United Provinces Why not have a State for them? Muslims in the United Provinces are not a national group, they are scattered fore, in constitutional language they are characterised as a sub national group who cannot expect anything more than what is due from any civilised Government to a minority I have made the position clear The Muslims are not sub national, it is their birth right to ciaim and exercise the right of self determination

Since his fadure to bring round the Sikhs, Mr Jinnah stiffened up on the question of Pakistan. He said "We consider that the decision of the Congress is not only a declaration of rebellion against the British Government but It is an interneeine war and this movement Government to accept the Congress demand and if you do not approve of it, it is your res

Delhi Session.—A session of the Muslim Leagu was held at Delhi late in the spring of 1943 M Jinnah, who presided, made a three-hour speed in the course of which he said —"Nobody wi welcome it more than myself, if Mr Gandhi! now really willing to come to a settlement wit the Moslem League Let me tell you that will b the greatest day, both for the Hindus and th Musilms If that is Mr Gandhi's desire, what i there to prevent him from writing direct to me Who is there that can prevent him from doing so (Renewed Cheers) What is the use of going t the Viceroy? Strong as this Government may be in this country, I cannot believe that they will have the daring to stop such a letter, if it is sent to me It will be a very serious thing indeed, if such a letter were stopped Mr Gandhi gets all the information and knows what is going on If there is any change of heart on his part, he has only to drop a few lines to me Then the Muslim League will not fall, whatever may have been our controversy before "

"When we passed the Lahore resolution, we did not use the word Pakistan at all," Mr Jinnah continued

"Who gave us this word? (shouts of Hindus') Let me tell you this is their folly They started damning this on the ground that it was Pakistan They folsted this word upon us, and they talked of Pan-Islamian We ourselves went on for a long time using the phrase 'the Lahore resolution popularly known as Pakistan' But how long are we to have this long phrase? I say to Hindu and British friends, we thank you for giving us one

Deprecating talk of some sort of loose Federa-on, Mr Jinnah declared "There is no such tion, Mr Jinnah declared thing as a loose Federation When a Central Federal Government is established, it will tighten and tighten until the units are pulverised in the matter of real power and are reduced to the same status as Indian States at

"We are opposed to any such scheme bound in the long run to lead to certain emascula tion of the entire Musiim nation, socially, cducationally, culturally, economically and politically and to the establishment of a Hindu majority Raj in this sub continent Therefore, dismiss from your mind any idea of this kind that might lure you "

After charging Mr Gandhi and other Congress ieaders with systematic and deliberate attempt to establish Hindu rule in India, Mr Jinnah said "let us close that chapter Even nations that have killed millions of each other—we have not done so yet even they who were the bitterest enemies yesterday have to day become friends That is politics representative of the Crown speaking with all A resolution setting up a committee of action seriousness and responsibility could think was moved by Chaudhury Khaliquzzaman that he could win this war while he was totally It ran to the political situation British Government had to get the wholehearted and enthusiastic support of some party in the had, in view of the vague, indefinite and unset country if not all Livery party was kept at the polley of the British Government towards arm's length, discontented and dissatisfied the Muslim demand of Pakistan on the one eountry if not all Livery party was kept at arm's length, discontented and disatisfied The Vleeroy's appeal for cooperation, Mr Jinnah rald, was really a flagrant abuse of the English word "cooperation" "What does a cooperation word in place English 2 Without eo operation mean in plain English? Without giving any real share or authority in the Government, we are asked to do the work of camp followers, menlais and subservlents Can we expect any self-respecting organisation to recept that position?"

"The British Government are pursuing a definite policy," Mr. Jinnah declared "They do not want co operation from any party. The Congress has decided to non-eo operate and has resorted to mass elvil disobedience. The Congress has been outlawed. What has the rest of India done? We have offered our hand of co operation for the job of winning to a representative of tile British press which menu, with a share and authority in the Govern-the Pakistan demand made at the Karachl ment, and that a definite promise is given that session of the League, indicating a softening of when we win it That has been rejected And yet our organisation is being treated the And yet our organisation is being treated like the Congress organisation which represents no doubt a solid body of Hindus Both the organisations, the Congress and the Mushm League, are treated alike They would like to outlaw the Mushm League We are quite ready for it.

Mr Jinnah asserted that the Hindus were responsible for holding up the process of the country He asked "Can wo Mussalmans of India accept Akhand Hindustan, Hindu Raj over the entire sub-continent? Is it Raj over the entire sub continent? Is it remaining paramount as far as armed forces that possible to expect Muslim India to agree to Akhand Hindustan and Hindu Raj on the continent? This is their proposal They have not given up their dream On the other hand, they talk of independence Whose independence? I have repeatedly warned to the new constitution. The last phase of this you that when they talk of independence, they process of adjustment would be the evolution mean the independence of India and the slavery of a treaty understanding between Great mean the independence of India and the slavery of Muslim India If the Hindus, owing to their obsession or dream or cussedness, put obstruction in the path of freedom of both and insist upon the freedom of one and the slavery of the other, I ask you who are responsible for holding up the progress of the country except the Hindus?"

A committe of action consisting of not fewer than five and not more than seven members and with a proper secretariat to organise, co-ordinate and unify the activities of the League was suggested by Mr Jinnah "It will be the duty of this committee to examine the various suggestions received for the uplift of the Muslims," he said He appealed for of the Muslims," he said He appealed for funds to carry on the activities of the League He said that he appealed nearly two years ago for a sum of Rs 10,00,000, but so far he had received only Rs 5,50,000. With that money at their disposal they could make a beginning Mr Jinnah also suggested the setting up of an

A resolution setting up a committee of action Itran -

"Whereas the All-India Muslim League, in its annual session held at Delhl in April 1943, hand and the unpatriotic, short sighted, and antagonistic attitude of the Hindus on the other, resolved to rely on the Mussalmans of India generally and the Muslims of Pakistan zone in particular for the attainment of their cherished goal, this session of the Ali-India Muslim League hereby resolves to appoint a committee of action of not less than five and not more than seven, to be nominated by the President, to prepare and organise the Mussalmans all over India to meet all contingencies, resist the imposition of All-India Federation or any other constitution for a united India and prepare them for the coming struggle for the achievement of Pakistan

Shortly after this Mr Jinnah gave an interview has been "held to constitute a modification of militating against an understanding with the Congress or the Hindus" At Karachi Mr Jinnah raised the slogan "divide and quit" On the minds of most people that expression left the impression that the League, like the Congress, demanded that the British should forthwith leave India, but with this difference that the League wanted them to leave after dividing India According to his latest explana-tion, that does not seem to be his desire He seems now to contemplate a transition period of undefined duration, with the British authority remaining paramount as far as armed forces and between Great of a treaty understanding Britain on the one hand and the Hindus and Muslims on the other, somewhat analogous to the Egyptian Treaty of Independence

This interpretation has been variously understood by his errics. Unfriendly observers read in it a desire to obtain from Britain a reward for his consistent and persistent mud slinging at the Congress and Mahatma Gandli One commentator said Mr Jinnah has made it as clear as the noon day sun that "he reiles on the British not only to effect the partition of India but to protect that partition by remaining in the country" In addition to explaining or diluting the Pakistan goal, according as the critic views it, Mr Jinnah's latest utterance furnishes a commentary on the recent Viceregal pronouncement He interpreted Lord Wavell's address to mean that Government were content with the present position But Mr Jinnah's critics return the compliment they say that Ali-India Parliamentary Board—a supreme body he, too, is content with the present situation to supervise the elections and disputes regarding He does not want Government to afford elections Congress leaders as it would mean that the Letter t Mr Junah.—Shortly after the Congress has won and that Government cannot release from Jellin May 1914 Mr Gandhi released

"First take the preamble, the basis of the and immediately establishing a National Gotterms which, if accepted, will completely bind ment of Mr Gandhi's conception. The tho Muslim League, whereas the Mahatma may withdraw his blessings as he is not speaking. according to Mr Rajagopalachari, with tho authority of the Congress or in his representative capacity, whatever that may mean

"Then we come to the first clause, 'subject to the terms set out below as regards the constitution. I do not see 'the constitution' in this formula, which constitution does he refer to?

"Then comes the demand for our endersing of Indian demand for Independence—It implies the Indian demand for Independence that we are against the independence of the peoples of India, and both Mr Gandhi and Mr Rajagopalachari know that it is an un called for insinuation to make, and they are casting an unwarranted reflection upon the Muslim League

"Next comes the condition that we should co operate with the Congress in the formation of a Provisional Interim Government for the transitional period, thereby arrogating to the Congress a dominant and superior position and requiring our co operation as a subordinate body with this leading organisation to tho kind of provisional interim Government for tho transitional period that is to be formed, no indication is given as to its form, character, personnel, its powers, etc. After the termination of the war, a Commission shall be appointed for domarcating contiguous districts in the north-west and east of India, and a plebiscite of all the inhabitants would be held districtwise where the Muslim population is in absolute majority It is not stated who will appoint this Commission, what will be its personnel and its powers, and who will onforce its findings

"Really how can Mr Rajagopalachari stand unabashed and make a public statement that his formula concedes all that the Muslim League's resolution of March 1940 demands? It would be open to all parties to advocate their point of view before a plebiseite is held, although this agreement is intended to be only between the Congress and the League "Next in the event of separation, mutual agreements shall be entered into for safeguarding defence, commerce, and communications and for other essential purposes. The question arises, safeguarding these matters from whom, and what does it mean? These mutual agreements are made obligatory, and it is not very easy to understand the significance of this clause

"Then comes the last clause, which is the ight of ingenuity These terms shall be height of ingenuity binding only in, case of transfer by Britain of full power and responsibility for the Government of Indla how and when " But it does not say to whom,

Continuing, Mr Jinnah said —"Let Mr Gandhl join hands with the Muslim League on the basis of Pakistan in plain and unequivocal language and we shall be nearer the independence of the peoples of India, which is so dear to the heart of not only Mr Gandhi but of millions in this country Mr Gandhi and Mr Raja-gopalachari are putting the cart before the horse when they say that all these clauses ean have any value or can become effective only if Great Britain transfers power to India, saye and except acting on his latest seven points on July 22 and I thank you for it

no chance of it unless the Hindus and Mus come to a settlement and unite and thus means of a united front wring out our free from the unwilling hands of the rulers of ( Britain

"At last—and It is conduciso to fur progress that Mr Gandhi has, at any rat his personal capacity, accepted the prin of partition or division of India What rem now is the question of how and when this got to be carried out Mr Gandhi knows understands the position better than any il man, for in one of his articles in the Hai he put the question of Pakistan demand nutshell This was what he said the Onald c Azam does not represent the sidered opinion oven of his colleagues according to him in a nutshell, is a den for carving out of India a portion to be wi treated as an independent and sovereign St

"I hope I have made it clear that the cedure and method adopted is hardly condu to friendly negotiations and the form is dictation, as it is not open to any modificat This is not calculated to lead to fruitful res or a solution and settlement of the problem w. concerns the destiny of a nation of hunc millions of Muslims and their posterity and regards the merits of the proposal, Mr Gai is offering a shadow and a husk, maimed, m lated and moth catch Pakistan and thus tr to pass off having met our Pakistan selicme Muslim demand

'This back', said Mr Jinnah, "can only be vorked out on the footing that the present constitution must be scrapped and a new constitution be sub-lituted for it. I warn the public to understand the far reaching impil cutions of the e proposits, and the question arises that if this constitution is to be scrapped and a new constitution has got to be framed, then what about Pallstan?

"But after these proposis were put by Mr Gaudid Mr Rejagopulatharl makes a proposal which is vitally different. He says "What we ask is that the Vicerov's reserve powers should not be claimed as they are claimed When we took over the Government in 1937 In the provinces, there was the same quarrel as to the powers of the Governors. We came to an agreement. There was an understanding that except in extraordinary elementances necessitating interference for the sako of the war the minorities and so on, there should be no interference by the Governors In the same manner, a working arrangement thout the Vicerov's reserve powers would be most practicable and easy. 'Illis amount to practically the Cripps proposals, namely, that we should participate in the Government under the present constitution immediately "

Jinnah "Then next we continued have before us the question of a Hindu Muslim settlement and before either of the above mentloned proposals of Mr Gaudhi and Mr Rajagopalaehari can be considered, Hindu Mr Rajagopalaehari can be considered, Hindu Muslim differences must be settled first and for that purpose Mr Gandid and I are going to meet, I hope very soon I naturally do not wish to say anything at present to the press representatives, and I am sure that you here will not expect me to discuss them at present

"Suffice it to say that Mr Gandhi has now accepted the principle of partition or division of India

"In these circumstances, I appeal to the press and leaders of all communities to maintain a complete truce and apply their energies to create a friendly atmosphere and goodwill for my proposed meeting with Mr Gandlu and withhold their judgment until then, and give us the fullest opportunity to do our best in the interests of the two great nations—Hindu and Muslim-which may lead to the desire of our heart, namely, the achievement of freedom for both

was to meet them in every fair and responsible They should not allow them elses to be infinenced by any outside agencies and I appeal to them not to put may of struction in the way of our achieving Pakistan as they will be much better oil in Pakistan than in Alhand Hindustan "

"I will to any a word to make He added the position of the Muslim League clear so far as the Schwinked Cast's and other minorities are concerned. Their just claims will have to be met before any complete settlement is achieved. It is the cardinal principle of the Muslim League that the minorities be they within Pakistan or Hinduston, shall be adequately safeguarded and protected and this is, in fact, embodied in the Muslim League resolution of 1940 out-lining the basic principle of Pakistan."

Answering the question whether he regarded the Sikhs as a sub national group or a nation Mr. Innalisald. "It has been brought to my notice that the Sikhs think that I have described them as a sub national group and they feel hurt. This is only a constitutional phrase which means people belonging to a nation who are scattered all over a given territory or even islands, such as the Muslims are in the minority provinces, and at the timo I used the expression 'sub national group' I made it quite clear that so are the Mu-lims in certain provinces I think it was clear at the time I made that speech and since this question has been asked I again make it clear, if possible more clear

"Sub national group does not mean that the Sikhs are not a nation I do not disputo that the Sikhs are a nation. The recognised leaders of the Sikhs or their authorised organisations are welcome to send their proposals to me or to Mr Gandhi or both of us if they like They should give us their considered demand now and forget the past So far as the Muslim Lengue is concerned we are ready and willing to meet them in every way We want to give the minorities such a deal that afterwards they may not feel that they have been taken in, but that they should be happy. That is the spirit in which I want to approach the whole problem." whole problem"

Asked if he would invite proposals from other minorities also Mr Jinnah sald "We two (Gandin and Jinnah) are not the enemies of any particular community, and we are meeting, and our one and sole desire is to secure freedom for all sections of the peoples of this country"

On the morrow of the League Council meeting Mr Ilmiah, in pursuance of the resolution passed at the Karachi session of the All-India Mushim League in December 1943, announced the appointment of a planning committee whose main function was to survey and examine the condition of India, and more particularly of the Pakistan area, with a view to preparing the Musilms to participate in the natural developments in the discretization of commercial and agricultural conditions. ments in the direction of commercial and agri Some of the Sikh leaders are unduly cultural expansion and industrialisation and

Gandingi's letter dated September 11, 1944

Dear Quaid-1-Azam,

I received your letter yesterday at 3 30 p m I was in the mldst of appointments I hasten to reply at the earliest opportunity of all the parties and groups composing India I proceed to settle the details forthwith Yo If such joint action is unfortunately impossible, then too I must fight with the assistance of such elements as can be brought together taken as can be brought together I am glad, therefore, that you did not break

Of course, I pledged to use all the influence I may I with the Congress to ratify my agreement you May I remind you that the Re Formula was designed in the first instance your acceptance and submission thereafter the League?

It is true that I said an ocean scparated and me in outlook But that had no refere to the Lahore Resolution of the League Lahore Resolution is indefinite Rajaii taken from it the substance and given it a she

Now for the points raised by you

I have already answered this in foregoing

The constitution will be framed by Provisional Government contemplated in formula or an authority specially set up by after the British power is withdrawn independence contemplated is of the whole India as it stands

The basis for the formation of the Provisio Interim Government will have to be agr to between the League and the Congress

- The Commission will be appointed Provisional Government 'Absol Provisional Government majority' means a clear majority over n Muslim elements as in Sind Baluchistan the Frontier Province. The form of plebis and the franchise must be a matter for discussi-
- 4. "All parties" means, the interested
- "Mutual agreement" means agreeme between contracting parties "Safeguardidefence, etc", means for me a central or jo board of control Baicguarding means sa guarding against all who may put the comm interests in jeopardy

Mr Jinnah's letter dated September 11 Dear Mr Gandhl,

I received your letter of September 11 on today I note that you have approache 5 p m today me as an individual, and I have already expresse I nave said in my letter to you, it is implied in the Rajaji Formula and I have stated publicly that I have approached you as an individual My life mission has been Hindu Muslim unity, which I want for its own sake, but which is not to be achieved without the foreign ruling power being ousted. Hence the first condition of the evercise of the right of self determination is achieving Independence by the joint action is unfortunately impossible. As to the third point, the Provisional Government, being the appointing autiority, will give effect to the findings of the Commission. This I thought was implied in my previous answer.

As regards the next part of the clause, the Formula proceeds to lay down that "the Muslim League will co operate with the Congress in the formation of the Provisional Interim Government for the transitional period." I

Rajaji telis me that absolute majority is used in his formula in the same sense as it is used in ordinary legal parlance wherever more than two groups are dealt with I cling to my own answer But you will perhaps suggest a third meaning and persuade me to accept it

The form of the pleblseite and franchise must be left to be decided by the Provisional Interim Government uniess we decide it now I should say it should be by adult suffrage of all the inhabitants of the Pakistan area

As to the fourth 'all parties' means you and I and every one else holding view on the question at issue will and should seek by peaceful persuasion to influence public opinion as is done where democracy functions wholly or in part

As to the fifth, supposing that the result of the pleblseite is in favour of partitlon, the Provisional Government will draft the treaty and agreements as regards the administration of matters of common interest, but the same has to be confirmed and ratified by the Governments of the two States The machinery required for the settlement and administration of matters of common interest will, in the first instance, be planned by the Interim Government, but subsequently will be matter for settlement between the two Governments acting through the agencies appointed by each for that purpose

As to the sixth, I hope the foregoing makes superfluous any further reply

Yours smeerely, M K Gandhl

Mr Jinnah's letter dated 14th September, 1944

Dear Mr Gandhi

the point satisfactorily

I received your letter of September 14 at 4-45 pm to day in reply to my letter of September 11 (and not of September 13 as you state, which seems to be a mistake) and I thank you for it

- (1) Please let me have as soon as you can your promised letter indicating in what way or respect the Lahore Resolution is 'indefinite'
- (2) With regard to the provision in the Gandhi-Rajajl Formula that "the Mushm League endorses the Indian demand for Independence," I asked you in my letter dated September 10, "does it mean the Congress demand for Independence, as formulated in the August 1942 Resolution by the All India Congress Committee in Bombay or, if not, has it the significance of this term," to which you replied by your letter of September 11, "The Independence contemplated is of the whole of India as it stinds." Hence I again ask, does it mean on the basis of an United India? I find that you have not clarified the policy of the contemplated as of the contemplated is of the contemplated.

As regards the next part of the clause, the Formula proceeds to lay down that "the Muslim Government for the transitional period," requested you by my letter of September 10 to let me know "the basis or the lines on which such a Government is to be set up or constituted If you have a complete and definite scheme, please let me have it," to which you replied by your letter of September 11 under reply the basis for the formation of the Pre that visional Interim Government will have to be agreed to between the League and the Congress" But that is not meeting my request for ciarlacation, or giving me at least the outlines of such a Government And that is what I have been asking for I hope that you do appreciate my point when I am requesting you to let me have rough outlines of the proposed Provisional Interim Government according to the Formula, so that I may have some idea Of course, I can quite understand that such a Provisional Interim Government will represent all the parties and would be of a character that will unspire confidence at the present moment of all the parties I can gulte understand that when the moment arrives, certain things may follow, but before we can deal with this formula in a satisfactory manner, I repert again that, as it is your formula, you should give me a rough idea of the Provisional Interim Gevernment that you contemplate and of your conception What I would like to know would be, what will be the powers of such a Provisional Interim Government, how it will be formed, to whom it will be respon sible, and what will be its composition, etc You, being the sponsor of this Gandhi-Rajaji Formula, should give me some rough idea and pleture of it, so that I may understand what this part of the formula means

In your letter of September 14 In reply to my letter of September 11 you inform me that you would have told me if you had any scheme in mind "I imagine that if we two can agree it would be for us to consult the other parties" but that is just the point Unless I have some outlines or scheme, however rough, from you, what are we to discuss in order to reach any agreement?

As regards the other matters which you have further explained, I have noted the explanation, and I do not think I need press you further, although some of them are not quite satisfactory

Yours sincerely, Jinnah

Mr Gandhi's letter dated September 15 Dear Quaid-i-Azam,

M K Gandhi

Gandhiji aecond letter dated September

I woke up at 3 am today to finish my in your representative character or capacity promised letter on the Lahore Resolution

There is no mistake about the date. I wrote in answer to your reminder of the in order to negotiate and reach an agreement 13th Instant

Independence does mean as envisaged in the AICC Resolution of 1942 But It cannot be on the basis of a United India If we come to a settlement, it would be on the basis of the settlement, assuming, of course, that it secures general acceptance in the country. The process will be somewhat like this. We reach by joint effort Independence for India as it stands Indla become free will proceed to demarcation, plebiseite and partition if the people concerned vote for partition All this is implied in the Rajajl formula

As to the Provisional Interin Government, I am afraid I cannot carry my answer and and it is for you to judge finally, when you further than I have done Though I have have studied this question thoroughly, whether no seheme for the Provisional Government, if you have one in connection with the Lahore Resolution, which also, I presume, requires an interim Government, we can discuss it

The Formula was framed by Rajaji in good I accepted it in equal good faith faith hope was that you would look at it with favour We still think it to be the best in the circum You and I have to put flesh on it, if we can I have explained the process we have to go through You have no objection to it Perhaps, you want to know how I would form the Provisional Government if I was myited thereto If I was in that unenviable position, I would see all the claimants and endeavour to satisfy them My co operation will be available in that task

I can give you full satisfaction about your quiry, "What I would like to know would inquiry, be, what will be the powers of such a Provisional Interim Government, how it will be formed, to whom it will be responsible." The Provisional Interim Government will be responsible to the elected members of the present Assembly or a newly elected one. It will have all the powers less that of the Commander-in Chief during the war and full powers thereafter It will be the authority to give effect to the agreement that may be arrived at between the League and the Congress and ratifled by the other parties

Mr Jinnal's letter dated September 17

Dear Mr Gandhu,

I have your letter of September 15, and I thank you for it I note that you have for the moment shunted the Rajaji Formula and are applying your mind very seriously to the Lahore Resolution—of the Muslim League It is my duty to explain the Lahore Resolution to you to day and persuade you to accept it, even though you are talking to me as you have often made it clear, in your individual capacity have successfully converted non-Muslim Indians in no simili number and also a large body of foreigners, and if I can convert you, exercising as you do tremendous influence over Hindu India, it will be no small assistant to of the Resolution Surely, this is not asking for the resolution where the proceeding on the described to the Resolution I have in and my difficulties remain until you are vested for with a representative status and authority wltíi vou

You have stated in your letter dated September 11 that the Lahore Resolution is "indefinite, I, therefore, naturally asked you to please let me know in what way or respect the Lahere Resolution is indefinite, and now I have received your letter of September 15 under reply

The third paragraph of your letter is not seeking clarification, but a disquisition and expression of your views on the point, whether the Mussalmans are a nation This matter ean hardly be discussed by means of correspondence. There is a great deal of discussion and literature on this point which is available, the Mussaimans and Hindus are not two major nations in this sub continent For the moment, I would refer you to two publications, although there are many more,—Dr Ambedkar's book and "MRT's" "Nationalism in Conflict in India" We maintain and hold that Muslims and Hindus are two major nations by any definition or test of a nation We are a nation of a hundred million, and what is more, we are a nation with our own distinctive culture and envilisation, language and literature, art and architecture, names and nomenclature, sense of value and proportion, legal laws and morai codes, customs and calendar, history and traditions, aptitudes and ambitions ln short, we have our own distinctive outlook on life and of life. By all canons of international law we are a nation. Now I shall reply to your various points

- Yes, the word "Pakistan" is not mentioned in the Resolution and it does not bear the original meaning. The word has now become synonymous with the Lahore Resolution
- (2) This point does not arise, but still I reply that the question is a mere bogey
- (3) This point is covered by my answer that the Mussalmans of India are a nation As to the last part of your query, it is hardly relevant to the matter of clarification of the resolution
- what the word Surely, you know " Múslims " means
- This point does not arise by way of elarification of the text of the Lahore Resolution
  - They will form units of Pakistan (6) No
- As soon as the basis and the principles embodied in the Lahore Resolution are accepted the question of demarcation will have to be taken up immediately
- (8) In view of my reply to (7), your question (8) has been answered
  - (9) Does not relate to elarification

Mr Jinnsh a letter of Gentember 1 Dear Mr G ndhi

I am in rec lpt of your letter of September 19 and I b ve alre dy gi en you my snswers ld and I by earr dy gir hyou my snawers to all your questions relating to distillation of the Labore Resolution or any p to fit of I am gid that you dmit when yon easy it my be that all my questions do not arise from the view fm red rification of the Labore Re of tion but you particularly emphasise y ur pol ts I5 (a) d I5 (b)

I g to yithas n ristion to the context of the Re obttion on p part thereof You he we brought o many me trait ur correspondence which r tirely ontaid the matter req ind g cl illication so I have perforce to de l with them. Let me first deal with your letter of September 11

D Ogramm

(1) You say, "My life mission has been Lahore Resolution is indefinite," and I sent Hindu-Muslim unity, which I want for its own you a reminder on September 13, to which sake but which is not to be achieved without you replied by your letter of September 15, the foreign ruling power being ousted Henco not confining yourself really to matters of the first condition of the exercise of the clarification, but introducing other extraneous right of Self-determination is achieving Inde pendence by the joint action of all the partica and groups composing India If such joint action 15 by my letter of Septeaber 17, and firmished is unfortunately impossible then too I must you with all the clarifications, informing you fight with the assistance of such elements as that you had introduced several matters which can be brought together

(2) The gist of your letters in to date is that you are wedded to this policy and will pursue it In your next letter of September 14, while you were good enough to furnish me with the clarification of the Gandin-Rajaji Formula, you were pleased to observe have, at any rate for the moment, put it out of my mind and I am now concentrating on the Luhore Resolution in the hope of finding a ground for mutual agreement" In your letter of September 15, von sav "Independence does menn as envisaged in the AICC Resolntion of 1942" It is, therefore, clear that you are not prepared to revise your policy and that you adhere firmly to your policy and programme, which you have persisted in the policy of the programme of the policy and programme. and which culminated in your demand, final policy, programme and the method and sanction policy, programme and the method and sanction for enforcing it by resorting to mass civil disobedience in terms of the August 8, 1942, Resolution, and you have made it more eleragain by stating in your letter of September 19 as follows "As to your verdict on my policy and programme, we must agree to differ For, I am wholly unrepentant" You know that the August 1942 Resolution is inlimical to the deals and demands of Muslim India Then again, in the course of our discussion when I again, in the course of our discussion when I asked you for clarification of the Gandhi Rajaji Formula, you were pleased to say, by your letter of September 15 as follows "For the moment I have shunted the Rajaji Formula and with your assistance am applying my mind very seriously to the famous Lahorc Resolution of the Muslim League " We discussed it in its various aspects, as you told me vou wore open to be persuaded and converted to our point of view I discussed the Resolution at great length with you, and explained everything you wanted to understand, even though you have emphasized more than once that you are having these talks with me in your personal eapacity, and in your letter of Septembor 15 you assured me in the following words with regard to the Lahore Resolution __"Beheve regard to the Lahore Resolution me I approach vou as a seeker, though I represent nobody but myself," and that you were open to conviction and conversion You had informed me by your letter of September 11 as follows "It is true that I said an ocean separated you and me in outlook But that had no reference to the Lahore Resolution of the League The League Resolution is indefinite. I naturally, therefore, proceeded in reply to ask you by my letter of September 11 as follows "You say the Lahore Resolution is indefinite You never asked me for any clarification or explanation of the terms of the Resolution, but you really indicated your emphatic opposition to the very basis and the fundamental Dear Quaid-1 Azam, principles embodied in it I would, therefore, like to know in what way or respect the disturbed me that I thought I would postpene matters, with some of which I had already dealt in reply to this letter of vonrs of September could hardly be discussed in a sitisfactory manner by means of correspondence already given you all the elarifications you require so far as the Lahore Resolution goes and its text is concerned. You again raise further arguments, reasons and grounds and continue to persist in a disquisition on the point, amongst others, whether Muslims of India are a nation, and thea you proceed further to say "Can we not agree to differ on the question of two nations and yet solve the problem on the basis of Self-termination?" It seems to me that you are labouring under some misconception of the real meaning of the word "self determination" Apart from the meonsistencies and contradictions of the various positions that you have adopted in the course of our correspondence, as indicated above, can son not appreciate our point of view that we claim the right of Self determination as a nation and not as a territorial unit, and that we are entitled to exercise our inherent right as a Muslim Natioa, which is our birth right? Whereas you are labouring under the wrong idea that "Self determination," means only that of "a territorial unit" which, by the way, is neither demarcated nor defined vet, and there is no Union or Federal Constitution of India in being, functioning as a sovereign Central Government Ours is a case of division and earling out two independent sovereign states by wav of settlement between two major nations, Hindus and Mushms, and not of severance of secession from any existing union, which is non existent in India. The right of self determination which we claim postulates that we are a nation, and as such it would be the Self determination of the Mussalmans, and they alone are entitled to exercise that right I hopo you will now understand that your question 15 (a) does not arise out of the Lahore Resolution or of any part thereof As to 15(b), again it does not arise as a matter of elarification, for it will be a matter for the constitution making body chosen by Pakistan to deal with and decide all matters as a sovereign bedy representing Pakistan 118-0-118 the constitution making body of Hindustan or any other party concerned There cannot be Defence and similar matters of "common concern," when it is accepted that Pakistan and Hindustan will be two separate independent sovereign states. I hope I have now given all satisfactory explorations over a clearly the matter of explanations, over and above the matter of elimination of the Lahore Resolution in the hope of converting you as an individual

Dear Quald i Azam,

Last evening's talk has left a bad tasto in Our talks and our correspondence seem to run in parallel liues and never touch We reached the breaking point one another last evening but, thank God, we were unwilling We resumed discussion and suspended It in order to allow me to keep my time for the evening public prayer

In order that all possibility of making any mistake in a matter of this great importance may be removed I would like you to give me in writing what precisely on your part you would want me to put my signature to adhere to my suggestion that we may call in some outside assistance to help us at factory this stage

Yours sincerely, M K Gandbl

Mr Jinnali's letter of September 23 Dear Mr Gandlu.

I am in receipt of your letter of September 23 May I refer you to my letter of to day's date which I sent to you in reply to yours of September 22? I have nothing new or fresh to add, but I may say that it is not a case of your being asked to put your signature as representing anybody till you clothe yourself with representative capacity and are vested with authority We stand by, as I have already said, the basis and fundamental principles embodled in the Lahore Resolution of March 1940 I appeal to you once more to revise your policy and programme, as the future of this sub continent and the welfare of the peoples of Indla demand that you should face realities

> Yours sincerely. M A Jinnali

Gandhiji's letter dated September 24 Dear Quald-i Azam,

I have your two letters of September 23 in reply to my letters of the 22nd and 23rd

With your assistance, I am exploring the possibilities of reaching an agreement, so that the claim embodied in the Muslim League Resolution of Lahore may be reasonably satisfied You must, therefore, have no appreliensions that the August Resolution will stand in the way of our reaching an agreement That Resolution dealt with the question of India as against Britain, and it cannot stand in the way of our settlement

I proceed on the assumption that India is not to be regarded as two or more nations, but as one family consisting of many members, of whom the Muslims living In the north-west zones, ie, Baluchlstan, Sind, North west Frontier Province and that part of the Punjub where they are in absolute majority over all the other elements and in parts of Bengal and Assam, where they are in absolute majority, desire to live in separation from the rest of India

Differing from you on the general basis, I can yet recommend to the Congress and the country the acceptance of the claim for separa | east, comprising six Provinces, namely, Sind,

Gandhi's letter dated September 23 [thon contained in the Mushim League Resolution of Lahore 1940 on the basis and on the following

> The areas should be demareated by a Com inlesson, approved by the Congress and the League. The wishes of the lubabitants of the areas demarcated should be ascertained through the rotes of the adult population of the areas or through some equivalent method

If the vote is in favour of separation, it shall be agreed that these areas shall form a separate State as soon as possible after India is free from foreign domination and can, therefore, he constituted into two sovereign independent States

There shall be a treaty of separation, which should also provide for the efficient and satisfactory administration of Foreign Affairs, nactory administration of Foreign Affairs, Defence, Internal Communications, Customs, Commerce and the hic, which must necessarily continue to the hick of the continue to the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the hick of the continue to be matters of common interest between the contracting parties

The treaty shall also contain terms for safeguarding the rights of minorities in the tno states

Immediately on the acceptance of this agree ment by the Congress and the League, the two shall deelde upon a common course of action for the attainment of the Independence of

The League will, llowever, be free to remain out of any direct action to which the Congress may resort and in which the League may not be willing to participate

f you do not agree to these terms, could you let me know in precise terms what you would have me to accept in terms of the Lahore Resolution and bind myself to recommend to the Congress? If you could kindly do this I shall be able to see, apart from the difference in approach, what definite terms I can agree to In your letter of 23rd September, you refer to "the basis and fundamental prine ples embodied in the Lahore Resolution" and ask me to accent them Surely, this is unnecessary when as I feel I have accepted the concrete consequence that should follow from such acceptance

> Yours sincerely, M K Gandhl

Mr Jinnah's letter dated September 25

Dear Mr Gandhi,

I am in receipt of your letter of September 24, and I thank you for it You have already rejected the basis and fundamental principles of the Lahore Resolution

- You do not accept that the Mussalmans of India are a nation
- (2) You do not accept that the Mussalmans have an inherent right of self-determination
- (3) You do not accept that they alone are entitled to evereise this right of theirs for Self determination
- You do not accept that Pakistan is composed of two zones, north west and north-

mentioned are accepted and for that purpose machinery may be set up by agreement

You do not accept the provisions embodied You do not accept the provisions embodied in the Labore Resolution for sategnating the minorities and yet in your letter under reply you say. The terms clearly indic to thet your b is is in offel conflict with and is opposed t the fundamentel besis and principles of the Lahore Re ciution

Now let me take your main terms

(a) I pocced on the essumption that Indi is not to be regarded a two or m re n tions but as one if mily consisting of many memb re of whom the Muslims living in the north west zone e Balled tan Sind? north west zone e Baluchi tan Sindt North West Frontier Province nd that part North west around a system to the rain of the Fund b where they are in absolut majority or all the other elements and in majority of a single system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the system of the nd mutileted by nd redemption and le ve us only with the bush and it is opposed to tle

Foreign Affairs, Defence, Internal Communica sultations with the League Working Committee tions, Customs, Commerce, and the like, which thereon, and my own letter to you suggesting nery will be act up to administer these matters, and how and to whom again that authority will be responsible Resolution, as I have already explained to you, it on your Council all these matters, which are the life-blood of any State, cannot be delegated to any central authority or Government The matter security of the two States and the natural and mutual obligations that may arise out of physical contiguity will be for the constitution making body of Pakistan and that of Hindustan. or other party concerned, to deal with on the footing of their being two independent States As regards the safeguarding of the rights of minorities, I have already explained that this question of safeguarding the minorities is fully stated in the Lahore Resolution

You will, therefore, see that the entire basis of your new proposal is fundamentally opposed to the Lahore Resolution, and as I have already pointed out to you both in the correspondence and in our discussions, it is very difficult for me to entertain counter-proposals and negotiate and reach any agreement or settlement with you as an individual, unless they come from you in your representative capacity That was the samo difficulty with regard to the Gandhi Rajiji Formula, and I made it clear to you, at the very outset, but the Formula was discussed as you asserted that it had met the Lahore Resolution in substance, but while you were furnishing me with the clarification of this Formula, you shunted it and we confined ourselves to the Lahoro Resolution, and hence the question of your representative capacity did not ariso regarding this Formula But now you have, in your letter of September 24, made a new proposal of your own on your own basis, and the same difficulties present themselves to me as before, and it is difficult to deal with it any further unless it comes from you in your representative capacity

I cannot agree with you when you finally wind up by saying "In your letter of 23rd September, you refer to 'the basis and fun damental principles embodied in the Lahore Resolution and ask me to accept them Surely, this is unnecessary when as I feel I have accepted the concrete consequence that should follow from such acceptance" This is obviously far from correct Why not then accept the fundamentals of the Lahore Resolution and proceed to settle the detalls?

Yours sincerely,

MA Jinnah

Gandhlil's letter dated September 25 Dear Quaid 1-47am.

Yesterday's talk leads me to inflict this letter on you, which I trust you will not mind must necessarily continue to be matters of a meeting between you and me My proposal common interest between the contracting of yesterday is an earnest effort to meet the parties" If these vital matters are to be essential requirements of the Labore Resolution parties" If these vital matters are to be essential requirements of the Lahore Resolution administered by some central authority, you I would like you, therefore, to think fifty times do not indicate what sort of authority or machibefore throwing an offer which had been made before throwing an offer which had been made entirely in the spirit of service in the cause of communal harmony Do not take, I pray, the responsibility of rejecting the offer Throw According to the Lahore the responsibility of rejecting the offer Give me an opportunity of addressing them If they feel like rejecting it, I would like you to advise the Council to put it before the open session of the League If you will accept my advice and permit me I would attend the open session and address it

You are too techmeal when you dismiss my proposal for arbitration or outside guidance If I have approached over points of difference you as an individual, and not in any represent tative capacity, it is because we believe that if I reach an agreement with you, it will be of material use in the process of securing a Congress League settlement and acceptance of it by the country. Is it irrelevant or inadmissible to supplement our efforts to convince each other with outside help, guidance, advice or even arbitration?

Yours sincerely, M K Gandhl

Letter from Mr Jinnah dated Septomber 26 Dear Mr Gandhi,

I am in receipt of your letter of Soptember It is ontirely incorrect and has no founda tion in fact, for you to say that our conversation have come about as a result of my correspondence with Rajan in July last over his Formula. It is equally baseless to say "and your consultations with the League Working Committee thereon". It was entirely in response to your letter of July 17, 1944, which I received while I was at Srinagar, with a fervent request on your part to meet you, and you ended that letter by saying "Do not disappoint me" In my reply, again from Srinagar, dated July 24, 1944, I intimated to you that I would be 24, 1944, I intimated to you that I would be glad to receive you at my house in Bombay on my return, which would probably be about the middle of August This was long before the meeting of the Working Committee or that of the Council of the All-India Muslim Lergue, and long before I reached Lahore, and when you arrived here and told me that you were approaching me in your individual you were approaching mo in your individual capacity. I at once made it clear to you and informed you, both in our talks and by my letter, that the position you had taken up had no precedent for it, and further that it was not possible to negotiate and reach an agreement unless both the parties were fully For, it is one slded business, represented represented For, it is one sided distinces, as it will not be binding upon any organisation in any sense whatevor, but you would as an individual only recommend it if any agreement is reached to the Congress and the country, whereas it would be binding upon me as the President of the Muslim League I cannot accept this position I hope you do see the unfairness and the great disadvantage to me, and it is so simple and elementary for any Our conversations have come about as a unfairness and the great disadvantage to me, result of your correspondence with Rajaji and it is so simple and elementary for any in July last o er his Formula and your contone to understand

As regards your proposal of ye terday, From Ir M A Jinnah letter dated Bombay shich you have simplified in your letter of Soptember 6 1944 epitember 21 I bave already sent you my [Press No. Gradial] eply ley feel like rejecting your offer the matter hould be put before the open assion. Let Let take However I think you for your advice on and convert you as I was hopeful of doing

Yours sincerefy M A Jinnah

From Gandhijl letter dated September 6 lear Quald i Az m

In view of my letter to you of yeslerd y it to myself I would have refrained from e ling with your letter before our meeting and y But I have deterred to Rajlia dvice to finish the chain of correspondence

I confess I am unable to understand your ensistent refusal to appreciate the fact that he formula present d to you by me in my steer of the 4th a well as the Formula resented to you by me ji give you virtually fact he embodied in the Lahora R ofution worlding at the arms time what is atsolutely corolling at the arms time what is atsolutely ecessary to make the arra ement acceptable the country hou keep on a ying that I hould occept certain theses while I have ben ontending that the best wy for us who differ alone approach to the problem I to sie bod to the demand as it stand in the Re olutiou and work it out to our mutu I attisf ction. ## "MY OFFER STILL THERE"

Replying to a question as to his future plans and whether he proposed to concentrate on the Hindu Muslim settlement or whether he was going to carry on political work, seeding lin prisonment, if necessary, Mr. Gandhi said that he would not as his inner voice told him Referring to his formula and that of Mr Rajagopulachar, he expressed the view that they contained "the substance of the League demand "

He ndded that either formula, in his opinion, conceded as much as could be reasonably expected, having regard to the interests of the whole country. So fir as he was concerned, his offer was still there it was not made in any bargaining spirit He thought it was a just solution of the problem and was also in the spirit of the policy that the Congress had consistently adopted in connection with the communal question

Asked why he prolonged his talks with Mr Jinnah when he knew from the very start that their views widely differed, Mr Gandhi replied that he was reputed to have inchnus tible patience and he had no reason to despair of either being converted by Mr Jinnah, or, in his turn, converting the inter to his view Therefore, so long as there was the slightest possibility of reaching an agreement, he clung to the hope that they would pull through a solution "Haste in such cases is most dan gerous Therefore you should conclude that yesterday was really the moment when the public should have been taken into confidence

The femilial eath thirt thin is the for from firt of the falit for fre fora

Mr. formill expressed the lips the small root Mr. Ihinch again and third it was for the press and public to wike it post to to histen that of approximately

He expect the green that he and Ilunah had not parte i ex enemie, but Itles els

One flowed why he did not recept the Lobore recountion since he claimed that life or n formula concered the enterance thereof Mr Gandhi replied that, although the resolution did not earlies the two nation theory, it was based upon the two nation theory. Also he had to examine the resolution in slew of the interpretation put upon it by Mr Jinnah And na Mr Jinnah had made several speechts in chicklation and support of the resolution, he thought it was indisputable that the resolu tion, wille it did not enunciate that theory, was based upon that theory. Mr. Ilanah himself had inclosed upon it. Therefore Mr. Gandhi nracd that apart from the two nation theory, if he could necept the principle of divi-lon of India in necordance with the demand of the League, Mr Jinnah should accept it "Unfortunately it was just there that we split"

Mr Gandhi, proceeding, said that he could not despise the opinions of non Fengue Muslims if they were intrinsically sound. An individual opinion should have greater weight than the opinion of many if that opinion was sound on merits. That was blacked decreases. That was his view of democracy

Explaining the difference between his original and present attitudes to Mr Rajagopalachari's proposal, Mr Gaudil stated that in 1942 Mr Rajagopalachari did not "burst" on the scene as he did at the Aga Khans Palace where he came with a concrete proposal His action reflected great credit on his persistence. Mr Gandhi approved of the formula because it was in a concrete shape. Therefore there was a vast difference between his stand today and that of 1012. He assured the journalist that he had not departed from the Congress standpoint, which he general terms had necented point which in general terms had necepted the principle of self determination. Mr Raja gopalacharl applied that principle to his formula

Explaining the points of difference between him and Mr Jinnah, Mr Gandhi said Where there is an obvious Muslim majority, they should be allowed to constitute themselves into a separate State. That b's been fully conceded in the Balsi formula But if the constitution siter the Beltish power is conceded in the Balsi formula But if the constitution siter the Beltish power is withdrawn common between the two I hold that it I and a proposition. That means war to the kulife It is not a 1 good iton that leads the the trait; and agreements as regards itself to voi cavry or friendly solution when two brothers separate the you only become When its obsolutes separate the you only become when two brothers separate the you only become enemies of each othe in the eys of the world the world still recomises them as boothers I reject the two nations theory but I do not reject the idea of partition between two members of the s me temily My point was that partition could be cont implated today but it could take place in reality only after independence

To this M Jinnah replied It is a pity that he thinks that this presence of a third party hinders a solution and it was very paintal to me when he is id a mind inslaved cannot be set as the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of the set of th act as it it was it is No power en en late the raid a d soil of m. n and a m sure all the raid as d soil of m. n and it is some in a constant of a contract of a contract of the wall representably over this depression from which is perpetually suffering We have to reach an agreement of our own and find a solution in apple of it at third party

commorce and the like all remain vested in and obligations by virtue of the physical and continue to be administered by a Central configurty and they would then, as two indepenauthority or Government This is what Mr Gandhi calls a partition or division between two brothers, and it is really amazing that he should repeat 'ad nauscam' that he has by his offer satisfied the essence or substance of the Lahore Resolution

It would be difficult to conceive of a more disingenuous, tortuous and crooked assertion, whileh he keeps on repeating nalvely is the use of inislending people and making confusion worse confounded? If we recept these terms which present us with a veritable trap and a slough of death it means the initial of Pakistan But I see some ray of hope still, when he says If Rajaji and I have stulffied the Lahore Resolution, we should be educated 'I tried to do so is far as Mr Gandid was concerned, for 3 weeks, but his allment is so long standing and so chrould that it is beyond the reach of a physician I hope that his appeal to the Press and the Public to educate him will not fall on deaf ears

"In one breath Mr Gandlu agrees to the principle of division, and in the next he makes proposals which go to destroy the very foundations on which the division is claimed by Muslim India On the one hand he wants a League Congress agreement, and on the other ho denies its representative charieter and authority to speak on behalf of the Musal mans of India

BOUNDARY OF PAKISTAN STATE

Mr Jinnali elucidated a number of questions put by pressmen regarding the boundary of the Pakistan State He was asked if any machinery will be set up to decide the case of predominantly non Muslim border areas of their intention to join Pakistan or Hindustan

Mr Jinnah reforred the questioner to the Lahore Resolution which stated that the division should be on the basis of the present boundaries of the six provinces, namely, N W F P, Punjab, Sind, Bengal, Assam and Baluchistan subject to territorial adjustments that might be necessary He emphasised the words 'subject to' and explained that territorial adjustments dld not apply to one side only but on both sides, Hindusthan and Pakistan "I made it clear" Mr Jinnah sald "that if we agree on the fundamentals of the Lahore Resolution then the question of demarcating or defining the boundaries can be taken up later in the same way as a question of boundaries arising It will be between two nations and solved like one Government negotiating with the other and arrive at a settlement "

The Muslim League President was asked whether he had any scheme for the constitution of Pakıstan Mr Jinnah said that the principle of Pakıstan should be first accepted and the scheme would be formulated thereafter

Further explaining the point Mr Jinnah sald that it was true there was no 'de jure' Govern-If the principle of division was accepted then it followed that both Hindusthan and Pakistan would have to choose their own constitution making bodies Those bodies as representing two sovereign states would deal with questions of mutual and natural relations, dent sovereign states—two nations—would come to an agreement on various matters "Agreements and treaties are entered into even between two countries that have no physical continguity. Here the two nations ire neighbours and have phy-leal contiguity

Parliamentary reverses—In the winter of 1911 45 and the spring of 1915 the parliamen tary wing of the Muslim I eague encountered heavy sers Close on the heels of the reverses which the Jeague suffered in the Punjab came Internal troubles in Sind There was a series of clashes between the League Minister of Sind and the President of the Provincial Congress Committee of tirst Province That was followed by a crisis which overtook the Frontler Ministry which was defeated by the Congress Opposition In consequence the litter took up the reins of Shortly thereafter, the Bengal government league Ministry was overwhelmed by a wave of opposition which led to its exit and the assumption of power by the Governor under Section 93 of the Government of India Act The League Ministry in Assam too, which was more or less dependent on the support of the Congress and one or two other groups, was threatened with defeat

Desai-Lingat talks—Things drifted for the next few months until the publication of press reports relating to certain secret negotiations between Mr Bhulabhri Desai leador of the Congress in the Central Assembly, and Nawabzada Liaquat Ali Khan, Deputy leader of the Muslim League Party in the Central Assembly

Pending the publication of authoritative Information on the subject (see chapter on the Indian National Congress), both Mr Jinnah and Nawabzada denied the existence of any understanding between the Congress leader and the League

Palustan Economics -Shortly publication of the Sapru Conciliation Committee's report it was revealed that two well known Bombay financial experts, namely, Sir Homi Mody and Dr John Matthal, had submitted a memorandum to the Committee on the economic and financial aspects of Pakistan from which and financial aspects of Pakistan from which they drew the conclusion that, given certain conditions, "Pakistan is an economic and financial possibility" They said that, judged solely by the test of ability (a) to maintain existing standards of living and (b) to meet budgetary requirements on a pre-war basis, but excluding provision for defence, Pakistan would appear to be workable on economic grounds. They were, however of the opinion that if provision was to be made (a) for future economic development on a scale sufficient to raise the general standard of living to a to raise the general standard of living to a reasonable level and (b) for measures of defence which might be considered adequate under modern conditions, any scheme of political separation which might be contemplated should as a necessary pre requisite provide for means of effective and continuous co operation between the separate States in matters affecting the safety of the country and of its economic stability and development If such co operation did not exist the position of both Hindusthan and Pakistan might be seriously jeopardised, In exami ing the eco omic position of Pakistan tile alguatories proceed n tile assumption that the two zones which ft com ori es regerded as independent biates or as units of a single Stale will be form d either on the basis of existing provi cial boundaries or on the basis of contiguous di trict. Tha or on the ba is of contiguous di trict. Tha inquiry was handicapped serion is by the absence of stall tital information on many vital details but the broad conclu lo a reached by the two aig atories are -

(a) On the pre war to la of provi cial and Central expenditure (excluding defer ce) the two zones of I kistan appear to be workable from a purely budgetary pol t of view as aeparate a vereign St les wiether they are formed provi ce wie or they ara district-wie

(b) On the pr wer ba f of food pro-duction industri i employment an t tr de the stand rd of living in lake its formed province wise compares it urally with the rest of India The polition of lake it co stituted on a district basis is perhaps equally favourable in re pect of food production but in other respects it seems to be less favourable

(e) The possibilities of farther economic de elopment in Pakisten formed o citie e basis will depend on the provision of facilities for free mo ement of trade within India as a whole and for close co-operation in economic matters between Pakistan and the rest of India

(d) Similarly th ability of P kistan to ahoulder the responsibility of defenc on an adequate cate being freely a matter of developing its econ mic and fl ancial resources to a suitable exte t will also depend on the d gree to which co-operation between Pakistan and tha rest of India can be effectively organized

Sml C fr ca.—The next phese of Muslim acti ity in connection with the Wavell 7 opcoals in the Simia Co ference This togethe with the prt played by the Mulim Le gue nd its le der are exh usitvely dealt with in the chipter on The Indian vatle al Congress

After the b caldown of the Simia Conference the Working Committee of the Muslim League passed a resol ti n emphasi ing tha urg nt eed tor fresh lection to the Centrel end Pro i ciall gi letures The Le gue Committea invited the atte tion of the Goy rument to tha resolution u a impusly adopted at the a unal ession of the all India Muslim Leegue held in I ra hi in December 1943 dema ding t esh el ction to the Centrel and provi cial fegis latures on the ground that these legislatures we a getting out of touch with public opinion me a greening out of courn with public opinion and could no longer be eld to be a presentative of the tr an ed and se tim uts of the people. The committee atreased the urg ut necessity of giving effect to the terms of their resolution. The Working C mmilit e were convinced that fresh el ctions to the cent el and provi clal legi latures chould no la ger be delayed because important questions e vaited solution which co id only be properly dealt with by represen tatles 1 tou 1 with public opinion and the time ts of the people

The Muslim L ague and its le der then carried on a amp ign dema ding e rly general elections throughout the count y In August 1945 the Go eram at a nounced that general elections would be held in the winter of 1915 46 and and SIr Raffuddin Ahmad followed sult the spring of 1946 Some Provincial legislatures were also dissolved

League Landslides -With the approach of elections there were quite a lew interesting Indesides in favour of the Muslim Jeague Mr Abdul Quarum Khan, deputy Leader of the Congress Party in the Central Assembly, wrote to Mr Jinnah "I have decided to join the Muslim League I believe that the stand taken by you is ab-olutely correct and that any Mushin who opposes you is betraying the cause of Islam in India' Welcoining Mr Quaryum, Mr Jinnah wired back "There is no room or place for any honest Mislim in the Congress He cannot support it at In the Congress He cannot support it at any rate after the Simia Confrence I hope others will follow your example and join our national organisation "

A few days later, the Muslim president of Punjab Provincial Congress Committee and the Muslim president of the Kerala Provincial Congress Committee resigned their offices in the Congress organisation on the ground that they wished to be free to propagate the need for a Congress I cague settlement which, they said, they could not do holding the office

About the same time, Sir Firoze Khan Noon announced that he was resigning his seat on the Governor General's Executive Council to be able to take an active part in the League's At the time of writing election campaign it is not clear whether he would enter Punjab polities or contest a seat in the Central Assembly

Other Muslim Organisations

Organisations of Mushms other than the League suffered a progressive decline in status and influence since the League ascendency to power following the withdrawal of Congress Ministries in 1939 When the Congress was outlawed in August 1942 and its leaders put in prison, the non-League Mushims tried to get together to counteract the materials and allowed for the Materials. the influence and claims of the Muslim League It was a slow process, and not very successful, because the League not only main tained its hold on the bulk of the Mushm community but also steadily increased its influence among them At any rate, officialdom seemed disincilned to recognise the claim to representa-tive character of non-League Mushm organisa The activities of the latter were further stimulated at the time of the Simia Conference in the summer of 1945 when they felt the call to repudiate the claims of Mr Jinnah exclusively to represent the Muslim community Their latest attempt was to create a common platform for those Muslims who did not see eye to eye with the Muslim League This is in process of evolution at the time of writing

A feature of Muslim activities in 1941-42, especially during the last four or five months, was the emergence, rather the reappearance, of a number of Muslim organisations which claimed that each of them commanded considerable influence among large sections of the community and thereby appeared to militate against the prestige and authority of the Muslim League Reference has already been made to the dissent expressed by the Premiers of the Punjab and Bengal to the orthodox polley of the League Other leaders like the Nawab Bahadur of Murshidabad, Maulyi Obeldullah Slndhi, M Y Sharcef,

The Momins, the Shiahs, the Azad Muslims all expressed as parate view points

The Ail India Azad Muslim Board in March, 12, resolved "To avert the fate of those 1912, resolved who have succumbed to aggression, it is imperathe that no effort should be spared to kalt all the people of Indla into a united endeavour The country's will should be galvanised and its lmmense potential effectively developed for the task of defending the country and thereby establishing its freedom in a world free of aggression. The Board is consinced that there is a general unanimity in India that the country must forthwith cease to be a Dependener if this end is to be achieved and that it should have the freedom enjoyed by the other free countries of the world, including England and the Dominions, representing nine constituent Muslim organisations and speaking for the bulk of the Indian Muslims, this Board fully supports this demand

Further, It feels constrained to conclude that the specious plea of the Secretary of State for India, and the British Government that the Muslim League is the authoritative spekes man of the Indian Muslims, and that its attitude and demands constitute an insuperable obstacle in the way of India's freedom is an indefensible subterfuge to mask the disinglination of the British Government to part with power. The terious gravity of the situation occasioned by the menace of an early invasion most imperatively demands that the British Government should immediately recognise India's freedom and transfer real power to enable the representations. tatives of the people to assume complete re sponsibility for the defence of the country as a whole in full and mutual collaboration with the other free countries

The Committee of the All-India Momin Conference adopted a resolution on the Cripps proposals, expressing the view that "the solidarity, integrity and unity of India is vitally essential for the common good of the Indian people and especially in the best interests of the Musilians of India". The resolution proceed-"The Committee cannot, however lose sight of the fact that a section of the Muslims is against the introduction of a single unitary system of Government in this country appre hending such a system to be detrimental to the interests of the Muslims residing in the Muslim majority provinces But the Committee, being conscious of the fact that the fear and apprehensions of such Muslims are the outcome of the mutual distrust and susplelon of the communities inhabiting this country, has full belief that such communal dissensions and animosities as exist at present will completely disappear with the establishments of full selfrule in Indla

"The Committee holds that the proposal relating to the option given to the provinces to keep ont of the proposed Indian Union has been ingeniously devised inasmuch as, its practical effect would inevitably be to create several 'Ulsters' within India

"The Committee opines that the constitution making body, as envisged by the proposals, would reflect the opinio of only ten per cent of the inhabitants of India and can, therefore, hardly be called a democratic body " of India and that it is their own war

Congress in prison denied to the non-League aggression by I recist Powers. The formation Mushims a fallying point from which they could of a National Government was no longer a Thus nelther the Azad snipe at the Largue Musilm organisation nor the Moinin conference displayed any appreciable activity during the It must also be conceded that past 12 months what with the undiminished influence of Mr Jinnah and the successful functioning of live provincial Ministries owing more or less alle glance to the Muslim League and its President the League secured an ever increasing accession of strength in numbers and in influence

At the same time it must not be assumed that the Leagne had an altogether free run of authority over the entire Muslim population of the A section of the community appeared to grow tired of a purposeless leadership which could produce no results and which would not combine with other elements in the population frue, there orgato bring about súch results nisations were of the mushroom type, but they provided evidence that not all Muslins in the country saw eve to eve with Mr Jinuah Other shaws in the wind were the resignation of prominent Muslims from the League

Another direction from which criticism came was the organisation of the Khaksars whose leader used strong language against Mr Jinnah and the official policy of the League The Khaksars being a compact and disciplined group with growing numbers and influence the Muslim Lergue, which was anxious to exercise its undis puted authority over all sections of the com-munity, discussed the Klinksar question at length at a meeting of the Conneil of the League in Delhi during the winter of 1943 The procee dlngs of the Council emphasised the dominent note of current League politics, namely, that the League is the only organisation competent to speak for Indian Muslims. This is the significance of a resolution passed by the Council prohibiting Leaguers from membership of the Khaksar organisation. The fact that this Khaksar organisation The fact that this question monopolised an entire day's debate proves the anxiety with which the League leadership regarded, and continues to regard, any rivalry to the authority and influence of the League among Indlan Muslims

Undaunted by this snub, the Khaksar leader persisted in his critical attitude of Mr Jinnali and the League and in March 1944 titled a lanec at Mr Jinnah's citadel, but with little

As a result of discussions held at Delhi in April 1944 it was decided to summon a meeting of prominent Nationalist Muslims from all over India in Dellii in May to consider the situation in the country and decide upon a proper lead to be given to Mushms in the present circum

The conference met in Delhi in May 1944 and passed two resolutions. The first declared that all Indians, irrespective of creed or community, all patriotic organisations without exception were deeply intcrested in the defence of India They were inspired with a real patri otle urge and a true spirit of sperifice which could be translated into action most effectively under a National Government for the protection of the country against foreign unvasion and not meternalised at the time of writing political issue but and become a first rate military question in view of the evigencies of the war The second resolution set forth certain "funda mental considerations for a communal settlement which will satisfy the needs and aspirations of Indian Muslims, namely, that India should continue to remain a united country, the constitution of India should be framed by its own people, there should be an all India federa tion the units of the federation should be eompletely autonomous, and all residuary powers should be rested in them, every unit of the federation should be free to seeede from it as the result of a plebuselte of all its adult inimbitants, and the religious, economic and cultural rights of nunorities should be fully and effectively enfogunred by reciprocal agreement

Another resolution dealt with the formation of all Nationalist Muslims into a joint organisa tion called the All India Muslim Majlis It added that this organisation should guide and Jead the Muslims unitedly for the achievement of complete national independence and other objectives, and should also strive to bring about a Hindu Muslim settlement in their own interest and in that of the country as a

Mr A M Khwaja, president of the Majlis outlining the eirenmentances of the formation of this new organisation said that some o Jinnah's friends tried to persuade then not to do so but to join the Lergue and capture it from within But they could not answe the objection that, the League having changed its creed from full independence to Pakistan which they refused to define, no honest man could sign the creed and gain admission to throw Mr Jinnah out of power Mr Khwaji added that the Nationalist Mushms had no quarrel with personalities

Another section of Mushms which came forward openly to criticise the League was the Ahrars The Working Committee of this organisation in June 1944, replying to Mr Jinnah's overtures, said "The attitude of Mr Jinnah in regard to his demand for Pakistan will not lead him towards that ideal Nonwill not lead him towards that ideal Mushims and most of the Mushims are fed up with the vision of Pakistan presented by him Mr Jinnah has never asked the Majlis 1 Ahrar for eo operation in any matter, but, on the contrary, he is desirous of its obliteration by asking it to merge itself in the Mushim League. The Majhs-1 Ahrar would have been prepared even to lose its identity had the Mushm League and Mr Jinnah given any evidence of self sacrifice and suffering"

The Shins and the Momins also came to the fore during this period and registered their claims to influential leadership of the Muslim community

After the failure of the Simla Conference, especially after the announcement that elections would shortly be held, there was a move on the part of the various Nationalist Muslim organisations to come together and form them selves into a powerful opposition to the League in order to fight the elections This move had

General should have the power of making appointments to, and removal from, any office in of attrehment, of any such powers or jurisdiction. India which under the original Act is excreisabio by His Majesty The amendment also aut orises the Governor-General to enact by notifica tions in the Gazette of India provisions which could be made by Orders in Council There were similar changes made solely with the object of obviating the delay which might occur in consequence of the war in securing prior approval of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the county of the co the authorities in England

In the summer of 1944 His Majesty's Government initiated some more changes in the Government of India Act of 1985. The amend-Government of India Act of 1935 ing bill sought, however, to make only certain minor technical adjustments in such matters as rotation of retirement of judges of High Courts and transfer of judges from one High Court to another It permitted the Scerctary of State for India to have a smaller number of State for India to have a smaller number of Advisers than that laid down in the original A further provision enabled the Vicerov and the Commander in Chief to go to England on leave more frequently than once in five years as provided for in the existing Act Another clause dealt with the periodical renewal of the Upper House (in provinces which have a second chamber) which are permanent bodies renewable by one third every three years. As the suspension of cleetions in Section 93 provinces would put the periodical renewal of the upper chambers out of gear, the amending elause treated the provisions of Section 93 as non existent in this behalf, so that the one-third renewal in the Upper House could take place in proper sequence This was done by extending the period of office of members of Legislative Councils in Section 93 provinces by the period for which Section 93 proclamations are in force plus on additional period up to 12 months to enable elections to be held at a suitable time in the year

Statement -In order to Attachment of validate a scheme of attrehing the smaller Indian States to bigger States, to ensure better administrative facilities, Parliament in the spring of 1944 chacted a measure which marks a departure from some of the provision of the Government of India Act of 1935 For an understanding of the implications of the measure see chapter on "Chamber of Princes The measure was called the India (Attachment of States) Act of 1944 Here is its text.

- At the instance, or with the consent, of His Majesty's Representative for the exercise of functions of the Crown in its relations with Indian States, any Indian State not mentioned in divisions I to XVI of the table of seats appended to part 2 of the First Schedule to the Government of India Act, 1935 (as in force at the passing of this Act), may be attached to any other Indian State and in connection with the attachment, projection with the attachment, projection with with the attachment, provision may be made

Provided that His Majesty Representative for the exercise of the function of the Crown in its relations with Indian State may give such directions, if any, as he think proper for rendering valid or lawful anythin done or omitted before the passing of this Ac which would be invalid or uniawful by virtu of the provisions of this sub section
- The Act may be ested as the India (Attaci. ment of States) Act, 1944

Federal Part —The Federation which the Act, as it stands, provides differs from those in other parts of the world because its units are not homogeneous. The Indian States differ widely from the British India Provinces These complications react upon the constitution As Sir Samuel Hoare said in the House of Commons "they react, for instance, upon the provisions as to how the federation is to be formed, for it is obvious that the Princes, being voluntary agents, can only enter of their own volution They react again upon the kind of executive and the kind of legislature that is proposed, each side of the federation obviously demanding adequate representation both in the government and in the federal legislature They react again upon the relations between the two Federai Chambers, the Princes from the first attaching the greatest possible importance to the Chambers having equal powers. They react, further, upon the list of federal subjects, the Princes again rightly insisting that, apart from the functions of Government which they surrender to the Federation, there should be no interference in their internal sovereignty These complications make a formidable_list of difficulties "

Federal Executive —The Act sets up a Federal Executive similar to the responsible executives In other federations of the Empire The whols executive power of the Federation is conferred on the Governor General, and his Ministers are appointed to "aid and advise" him and hold office during his pleasure The Ministry shall consist of persons in whom the Legislature has confidence and the Governor-General shall dismiss them when they lose that confidence

The Act abolishes the Council of the Secretary of State for India and makes him a Minister of the Crown individually responsible for the evereise of all authority vested in the Crown in relation to the affairs of India He will however, continue to be a member of the Cabinet and of Parliament, to which bodies he will be responsible for his actions

Provincial Constitutions - As far province al part of the Act is concerned, there ar eleven Governors' provinces, namely, Madras Bombay, Bengal, the United Provinces, the Punjab, Bihar, the Central Provinces and Berar, Assam, the N W F Province, Orissa and Sind, with power to the Crown by Order-in Council to create, if deemed necessary, a new Province, increase or diminish the area of any Province or after the bound ries of any Province The Provincial Executive is similar to that of the Federation in form

In addition to the Governors' Provinces there e the following Chief Commissioners following are Provinces British Baluehistan, Deihi, Almer-Merwara, Coorg (the Andaman and Nicobar Islands whileh are now under fan mese oeeu pation) the area known as Panth Piplida and such other Chief Commissioners' Provinces as may be created under the Act which will be administered by the Governor General acting through a Chief Commissioner to be appointed by hlm

The Provinces of Madras, Bombay, Bengal, United Provinces, Bihar and the Assanı the United Trothers, January, that two Chambers, Upper and Lower, namely, the Legislative Council and the Legislative Assembly, while the others have only one Chamber, the Legislative Assembly Representations. Chamber, the Legislative Assembly Representation in the Legislative Assembly is by separate electorates for each community based on the provisions of the Communal Award as modified by the Poona Paet of September 2b, 1932, under which a number of seats out of the seats classified as general seats are reserved to the Depressed Classes The life of the Provincial Legislatures is the same as that of the Federal

In provinces with bi-cameral legislitures the Upper House will see that the Lower House does not indulge in hasty and lil-conceived legislation due to the temporary respirity of any party But the deliberations of the Upper House will also be subject to examination by tie

Lower House

While there are no nominated members and no officials in the Assembly—all members of the Lower House are elected—the Governor has the right to fill some seats in the Provincial Council wherever one exists (See tables at the end of this Chapter for the composition of the Provincial Councils and Provincial Assemblies)

Franchise -The constitution sets out the qualifications of electors There are certain provisions of a general nature applicable to ail Provinces while particular Provinces are dealt Legislatures under the new constitution - with separately In some cases the payment of local taxes and in other eases the payment of land revenue is the main qualification. The new constitution has extended the existing franchise so as to enfranchise about 10 per cent of the tetal population of British Indla The Acts of 1915 and 1919 provided ici an electorate of approximately 3 per cent of the total population, the franchise based mainly on a property qualification Under the reformed constitution women have a much wider franchise, over 6,000,000 women veters as compared with 315,000 provided by the acts of 1915 and 1919 The Act of 1935 secures representation for women, for the Depressed Classes, for industrial labour and for special interests and for the bulk of the small landheiders, small cultivators, urban ratepayers as well as a substantial section of the poorer classes

Powers of Provincial Governments -Under the old constitution the Provinces had The lecal no original or independent powers Governments were under the superintendence, direction and control of the Governor General in Council and the Secretary of State for Indla The first step which the new constitution took was to create i rovinces with independence of their own and to assign to them a certain exclusive share of the retrvities of Government.

All subjects have been transferred to the control of the legislature The subjects which are classified as provincial are as indicated above, exclusively dealt with by the Provincial Government which have power to make laws for peace and good government. There are no more "reserved" subjects All subjects are "transferred". The administra tion of all these subjects have passed from the bureaueracy to the control of Ministers responsi ble to the legislature Such subjects include public order, courts, police, prisons, education, health and sanitation, public works, agriculture, forests, land revenue, exclse, tolls, unemploy ment and certain classes of taxation

Generally the Ministers are entrusted with the administrat on of their own departments Under the old constitution they were merely advisers of the Governor Under the new Constitution they are effective executives Only in those spheres where the Governor that the constitution they are the constitution they are effective executives only in those spheres where the Governor that the constitutions is the constitution of the constitution of the constitution of the constitution of the constitution of the constitution of the constitution of the constitution of the constitution of the constitution of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives of the constitution they are effective executives are executive executives. retains a special responsibility does he have the right to act independently of the Ministers should But normally such he differ from their views occasions are not frequent

Both the Upper and Lower Houses have power to initiate legislation except that Money Bills can be initiated in the Lower House only Should there be a difference of opinion between the two Houses with regard to a Bill the Governer has power to convene a joint session of the two Houses Any Bill affirmed by the majority in the joint session shall be taken to have been duly passed

Governors' Powers -Under the new Cen stitution the Governor has almost the same special responsibilities as the Governor General except the one relating to financial stability and credit. The Governor has, not withstanding the advice of his Ministers, power to take whatever action he thinks necessary for the due discharge of his responsibility for preserving the peace and tranquility of the Provinces

The Indian Legislature.

The Congress League Condition was the most ! Important event of the year in the Central The coulition was born of the Legislature common dislike of the precut Government Looking back at the two sections, one inescapable reaction is their sense of unreality and futlity

The Government, for instance, had four major bille on the order paper for the Budget Session One of these the Lingue Bill was thrown out and had to be certified. I wo others the Income tax let Amendment Bill and the Insurance Act Amendment Bill were not proceeded with and the fourth one, the I state Duty Bill was not even introduced

The Banking Bill was another important measure carried over from the last section The Assembly took four days after which it agreed to refer it to a Select Committee. The trend of the debate on this Bill If implemented by the Scient Committee, might make it unacceptable to the Government

From the spectacular viewpoint, the Se-vious were a great success. Gallerles were often over crowded when leaders thundered on political issues The Opposition lost only two division throughout the Session, all others numbering 22 having been carried against Government, sometimes with a thumping majority for the first time, communal issues were relegated to the brekground

Post war Planning, Commercial Safeguards, Toreign Propagauda, the South African deadlock, cloth scarelty, Rail road co ordination, maladulnistration and corruption were the high spots round which discussions turned during the Sessions Polities dominated and often determined the course of action as far as the Opposition was concerned

Fourteen Acts were passed during the financial year

Besides the annual Fluance Act, which had to be certified, no important triation measures were passed

The Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1945 enables an employee to withdraw money from his provident fund

The Indian Tea Control (Amendment) Act, 1945 removed certain difficulties that had arisen in the working of the original act

The Mines Maternity Benefit (Amendment) Act, 1945 prohibits the employment of women below ground in mines when in an advanced stage of pregnancy and to grant maternity benefit to those women workers who are so

Of the other Acts the more Important are the following

The Public Debt (Central Government) Act,

The Coffee Market Expansion (Second Amendment) Act, 1944 The Indian Merchandise Marks (Amendment)

Supplementary Act, 1945

The Indian Army (Amendment) Act, 1945 The Indian Air Force (Amendment) Act, 1945 The Repealing & Amending Act, 1945

The financial position of 1915 16 may be summarised as follows -

(In erores of Rupees) Civil estimates 123 40 301 23 Defence estimates

Total expenditure on revenue account 517 G3

Total revenue at the existing level of 353 74 taxation

103 89 Prospective revenue deficit

As in the previous years, borrowing has been the mainstay of Government's ways and means programme The total amount invested by the programme The total amount invested by the public in various forms of public loans reached Rs 286 crores during the 12 months from February 1st, 1944, to January 31st, 1945 "This figure", said the Finance Member, "must be regarded in the context of the other anti infinitionary measures newly introduced during the year, such as the hundred per cent immobilisation of Excess Profits Tax the "pay as-youcarn" income tax collections and the sales of gold and silver which have also played a not gold and silver which have also played a not inconsiderable part in mopping up surplus funds" The borrowing programme, while continuing the cheap moncy policy, Was 30 framed as to make available to the public a wide range of securities short term, medium dated and long-term 31 per cent Paper, reached par for the first time in November 1944 and Paper worth Rs 15 11 crores was sold by the Reserve Bank on Government account The Reserve Bank on Government account The sale of the Prize Bonds amounted to Rs 4 crores It has been decided to continue this experimental issue to draw off money from a class to whom other forms of investment make no appeal The progressive total of public loans since the beginning of the war has, to the end of January 1945, reached the impressive figure of Rs 833

erores

I forts to stimulate small earlings have met with road response from the public, thanks to the active co operation of the Provincial Govern ment= and non-official organizations result are reflected in the much better showing of the mit deposits in the Post Office Saxings Bank Accounts and in the 12 year National Say luga Certificates - Net investments in these and other forms of small savings continue at the satisfactors rate of nearly Rs 3 crores a month

The floating debt, which was Rs 111 erores at the end of 1943-44, stood at Rs 93 crores on January 31st, 1945 "The Government's ways and me in position from the strictly budgetary point of view', observed the I innnee Member "must be regarded as very comfortable" But he cartioned at the same time, that "the problem of the inflationary gap is still with up and, judging from recent indications, may east for increased visitance and control" Until the war in the Inst ended, he said that "we cannot afford to relax our effort The require ments of the situation will impose the continu ance and possibly even the final intensification of India's war effort."

Referring to the anticipated deficit of Rs 163 80 erores in 1945 16, the I inance Member sald that on the assumption that the whole of the cap was to be filled by borrowing, the pat tern and proportion of our war-time budget would seem to challenge comparison with that of any other belilgerent country He sald that we have to keep in view a larger and more com-prehensive target if we are to minimise no merely the budgetary deficit but the gap betwee rupee outgoings and rupee incomings On eareful survey, he came to the conclusion the no really significant improvement could I effected by any practicable major change in the sphere of Central taxation, the scope for further improvement therein being in the direction (greater effort to combat evasion and in the enforcement of existing tax obligations, for which he hoped to have public support

In the sphere of direct taxation, he announce ed continuance of the excess profits tax at th present rate, together with the scheme of com pulsory deposits, for a further year, up to 31s March, 1946 As regards income tax. he sale that considerable thought had been given to problems connected with financing of the re equipment of industry likely to arise shortly The scheme of war-time taxation was through out so devised as not to deplete, but on the contrary to strengthen, the reserves at the dis posal of industry to meet calls during post was period, nevertheless Government was conscious that the restoration and expansion of the machinery of production would call for some new form of assistance. for post-war development financial and currency system of the country is overstrained in the maintenance of the war effort or in securing the early stages of transi tion from war to peace, heavy new expenditure on national development schemes nould be dangerous in the extreme. In other words post-war development must me in and continue to me in post war development and by no magic or optimism can if be made to mean wir time development. In his opinion "the first one or two veirs at least after actual fighting ends will inevitably be for the Centre years of he ivy deficits on revenue account. It will be during this period that the Provincial Governments will find of particular value the post-war Reconwith find of particular value the post-way account struction. Funds which they had the foresight and determination to build up while the war was still in progress. While there large-scale development projects could not be initiated so long as war conditions continued, the I imane. Member made it clear that "the Government and the state of the continued and the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state of the state have no hesitation in embarking at once on such preparatory work as it found to be no sible and desirable or in taking any action calculated to secure early results of anti-inflationary value"

On the question of the possible fisc it resources available for financing post-war development schemes, the Finance Member referred his conviction that "the first pre regulaite of re construction fluance is a sound fluancial position, both at the Centre and in the Provinces, secured by the fullest development of their respective taxation resources. He, therefore, considered it essential that 'not only the Centre but also the Provinces should lose no time in developing to the full their financial resources' While stating that it is the hope and intention of the Government of India that "in due course a substantial distribution of Central revenues will take place, he emphasised, at the same time, that "the Provinces, in addition, need that the thank the grantial of the figures." all that they themselves can raise if the financial foundations of future development are to be sufficiently broad-based to carry the contemplated load." It is in this context, he said, that the Estate Duty Bill, which he hoped to intro duce later in the Session, must be viewed this measure, together with the recent cypansion of commodity taxation, should be regarded as the first conercte step towards the building up a planned and expanding financial system for the future" He also stressed the need for the cultivation of a national habit of saving which "with the denial of current consumption which it involves, will be as necessary for development purposes after the war as it is for holding inflationary tendencies in check during the Tax revenue depends, in the last resort, stated the Finance Member, on the rate of taxation and the national income "The national and the national income meome, in its turn, is determined by the level of prices and the scale of economic activity" He gave expression to the following views, in this connection, on the question whether it was necessary to maintain in the post-war period the high price level that has been reached during the war period "I believe this to be a mis taken view When the productive power of the nation is turned from manufacturing for war to manufacturing for civilian use, there will be a large surplus of goods available and this add-

So long as the ittlonal supply must result, in my judgment, i lower priess for those goods. But if simultaneou l the total volume of activity deployed dama the war can be maintained and increased, th total national income can be maintained, an even increased in spite of a fall in unit price It is the maintenance of the aggregate nation income in terms of money and not the stabill a tion of prices of individual commodities tha should be the objective in the years after th

> Discursing the possible sources of taxation is the post-war period the Huance Member con sidered it desirable that the war time expedier of LPT "should smith with the emergency that brought it into being. Its reped how ever, he said should not represent a proportionate loss of revenue "for L PT is allowable as a deduction in computing profits asser-able to income tax and super-tix so that with its repeal, profits assertable to income tax would be correspondingly increased. Neverthe less, he was of the opinion, "whatever may be the extent and duration of the pot was boom, during which industry will be engaged In repairing the ravages of the war and whatever mis be the scale of the prolles that are expected to accrue from the pians for the post-war expan sion of the industry, taxes on non-agricultural Income can hardly be expected to continue to play the overwhelming part in the scheme of national finance that they now do"

The Huance Member indicated the following

possible sources of post-war taxation
The projected Pstate Duty on property, other than agricultural property. This is cap able of restoring, in due course, the position as regards the aggregate contribution made by the industrial, commercial and professional classes of the community as such An agricultural income tax would also go

some way to achieve that end

In the immediate post war years, eustoms receipts may soar to unprecedented heights due to importation of capital goods and urgently needed consumer goods of all kinds. They may decline thereafter, but are likely to remain buoyant for a number of years. With the bliogant for a number of years growing industrialisation of the country, how ever, this source of revenue can hardly be every this source of revenue can hardly be every the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the country of the panded and may, indeed, appreciably contract, particularly if the customs tariff should be given a more positively protective complexion Moreover, there are decided objections to burden ing capital goods and raw materials with too Ingh rates of duty As an instrument of commodity taxation, reliance, will, therefore, in creasingly have to be placed on Central excess.

Another possible major development in the field of indirect taxation lies in the expansion of the sales or turnover tax "It is possible that with the ald of the Central Government, a comprehensive government, and are also are a support of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the control of the con comprehensive system might be devised and administered on a national basis, the net proceeds according to the Government of the Court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court of the court o cccds accruing to the Governments of the participating units"

On the question of the relative advantage of State ownership or operation of industry and of private enterprise, the Finance Member said 'I feel that perhaps insufficient attention has hitherto been paid to the question whether it would not be advisable to a transfer owner. would not be advisable to extend State ownership of industries as a source of additional revenue. The total appropriation to the Railway Reserve, 1939 40 and 13 crores in 1943 44. It is esti1945-46 including 2 crores for arrears of main inated to be 17½ erores in 1944-45 and 18½ in nance, will be 4 51 erores, but there will be a 1945-46. The expenditure on staff was 35 erores in 1945-46 including 2 crores for arrears of main tenance, will be 4 51 erores, but there will be a withdrawal of 5 80 crores to cover the arrears of depreclation on rolling stock treated as re-placed during the year so that the net result of the year's transactions will be a reduction of the balance in the railway reserves by 1 29 erores, from 30 39 to 29 10 crores

The appropriation to the Depreciation Fund will be 17 12 crores which is 11 lakhs more than in 1944-45, but there will be a withdrawnl of 221 crores and the balance at the end of the year will be reduced to 92 71 erores

Owing to the uncertainties of the present situation, the difficulties experienced in the previous years in making a correct forceast of the receipts, were accentuated Notwithstanding the "travel less" campaign, the upsurge of passenger traffic continues Some 10,000,000 passengers more were carried monthly in 1944 than in 1948, and 25,000,000 more than in 1942 Various devices were adopted to meet this additional demand Firstly, additional locomotives and wagons were received last year and more are expected during 1945-46 The total stock ordered for use in India since 1942 has stock ordered for use in India sinee 1942 has been 937 broad gauge engines, 415 meter gauge engines, 46,734 broad gauge wagons, 12,481 meter gauge wagons, of which 17,934 broad gauge and 661 meter gauge wagons have been ordered in India Of these 225 broad gauge engines, 334 meter gauge engines, 4,029 broad gauge wagons, 8,790 meter gauge wagons were in service by the middle of January 1945 In addition to these, meter gauge engines and wagons sent overseas from the Indian railways in the earlier part of the year have been returned in the earlier part of the year have been returned in considerable number. It is expected that the whole of the orders from overseas will be in service by the early part of 1946, and the latest order for 10,000 wagons placed on the Indian industry is now scheduled for delivery in 1946 or early 1947 Secondly, arrangements were made for diversion of traffic from rail to foad, from rail to sea and from parcels to goods has been done by importing lorries under lend lease and by raising of port to port rail rates from January 1, 1945 Taking all these factors into January 1, 1945 account, gross traffic receipts for 1945-46 were placed at 220 crores, which is 5 70 crores more than revised estimates for 1944-45

The ordinary working expenses for 1945 46 were placed at 140 65 crores against the revised estimates of 128 56 crores. The budget estimates contain special items aggregating 32 56 crores of which 1 99 crores is for the write off of the cost of dismantled lines and abandoned assets, 57 lakhs on account of premium paid on the purchase of the Jacobabad-Kashinere, Podanur-Pollachi and Dibru-Sadiya Railways and 30 crores on account of rolling stock is an increase of 1 35 crores under coal, 1 39 erores under grain shops, 44 lakhs under dearness allowance, 88 lakhs under staff and 47 lakhs under road transport services

The ordinary working expenses increased from 54 77 crores in 1939 40, the year in which the war started, to 90 10 erores in 1943-44 and are estimated to go up to 128 56 crores in 1944 45 and 140 65 crores in 1945 46, or, if we exclude the special adjustments, to 102 76 crores in 1944-45 and 108 09 erores in 1945-46 fuel bill including freight was 72 crores in

Including 1939 40 dearness allowanee (7 erores), grain shop concession (10 erores) and Defence of Indla compensatory allowances (21 crores) it rose to 601 erores in 1943 44 is estimated to be 64½ crores in 1944-45 out of which 91 erores will be due to dearness allowance and 92 crores to grain shop concessions and 21 erores to compensatory allowances to those enrolled in Defence of India Units In 1945 46, the dearness allowances are estimated to cost 91 crores, grain shop concessions 111 crores and compensatory allowance to Defence of India Units 21 crores, while the total expenditure on staff including these items will be 671 Compensation for goods lost and damaged has increased from 5 lakhs in 1939 40, to 54 lakhs in 1943 44 and to 93 lakhs in 1944 45, but has been estimated at 82 lakhs in 1945 46 The has been estimated at 82 lakhs in 1945 46 expenditure on stores has increased from 91 erores in 1939 40 to 12 crores in 1943 44, 15 erores in 1944 45 and 171 erores in 1945 46 this connection it may be mentioned that the figures of train miles are 168 millions in 1939 40, 153 millions in 1943-44, 166 millions in 1944 45 and 182 millions in 1945 46 Total vehicle miles, both in 1943 44 and as estimated in 1944 45, were slightly less than in 1939 40, and it is not possible to make a forceast for 1945 46 Thus, it will be seen that mainly on account of merease in expenditure on staff and, to some extent on fuel and stores, the expenses per train mile as well as per vehicle mile have been practically doubled since 1939 40

The capital programme for 1945-46 was estimated at 78 94 erores of which 30 crores 1945-46 was was to be charged to working expenses, 5 8 erores to the railway reserve Practically all the expenditure was on open line works distribution of this expenditure over the various assets is -

The Railway Member in his budget speceli disclosed the magnitude of the work accomplished by Engineering Department of the railways to increase the line capacity and to construct

military depots and airfields

Since the war began over 1,400 miles of military sidings have been constructed, 70 miles of permanent and 153 miles of temporary sidings for airfields, 21 miles of new single line and 400 miles of doubling or quadrupling have been completed up to the end of January 1945 and the programme is by no means finished In addition 198 crossing stations, additional loops at 174 stations, lengthening of loop at 145 stations and remodeling of 30 large station yards have been completed. In all some 3,500 miles of track material have been arranged for (including 1,205 miles for ovorseas) so that in spite of the difficulties arising from shortage of materials and labour and the pressure of every day maintenance work engineerin departments; have succeeded in providing the equivalent of good sized rallway system

The Indian Tariff Board.

The Indian Tariff Board is an ad hoc body constituted from time to time as necessity arises to investigate the claims made by any Indian industry to protection. It generally consists of a President and two members, one of whom is normally a Government official. It has, subject to the approval of the Government of India, power to co opt other members for particular enquiries. It tours over the industrial centres in India where the industry referred to it is located and if satis field after detailed enquiries that the claim for protection is justified, it makes its recommend ations to the Government of India. The last Tariff Board became functus officio early in 1939 after completing an enquiry into the question of extent to co opt other members for particular enquiries.

Act XIII of 1864 marks an important stage in the history of emigration, since it elaborated and consolidated the whole system of control It was itself amended in 1869 and 1870 in 1m portant respects with the object of preventing epidemics on emigrant vessels and improving sanitary conditions in settlements In 1869 emigration was permitted to Grenada, and in 1872 to Surmam Owing to the removal of the Straits Settiements from the control of the Government of India in 1867, emigration to that colony came under all the restrictions imposed by the Emigration Act and was only and repatriation of the immigrants. permitted from the port of Negapatam Owing to the injury caused to the agricultural industries of the colony, these restrictions were removed in 1872, subject only to magisterial control of recruitment in India In 1870 complaints reached the Government of India of gross abuses in the treatment of emiin British Guiana A commission of enquiry was appointed, and their report led to important legislation in the Colony for the protection of Indian immigrants, which was subsequently extended to Trinidad Owing to similar complaints from Natal and Maurillus completions of applies. Mauritius, commissions of enquiry were also instituted in both these colonies, and their reports in 1872 brought to light a number of points requiring amendment to Act XIII of 1864 were incorporated in the mont to this effect was made in 1916 The question of revision of the general law law again came up for consideration in 1882, when several cases of kidnapping and other objectionable practices were reported to the Government of India taken to depute two officials (Major Pitcher and Mr Grierson) to ascertain, in the N-W P and in Bengal respectively, the way in which the system of recruitment actually worked, the respects in which it was open to improvement, and the attitude of the people towards emigration Their reports were reviewed by the Government of India, and finally in 1883 the law was again recast and consolidated by Act XXI of that year This Act specified the countries to which emigration was lawful, but empowered the Governor-General in Council to add to the list by notification, and also to prohibit emigration to any of the countries in the list on the ground of epidemic disease and/or excessive mortality among emigrants in such country, or on the ground that proper measures had not been taken for the protection of emigrants, or that the agreements made with them in India were not duly enforced This Act with certain amendments of no importance to the system of indentured emigration remained in force until 1908, when a fresh revision of the law was undertaken of students, tourists and merchants visiting the countries for the temporary purposes of commerce, pleasure, or education Indla on its side assumed power to regulate the admission of immigrants from any other part of the Empire or foreign countries, by means of passports By the Immigration into India Act, 1924, the Government of India was empowered to make rules "for the purpose of seening that persons not being of Indian origin, domiciled in any British posses slon, shall have no greater rights and privileges as regards entry into and residence in British India, than are accorded by the law and administration of such possession to persons of Indian domicile. That Act was repealed in 1943 by the Reciprocity Act, 1943, which enables the Government of India to Impose such disabilities in respect of entry into, or travel, residence, etc, etc, upon subjects of any British possession which subjects persons of Indian origin to like disabilities. With regard to the Crown colonies and protectorates, the attitude of the Indian Government is that there is no Justification for placing any restrictions on the immigra-tion of British Indians, which are not placed on other classes of British subjects, and this principle has in practice been observed by the Colonial Office except in the case of Kenya Colony where, as stated hereafter, the British Government has reserved to itself the right to impose restrictions on the immigration of classes of people whose entry into the Colony may have an adverse effect on the economic evolution, of the indigenous population

Rights and Disabilities of Indians Lawfully Domiciled Overseas—The policy of the Empire is summed up in the resolution of the Imperial Conference, 1921, which was recorded in the following terms -

"This Conference reaffirms that cach Community of the British Commonwealth should enjoy complete control over the composition of its own population by restricting immigration from any of the other communities, but recognises that there is incongruity between the position of India, as an equal member of the Empire, and the existence of disabilities upon British Indians lawfully domiciled in some parts of the Empire, and this Conference, therefore, is of opinion that in the interests of the solidarity of the Commonwealth it is desirable that the rights of such Indians to citizenship should be recognised "

The representatives of South Africa regretted their inability to accept this resolution in view of the exceptional circumstances of the greater part of the Union The representatives of India while appreciating the acceptance of this resolution, nevertheless felt bound to record their profound concern at the position of Indians in South Africa and hoped that by negotiations between India and South Africa a way could soon be found to reach a more satisfactory position

Summary of Present Position -The present position is as follows -

Australia —The majority of Indians in Australia are engaged in retail trade or agricultural operations. The Commonwealth franchise was granted to British Indians domiciled in disability and enjoy equal citizenship rights

ŧ

Australia in 1925 In the States of New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia, Queensland and Tasmania Indians are not disqualified on raciai grounds for the State franchise disability which existed in this respect in Queensland until December 1930 and in Western Australia until the end of 1931 was removed as a result of informal representation made by the representatives of India on various occasions, including the one made by the late Sir Muham mad Shafi at the 1930 Imperial Conference The Constitution and Licetoral Acts in Western Australia disqualify an aboriginal native of Australia, Asia or Airica from being registered as an elector for the Assembly, but he may be enrolled as a voter for the Legislative Council (which is the Upper House) in each province in whileh he holds freehold property of at least £50 capital value

Indians born in British India were admitted to the benefits of the Invalid and Old Age Pensions Act of 19% They were also made eligible for insternity allowances Indians in Australia still suffer from certain minor dis abilities (administrative and legal) relating to Crown lands, mining, certain occupations and employment Under the Mining Act of 1904, in Western Australia the grant of mining rights to Assatics requires the approval of the Minister in charge of Mines Under the South Australla Irrigation and Reclaimed Lands Act, 1914, Indians are not eligible to obtain leases of land In Western Austrilia wherever hiences are prescribed, for example, for cutting sandalwood, for employment under Government contractors and for employment in European factories, Indians find it difficult under the present administrative of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the contractors of the co administrative practice to get the authorities to excreise discretion in their favour

An evenange of High Commissioners took place between India and Australia in 1944 when the Government of Australia appointed Lt-Gen Sir Iven G Mackay as the first Australian High Commis-ioner in India and the Government of India appointed Sir Raghunath Puru shottom Paranipye as the first High Commis sioner for India in Australia Both the High Commissioners are striving to establish closer relations between the two countries

A delegation consisting of six Indian indus trialists visited Australia in 1945 to study trade condition there

Canada -Indian residents of Canada are mostly furmers, gardeners, furm workers, managers of retail stores, hawkers and unskilled While in the other eight provinces labourers of Canada Indian residents are not subject to any political or legal disabilities, Indians in British Columbia numbering about 1,800 are denied the municipal, provincial and federal franchise, as a result of which they cannot serve as trustees in any municipal or rural school district, hold any municipal office or serve as jurors they are debarred from employment by the first for the Public Work ment by contractors for the Public Department and for the sale of Governments timber and also from holding a foreshore lease certificate under the Boiler or Engineers Inspection Act indirectly It submitted its report on the 13th May, 1930, and embodied its recommendations in a Bill, which it urged should be enacted im-The Bill was read for the first time on the 14th May, 1930, but in deference to the representations made by the Government of India that adequate time should be allowed for careful examination of the far-reaching provisions of the measure, the Union Government decided to defer further consideration of it until the Parliamentary As a result of opposition to the session of 1931 Bill, it was later postponed further, and a Conference was held in 1932 to examine the provisions of the Bill and to review the working of the Cape Town Agreement of 1927 in accordance with para 7 of that Agreement

The results of the Conference were summarised in previous editions of the Year Book

Enactments -Since there have also been several enactments which are capable of being used against Indians in the Union, eg, the Transvaal Licences (Control) Ordinance of 1932 and the Natal Rural Dealers' Licensing Law Amendment Ordinance of A further development occurred in 1937 when three private Bills affecting the position of Indians in the Union were introduced in the Union Parliament. The first sought to prohibit marriages between Europeans and Asiatics or It was introduced on the 12th January but attempts to have it referred to a Select The second Bill sought to Committee failed empower Provincial Councils to prohibit the employment of Europeans by non-Europeans in the Union, and the third to prohibit the aequisition of fixed property in the Transvaal by any European. Coloured or Cape Malay women married to Asiatics and by children of such marriages Both the Government of India and their Agent General in the Union made representations against these two Bills Second reading, which would have involved acceptance of the principle of the two measures, was not proceeded with and they were referred to a Select Committee of the Union House of Assembly for investigation of their contents and form Both the Indian comtheir contents and form munity and the Agent General gave evidence before the Select Committee The Committee came to no conclusion on the proposal to restrict ownership of land through marriage, but after consideration of the other Bill, submitted an amended Bill entitled the White Women's Employment Restriction Bill The amended Bill sought to prohibit the employment of European women by Asiatics except under a certificate of the Minister of Labour and to forbid the issue of such a certificate if the women concerned were to be under the direction or supervision of a non European or to be housed or employed on premises containing dwelling or sleeping quarters of Asiatics or at places where they might come into contact with Asiatics other than as customers over the counter Cape Malays and Japanese (while the trade convention with Japan lasted) were to be exempted from the restriction new measure was purely anti Indian and the Government of India protested strongly against it In the course of oral evidence before the Select Committee, a representative of the South African Indian Congress stated that he believed Indians would be willing to terminate employment of Luropean women voluntarily where circumstances showed that particular exception might be, or had been, justifiably taken to such employment The Union Government accepted this statement as an assurance of co operation by the Indian community in objectionable eases and an announcement was made on the 14th April in the Union House of Assembly that no further opportunity would be given for the discussion on, or for legislation in connection with, the Select Committee's report on the Bills The Union Government, however, reserved the right to undertake legislation later should encumstances demand it The dropping of these two Bills did not, however, satisfy certain sections and an announcement was made in the Union Parliament on the 17th May, 1937, that two Commissions, one to enquire into mixed marriages and the other into the question of Asiatic land tenure in areas not covered by the enquiry of the Feetham Commission, would be appointed These Commissions were appointed in February, 1938

Mixed Marriages Commission.—In September, 1938, the South African Indian Congress presented a memorandum to the Commission and also gave oral evidence. It was pointed out that the number of marriages between Europeans and Indians was negligible, there was no sign of an increase in spite of the rapid growth in the numbers of each community, and that the effect of such marriages had an insignificant effect on the composition and future welfare of the South African population. The Agent General in the Union supplemented the evidence already given by the local Indian community.

The report of the Mixed Marriages Commission was published in August, 1939 Four members of the Commission signed a majority report and one member a minority report. The finding of the majority report was that public opinion had failed to prevent mixed marriages and could not be relied upon to prevent such marriages in future and that mixed marriages gave rise to social problems of a serious nature The Commission held that segregation by means of housing schemes and the separation of the sexes at places of work would help in reducing The Com the incidence of mixed marriages mission emphasised the need for improvement of the economic position of non-Europeans on ground that marriages with Europeans would be less attractive if their present disabilities were diminished. It was also suggested that a separate law should be enacted to govern the validation of the marriages between coloured persons only, coloured persons including all non-Europeans In the minority report it was stated that legislation was no solution of the problem and it was suggested that the simple laws of heredity should be taught and also that the overtone the dispersion of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the con to overcome the disparity between the European male and female population immigration into South Africa of young European women should be encouraged In January, 1940, Dr Malan moved a resolution in the House of Assembly urging introduction of legislation to give effect to the recommendations of the Commission In the course of the discussion on the resolution the Minister of the Interior stated that is the country was in a state of war, Government dld not propose to embark upon contentious legisla tion touching difficult social conditions, senti ments and racial pride

As a result of this finding and in order points of the Agreem at which was approved to check further acquisition of property by the Satal Indian (ongress was introduced by Indians, the Union Government preed and in the Satal Provincial Council and it was act called "the Trading and Occupation of rearred to the Select Committee after first Land (Transvan) and Natal) Restriction Act, 1943," generally called as the Pi, ling Act. This Act provides for the continuance in the Transvan of the provisions of the Aciatle (Transvan Land and Trading) Act 1930 for a further period of 3 years and extends similar transvantages. provisions prohibiting transfer of propertie between Puropeans and Indians in Natal for a period of J vers ie, up to March 21, 1946. The Government of India through their High Commissioner in the Union protected against the measure and brought to the notice of the Union Government the declaration that the latter had made to the effect that no frish statutors measures involving segregation of Indians would be introduced during the war. They also made various other alternative suggestions in order to achieve the object desired by the Union Govern ment without having recourse to legi little action, but all these protests and suggestions were in vain. Indian public opinion both in South Africa and India was greatly agitated over the now legislation and suggested reciprocal action against the Union of South Africa These suggestions received the attention of the Government of India

They formulated their plans to take action against the Union In the meanwhile, however, it became clear that the general elections in the Union had played a large part in the enactment of Pegging Legislation—Indian penetration having been used as a convenient election issue for securing votes of anti-Indian Luropeans. The Government of India therefore, waited for the excitement aroused by the elections to subside In the hope that the Union Government would make a conciliatory move after the atmosphere in the country had returned to normal Indian public opinion, however, continued to be disturbed both in India and S Africa and constantly urged upon the Government of India to adopt retaliatory measures

Pretoria Agreement —On 18th April, 1944, as a result of an agreement, known as "Pretoria Agreement" between the Union Prime Minister and the Minister of the Interior on the one hand and a deputation from Natal including members of the Natal Indian Congress on the other, a decision was taken according to which the Pegging Act was to be replaced by an Ordinance to be passed by the Natal Provincial Council It was agreed by both the parties that the main problem was the occupation of property for residential purposes in urban areas where the question arose of Indians living in close proximity to Europeans. The Ordinance was to provide for the creation of a licensing board with two Europeans and two Indian arothers and the Europeans with legal members and a third European with legal training as churman The Board was to control occupation of dwellings in Durban by control occupation of dwellings in Durval by heening The Pegging Act was to be withdrawn by proclamation after the Ordinance was passed The Agreement on the whole, met with satisfactory reception among the majority of Indians in South Africa The Government of Indians decided to give it as the agree of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the process of the Government of India also deelded to give it a chance although they did not think it an ideal Union Prime Minister, foreshadowed in the solution A draft Ordinanco embodying major Assembly speech on 22nd March 1943, of

Hint Ordinance, with two other Ordinances me Nat il Housing Ordinance and Provincial and Local Authorities Expro priation Ordinance was passed on 3rd November 1944 Indians in South Africa were preatly acitated over this legislation. It also aroused great regentment among the Indian public in India. It was apprehended that theze Ordi names would enable the Provincial Administra tion to carry out racial zoning

The Government of Inila represented to the Union Government that this new measure was unwarranted and urged for its withdrawal and implementation of the Pretoria Agreement As the representations met with fallure, the Government of India enforced the Reciprocity act against South Africa, and persons of South African domicile were declared prohibited immigrants in India. They were debarred from and the state of the state of the state of the local franchise. The Indian Legislature urged the Government of Indian to recall their High Commissioner from South Arica and to enforce decourts agreement of the state of the local franchise. economie sanctions against her

On 28th November 1944, during his interview with the Antal Indian Congress Delegation I leld Marshall Smuts admitted that the Residen tial Property Regulation Ordinance was inconsistent with the Pretoria Agreement Later on the three Ordinances were declared ultra vires of the powers of the Provincial Council In March 1945 Field Marshall Smuts stated in Parliament that the Union Government proposed to bring about legislation to grant powers for expropriation of property, so that what the Provincial Council found impossible to do could be done by the Union Government. could be done by the Union Government Indian community took a grave view of the contemplated legislation. This legislation was rontemplated legislation. This legislation was not liowever, proceeded with, but instead the Union Government introduced in Parliament on 23rd May 1945 a bill entitled "Housing (Emergency Powers) Bill". It was passed in June, 1945 and enables the Government to frame Regulations relating to acquisition and expropriation of property by the local authorities the National Housing Board and the National Housing and Planning Commission of the Union Government. The Regulations will be limited to three years in the first instance but are renewable by resolutions of both the Houses of renewable by resolutions of both the Houses of Parliament It also empowers the Provincial Councils to institute Housing Boards The Natal Indian Congress has been assured that they are the first of the they will be fully consulted at the time of the framing of Regulations

Union of South Africa, prohibited immigrants were not entitled to obtain a license to carry on any trade or eailing in the Union, and following representations from the Agent General in the Union the South African Government agreed to issue to bona fide commercial travellers from Indla temporary permits as well as necessary licenses to trade. Also as a gesture of good-will the Union Government took steps to see that the anti-Asiatic provisions of the law were not applied to Indian visitors, particularly those in transit through the Union

In view of colour prejudice in South Africa and the division of traille to the Cape route, the Union Government were good enough to appoint their representatives at Cape Town and Durban to look after the Indian visitors, both civilians and members of the armed forces, and to avoid undesirable incidents The appointment of these representatives has served a useful purpose, though some unfortunate incidents have occurred in spite of it

East Africa Kenya Colony -The grievanees of Indians domiclied in this Colony were fully set forth in the published despatch of the Government of India, dated October 21st, 1920 The controversy centred round the following points

- (a) FRANCHISH —Indians had not the elective The Government of India, therefranchise proposed that there should be a common electoral roll and a common franchise on a reasonable proporty basis plus an educa-tional test without racial discrimination for all British subjects
- (b) SEGREGATION —Professor Simpson who as sent to East Africa to report on was sent to East Africa to Sanitary matters, recommended segregation on sanitary grounds The Government of Indla objected, firstly, that it was impracticable, secondly, that it was commercially inconvenient, and thirdly, that Indians were in practice unfairly treated in the allocation of sites
- Eigln decided (c) THE HIGHLANDS —Lord in 1908 that as a matter of administrative convenience grants of land in the upland area should not be made to Indians The whole area had by then been given out, and the Government of Indla claimed, that there was no land left to which Lord Eigin's decision applied That decision was, however, extended so as to prohibit the transfer of land in the uplands to non Europeans
- (d) Immigration —Suggestions were put forward for restricting Asiatic immigration into Kenya The Government of India claimed that there was no case for restricting Indian immigration and that such restrictions were in principie indefensible

The Settlement—The decisions of the British Government were contained in a White Paper presented to Parliament in July, 1923 It was held that the guiding principle should be that "the interests of the African native must be paramount," and in light of this it

- Under the immigration law of the missionary representing the Africans, and south Africa, prohibited immigrants a nominated official majority One Indian was also appointed on the Governor's Executive
  - (b) SEGREGATION —The policy of segregation as between Europeans and Asiaties was aban
  - (c) THE HIGHLANDS -The old practice was maintained both as regards initial grants A similar reservation and transfers the lowlands was offered to Indians
  - (d) Immigration Racial discrimination in immlgration regulations was rejected But ln the economic interests of the Africans, further control over immigration was considered necessary. It was held that some arrangement was required for securing a strictly important examination of applications for entry into Kenya The Governors of Kenya and Uganda were, in that connection, instructed to submit joint proposals for legislation

The Government of India reviewed their decisions in a resolution published on August 18th, 1923, and recorded "their deep regret that His Majesty's Government did not feel justified in giving greater effect to the recom-mendations made by them" and reserved liberty to reopen the case on a sultable opportunity their intention of They stated representations regarding the action to be taken to implement those decisions, particularly in the matter of the Immigration regulations

Following upon the Kenya award, statutory action was taken by the local administration Adult suffrage on on the franchise question communal lines was conferred upon Indians As regards immigration, the Government of India took the opportunity to urge the postponement of the bill giving effect to the decision of His Majesty's Government until such time as the Committee proposed by their representatives at the Imperial conference in 1923 had an opportunity of a conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conference of the conferenc tunlty of examining the question of the restrictions therein embodied Accordingly the instance of the Colonial Secretary. danger ever arises of such an influx of lmml be that "the interests of the African native must be paramount," and in light of this it was decided—

(a) Franchise—A communal franchise was adopted with 11 seats for elected Europeans, 5 cleeted Indians, one nominated Arab, one been laid before me have not enabled me to reach a definite conclusion as reg rds the extent; had visited East Afric His Majesty a Govern of net Indian immigration. Accordingly steps meat had decided that the "Guithborough will be taken to create a statistical department! Committee should not resume its little." to obtain accurate information with regard to persons of all races arriving in or departing from Kenya Meanwhile the Kenya Immigr tion Ordinance will not be enacted

(2) Fraccuse.-I have given careful con aider tion to representations in favour of a common roll but I am not prepared to resist the conclusion already arrived at that in the special circumstances of Lenys with four aloctal circumstances of Kenya with four di crae communities each of which will ulti matchy require electoral representation tha communia system is the best way to accure the fair representation of each and all of these communities

(3) Hightards -I consider that the Secre tary of State for the Colonies has no altern ti e but in continue pledges express or implied whi h had been given in the past and I can held out no hope of the policy in recard to gri-cultural land in the Highlands being reconst

(4) Lowlings -It was proposed to reserve an area in the lowlands for agricultural imm! gas along the forwards for Agriculture made it plain that it is averse from any reservation of land for any immigrant race subject to the regretion that before applications for I nd in low in dereas are invited an opportunity should be falsen at another agreement. be taken of sending an officer experienced in Indian settlement and agricultural methods to re port on the areas At present any consider tion of the matter is in suspense pending receipt from the colony of reports from the native and agricultural points of view on the areas in question

The work of the Colonies Committee did much to abate the bitterness which existed in the relations h twe n the different ctasses of settlers in Kenya and the altuation was further improved by the decision of the Indian community to relinquish their attitude of no co-op ration and to select five members for nomination by the Governor to the L gislativa Council.

- (e) demand, in ease of the establishment of some such body that the unofficial representatives from each province should include an adequate number of Indians,
- (f) advocate the continuance of the official majority in the Legislative Council of Kenvi,
- (9) demand that the ropresentation of natives in the Kenya Legislative Council should be by natives or by Enropeans and Indians in equal proportions

Thereafter meetings of the Standing Emigration Committee were held and the decision arrived at by the Government of India was communicated to His Majesty's Government

The report of Sir Samuel Wilson was published on the 5th October 1929 Another meeting of the Standing Emigration Committee was held soon thereafter to consider the report and a further communication was addressed to His Majesty's Government on the subject

The conclusions of His Majesty's Government as regards closer union in East Africa were published in June, 1930, in the form of a White Paper and it was announced that they would be submitted to a Joint Committee of the two Houses of Parliament. In accordance with this decision a Sciect Committee was set up in November, 1930. The Government of India communicated their views in a despatch to the Secretary of State for India on the scheme set out in the White Paper in so far as it affected the Indian population in Last Africa With the permission of the Joint Sciect Committee of Parliament they also deputed the Right Honourable V. S. Srinivasa Sastri, P.C., C.H., as their representative to present their case and elucidate in the course of oral examination such questions as the Committee might consider necessary to refer to him. The Select Committee examined Mr. Sastri in July, 1931.

The report of the Committee was published simultaneously in England, East Africa and India on the 2nd November, 1931, and the decisions of His Majesty's Government on the recommendations of the Committee together with certain correspondence arising from the report of the Committee were also similarly published on the 24th August, 1932

As regards the question of Closer Union, His Majesty's Government accepted the view of the Joint Committee that apart from considerations arising out of the Mandatory position of the Tanganyika Territory, the time had not arrived for taking any far-reaching step in the direction of the formal Union of the several East African Dependencies

There was no important development in regard to this question until 1935 when certain sections in Kenya attempted to revive the proposal for Closer Union Early that year an unofficial conference of Europeans, held at Arusha, was reported to have expressed the view that since 1931 circumstances had changed rapidly as to justify a reversal of the Jo. Committees decision and that immedistic should be taken towards the Closer Uni of I ast Africa. A "Memorandum on Union was also forwarded to the Secretary of State I the Colonies by the Luropean Elected Member Organisation of the Kenya Legislative Councillist Majests & Government did not, howeveonsider that there were adequate grounds i reopening, an enquiry into the matters whi had been so carefully investigated by the Joi Select Committee as recently as 1931. The decision is contained in Malcolm Mae Denale despatch, dated the 12th October, 1935, to Excellency the Governor of Kenya which we published in all the countries concerned.

Pan-African Movement -I or some tu pist there have been indications of prowing move for a Pan African Tederation which stands for "eloser relationship, better co operation and larger collaboration" bet Central African and veen South, List In May 1913 the Southern Rhode territories sim Legislative Assembly passed a motion in favour of a Pan African Conference Early in January 1945, a resolution, sponsored by the elected European members, was passed by the kenya Legislature, calling on the British Govern ment to invito the Prime Minister of South Africa to arrange immediately a conference to plan and co-ordinato the development of British territories in South, Central and Dast Africa The Indian members opposed the resolution on the ground that in view of the anti-Assatic policy of the Union of South Africa any affilia tion with hier would be harinful to the interests The Arab member of Indians elsewhere also and the African Member also opposed the resolu tion winch was carried by 11 to 7 votes

Franchise —As regards franchise, His Majesty's Government stated in the White Paper of 1930 that "His Majesty's Government are of the opinion that the establishment of a common roll is the object to be aimed at and attained, with an equal franchise of a civilization or education character open to all races "In 1931 the question of franchise was also referred to the Joint Select Committee of Parliament which was appointed to consider the question of Closer Union discussing the arguments that had been brought forward for and against a common electoral roll, the Select Committee stated in para 100 of their report that it was impracticable under the prevailing conditions to advocate the adoption of the system of common roll representation in preference to the existing system of election The Secretary of State for the Colonies accepted the recommendations of the Joint Select Com mittee in 3 matter

Highlands—The Joint Select Committee of Parliament, which was appointed to consider the question of Closer Union in East Africa, had recommended that "in view of the nervousness among the native population as regards the land question, a full and authoritative inquiry should be undertaken immediately into the needs of the native population, present and prospective, with respect to land within or without the reserve held either on tribal or on individual tenure" In April, 1932, a Commission was accordingly appointed by His Majesty's Government and the terms of reference of the Commission included the following

To define the area known as the High lands within which persons of Ecrope n descent are to have a privileged position in accordance with the White Paper of 19 3

The Commission in their report which was published in May 1934 recommended that the boundaries of the European Highlands should be safeguarded by Order in Connell so that the European community mi ht have the sam measure of security in regard to land as th Commission had recommended for the natives Bis Blajecty's Government annonneed that they teepfed this recommend tion of the Land emilision The Indian community was returned by this announcement as the proposed Order in Council would give statutory effect to restrictions which were orl inally considered necessary on grounds of administrati e conveni ence and rep escatations were made to His If jesty's Government both by the Government Il jesty's Government onto my the Government of India and the local Indian community. No Order in Conneil had heen promutgated till the end of 1937 but the position as it affected Indians would be seen from the following extracts from the speech of the Secretary of State for the Col nics made on the 9th July 19 6 -

( ) What is contemplated arking out of the recommend tions of the (Morris-C rter) Commission, is the issue of two Orders in Conneil nision, is the issue of two Orders in connect Three are of course many other thines arising out of those recommendations, but the poluse which have he nraised are chiefly concerned which have he nraised are chiefly concerned which have been arrived to the first the boundaries of those parts of the first the boundaries of those parts of the order than the contract of the contract of the first that then are to he set a lote for non-native constant and the lowest parts of the distribution of the contract of the contract of imposing any leg 1 disability age in either Ord of arisists are recent on the course of the contract against any persons on the ground of race colour creed or anything else Equally I want to make telest anything eise Lqually I want to make it effect this the existing administrative practice which was first laid down by Loed Eigin is to be continued I wish that to he in derstood desiry both in India and els where The tristing administrative practice of the Kenya Government which has be n followed sinc 1908 will continu In the are d marcated as the Enropean area not by law not hy any thing i the Order in Connell but as m iterof administration that practice will conlinue in th future as in the past. There will be no legal colour bar

In spite of pr tests from the Oovernment of Indi and the local Indian community the Order in-Conneil contempt ted in the abo e an oune ment was issued in lebruary 1033 Tho the Order did not contain a d fi Hion or the of the privil g d position which persons of European desce t w re to have within the tertitorial limits to be included the Highlands His Maj stys Gover ment m de it clear that there ws no int ition of chan ing the administrative practice which had been followed for many for many years with rega d to allenation and transfer 1 and in the Highl and This decision

Apart from the major problems ontlined above other openious have also been eausing concern to the Indian community in the col my most important of these are (I) the Ordinance to control and regulate the marketing of native Produc and (li) the Transport Co troi Ordi ance The former Bill sought to reg late the selling and bnying of nati e produce by such methods as limiting the number of licence s and could ing sales to apecified lo alitles so as to ensure con trolo e qu lity As a number of Indi n traders were nife ted r prese t tions were made to His Majesty's Oov roment by the Government of India nd the Bill was revised in e rtain respects a d became law in 1935 It was b ought into force from the 1st January 1936

The Kenya Transport Control Bill passed in 1937 wa int nded to give effet to th recommend tions f the Kenya Tr nsport Co ordination Committ which w s app inted in 1935 to Investig I and consider the desirabil ty of co-ordinatin and regulating all forms of transport in the colony Th India members of the Kenya Legislative Council objet d dt the pri igi of th Bill Tiey felt that I th attempt to preve t wast fulc mpeti assumer if ad in the Hibral of arrestions and the state of the previous and its production to all each of the previous and its production to all each of the previous and its production because of the previous and its production because of the previous previous and production of the previous and production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the production of the prod relating to the grant of exclusive licences The Bill, however, became law and in Indian was also appointed to the Transport Licensing Board

In the latter half of 1938 and the beginning of 1939, the Kenya Indians were interested in (1) the Immigration of Jewish refugees, (2) the Kenya Immigration Restriction Ordinance and (3) the representation of the Indian community on the Kenya Immigration Board Ali these three questions were connected with one another in some form His Majesty's Government had under consideration a scheme for the settlement of a small number of Jews in the Kenya High-lands The main objection of the Indian community was that it would accord to foreign subjects within a British Colony privileges which As His are denied to British Indian subjects Majesty's Government were committed to a policy of settling Jewish refugees from Central Europe, it was not possible to meet the objections of the Indian community in the matter prevent an influx of destitute and undesirable foreigners into the Colony as a result of the international situation in Europe, an Immigra-tion Advisory Board was, however, established in October, 1938 The Board was to advise the Commissioner of Police on such matters as might be referred to that in connection with immigration into Kenya but it was not intended that the Board should consider or advise upon any aspect of Indian immigration Nevertheless it was felt that the Indian community which was vitally interested in the composition of the population and the economic development of the Colony should be represented on the Board Representations were made to His Majesty's Government in the matter The objections to the Kenya Immigration Restriction Bill centred round two provisions of the Bill —(1) the provision autho rising the Immigration Officer to require any in tending immigrant, who was without any visible means of support or was likely to become a pauper, to give security by bond to an amount not exceeding £500, and (11) the provision aftering the period of 12 months, within which an intending immigrant had to prove that he was not a prohibited immigrant, to any period the Immigra-tion Officer might fix in his discretion Though these clauses were intended to apply only to immigrants from Europe, the Indian community thought that they might at any time be applied to Indians also

Both questions were settled satisfactorily Indian representation on the Board was conceded and under the revised provisions all immigrants were divided into two classes (a) those who were, if necessary to be received back by their country of birth or origin and (b) those who were, not to be so received back, the existing law being left practically unaltered in respect of the former category of persons Indians therefore were not, affected by that measure which received the Royal assent in May 1939

Tanganyika—In the adjoining mandated territory of Tanganyika, the Indian community were at one time deeply concerned at the rumoured transfer of the territory to Germany Their views in regard to this subject were communicated by the Government of India to His Majesty's Government. It was inter learnt from His Majesty's Government that the rumours were without foundation

War-time Immigration Restrictions is Africa—After the outbreak of war the African Governments of Kenya, Ugand Tanganyika requested the Governme India to restrict the issue of passpothose territories to those maie persons 18 years of age who could make the necommigration deposits and against whom were no security objections. The Gover of India on being assured that the restriction were intended to be only for the duration the war, issued the necessary instruction December, 1941

In December, 1943, the Governme Tanganyika informed the Government of that on account of extreme pressure on he and other accommodation, it was pro to restrict the entry into the territory of natives who were not essential for war Persons normally resident in the territory however, to be exempted from the restri provided they had not been away for more two years The Government of India po out to the Tanganyıka Government, among things, that due to acute shortage of shi it would not be possible for many Indians wise 'normal residents' of the territory te within two years and asked for their exen from the scope of the proposed restric The Tanganyika Government while not ag to the exemption of such persons, assure Government of India that the regulations be enforced with due regard to the circumst of each ease. The Regulations were pr gated on the 14th February, 1944

In the third week of February, 1944 Governments of Kenya and Uganda also mated to the Government of India the account of acute shortage of housing and they also proposed to enact legislation sit to that of Tanganylka and promulgated De Regulations imposing restrictions on immige on the 1st March, 1944 The East Al Governments assured the Government of that the Regulations were not discriminand that they would be terminated after war The restrictions, however, aroused apprehensions among Indians in East and India Several representations were methic Government of Indian and deputations won them The matter was also raised in Council of State and it was stressed by all the restrictions were the outcome of state and it was stressed by all the restrictions were the outcome of stati-Indian agitation carried on by Europeans and were only the thin end of wedge, designed to exclude Indians from Africa after the war The pleas of housing food shortage were described by the critic groundless

The Government of India took up the m with the Colonial Governments and broughtheir notice the facts and considerations in various representations received from Ir leaders. The Colonial Governments assured Government of India that entry permits who granted to all bona fide residents of the Celeven though they might have been absent the Colonics for more than two years.

was supported by the three Indian members and opposed by the rest of the Council including the elected European and nominated Fijian members As a protest against this vote, all three Indian members resigned their seats and, no Indian having subsequently offered himself for election, the soats remained unfilled throughout the life of the Council A fresh election was held during 1932 and as a result two Indian constituencies returned their representatives to the Council, but no candidate offered himself for election from the third constituency

In 1935, the elected Indian members of the Legislative Council advocated a system of nomination in place of the system of election and the proposal was opposed by the local Indian Association. European opinion was divided The election and made representations to His Majesty's Government. The decision of His Majesty's Government is contained in the despatch, dated the 20th July 1936, addressed by the Secretary of State for the Colonies to the Government of Fijl in the Gazette dated the proposal was opposed by the local Indian Association and made representations to His Majesty's Government. - (c) the circumstances were such as to make it impossible to arrange for representation of the three sections of the population by means of a general franchise. The Legislative Council should consist of the Governor, 16 official members, 5 European members (3 to be elected on a communal franchise and 2 to be nominated), 5 Filian members (all to be selected as at present) and 5 Indian members (3 to be elected on a communal franchise and 2 to be nominated)

The Legislative Council as newly constituted met in September, 1937 Fresh elections to the reformed Legislative Council took place in 1940

The most important problem affecting the Indian community in Fiji is that of land tenure. Out of the total Indian population of 94,966 estimated in 1939, a very large majority consists of agriculturist, but alienation of native owned land is prohibited. More than 80 per cent of the land in the Colony is held by native owners as tribal land, and the rest is held as Crown grants or as freehold property mainly by the Colonial Sugar Refining Company, Ltd. Indians hold land as lessees from the native owners for the cultivation of rice, sugarcanc, etc., and from the Colonial Sugar Refining Co., for cultivation of sugarcane. Praetically the whole problem is one of security of tenure and the enceuragement given to Fijians to cultivate their own lands with the most stable and profitable erop, sugarcane, caused some alarm to Indians engaged in agriculture. A number of praetical difficulties connected with the leases, which in main related to the procedure for obtaining leases and the administration of the land law, were also brought to the notice of the Government of India.

In September, 1936, the Council of Chiefs o Fijl agreed that all lands (Including eases) no required for the maintenance of the Fijia owners should be opened for settlement, that to further this end a Committee should be appoint ed to inquire into and to determine the amoun of land needed for proper development by th Native owners, and that all land (includin leases) not so required should be handed ove to the Government to lease on behalf of th As a result of the examination ( Fijians the question, the Colonial Government cam to the eonclusion that the most satisfactor method of procedure would be for Governmen to take power to deal with all the native land in the Colony, and then to appeint a Commission to determine the lands to be set aside fer the These preposal exclusive use of the Fijlans were referred to the Council of Chiefs in October 1938, and accepted by them A Bill entitle Native Land Trust Bill was published by the Government of Fljl in the Gazette dated th 17th November, 1939 to give effect to the proposals referred to above The Government of India made with the Rull and the Bill with certain amendments passed its third reading on the 22nd February, 1940 and was assented to by the Governor

The Native Land Trust Ordinance, 1940 provides for the formation of a Native Land Trust Board to administer all native land in the Colony on trust A Fijlan Commission has been appointed to conduct enquines into particulars of land needed for Fijian use and to report to the Board, but with a view to safe guarding the interest of Indians, it has been arranged to depute an Indian Assistant to the District Commissioner to accompany the Commissioner and to place before him any representations made by Indian lesses. The Colenia Government have also agreed that existing occupants of land should not as far as possible be disturbed. Though there is no Indian representation on the Board, provision has been made for such representation on local committee which have been set up to advise the Board in respect of native land in these areas. Regula tions have been framed regarding the terms and conditions of leases to be granted by the Board and provide inter alia for the grant of agricultural leases up to a term of 99 years

Fig. Sugar Dispute, 1943—In view of the rising cost of living due to war, the sugarcance farmers in Fiji, who are mostly Indians, demanded, in June, 1943, a ligher price for thele cane. The Sugar Refining Company, whe has the monopoly of sugar production in the Colony, refused any increase in the price of cane until and unless the price of sugar was increased by the Ministry of hoed, United Kingdom, to whem the Company was bound to sell all its preduce. The farmers thereupon decided not to harvest their erop. They stuck to their decision in spite of appeals made by the Governor of the Celeny. As the crushing season advanced, the feelings amongst the Indians ran high. Some of them even ploughed in their crops. All attempts en the part of Indian leaders to reach an imicable settlement having failed till the cud of the crushing season, the major part of the cane crop in the Colony remained unharvested. In March, 1944, the Secretary of State for the Colonic announced in the House of Commons his decision.

The changes brought about by the modified system affected labour adversely, but the rate of dearness allowance now payable to them is again showing an upward tendency.

The Wages Boards for Tea and Rubber industries published on Dee 16, 1944, eertain proposals for enhancing the minimum rate of wages and invited objections

One important feature of the proposed new rates is that the distinction hitherto made between the minimum rates for the up country, mid country and low country estates is not to be maintained. The question whether the abolition of distinction between the up, mid, and low country rates will cause hardship in the post-war period when the special allowance becomes negligible needs consideration. These proposals have evoked considerable objections from the planting interests.

The position in regard to the supply of foodstuffs to estate labourers deteriorated eonsi derably (in 1942) and the basic ration of rice was considerably cut down

Shortage of foodgrains continued in 1943, in spite of the efforts of the Government to increase their production, and the basic ration to estate labourers practically remained the same as at the end of the year 1942

The food position on estates did not improve until the end of 1944, and the issue of the ration in the form of rice was reduced to  $\frac{1}{4}$  of the basic ration and as Indian Immigration into Ceylon and Indo-Ceylon Relations—In 1936, as a result of a resolution passed in the State Council, the Cevlon Government appointed an Immigration Commission to consider and report upon the problem of non-Ceylonese workers in Ceylon, particularly with a view to the restriction and effective control of immigration into Ceylon of workers from other countries, including rssisted estate labourers Indians the majority of the immigrants in Ceylon and they presented a memorandum to the Immigra-tion Commissioner The report of the Commis-The report of the Commissioner was published in April, 1938 The Commissioner came to the conclusion that, although in the absence of statistics it was not possible to estimate the extent of Indian immigration, the immigrant came to share the work when it was available and when it was not, he returned to his home, that the immigrant workers made possible an economic and general advance which could not have taken place without them that Indians did not undercut wages, that the existing means of control of immigration were sufficient and that the restriction of Indian immigration for the protection of Ceylonese employment was not practicable

This vindication of the cause of Indian immigration into Ceylon did not satisfy Sinhalese opinion. The Board of Ministers were intent on some measure to control Indian immigration and a memorandum containing a summary of certain far reaching proposals designed to restrict the entry of persons into Ceylon whether for

The recommendations | purposes of permanent residence or for taking up any occupation in Ceylon, was referred to the Government of India in August, 1940 in recordance with an assurance given to them In the matter It was agreed to discuss these proposals during the informal conversations arranged to be held in November, 1940, in New Delhi to consider all questions outstanding between the Indian and Ceylon Governments The Conference was held at New Delhi from the 4th to the 12th November, 1940 fundamental question of the status of Indian: resident in Ceylon was first taken up for dis eussion. The proposals of the Ceylon Dele gation were conditioned by one main purpose. namely, a substantial reduction in the number of Indians resident in the Island, and sought to limit full citizenship rights to Indians in Ceylon In the second or third generation while extending eertain restricted rights to those Indians with only a Ceylon domicile of choice (which was to include among other conditions to be prescribed residence in Ceylon for a minimum period of five years) They further proposed that all other Indians in Ceylon and future immi grants should be debarred for ever from acquiring franchise or other rights of entizenship Government of India, on the other hand, pressed for full eitlzenship rights for Indians who had put in five years' residence in the Island and produced evidence of a permanent interest in the Colony and for opportunity for all other Indians in Ceylon on a prescribed date to qualify for such rights in due course. As the Cevlon Delegation were not prepared to modify their attitude, the talks ended in a breakdown of the negotiations

On 4th March, 1941, the Board of Ministers introduced two Bills in the State Council, one to provide for the registration of persons in Ceylon who did not possess a Ceylon domelle of origin, and the other to make provision for the regulation and control of the entry of non Ceylonese into Ceylon After the Bills passed their second reading, they were referred to Standing Committee, "A" These bills were, however held in abeyance by the Government of Ceylon pending an outcome of the India Ceylon talks

Dismissal of Indian Daily-Paid Staff in Government Departments and the ban on Fmigration to Ceylon—Early in 1939, the Government of India eame to know that the Ceylon Government had under consideration some scheme for the replacement of Indian daily paid employees in the Government Departments by Ceylonese—The Government of Indian addressed the Ceylon Government asking for details of the scheme and the reasons therefor After some correspondence on the subject, during which the Ceylon Government explained their scheme for the replacement of non Ceylonese employed since 1st April, 1934, and the offer of gratinties and free repatration facilities to other non Ceylonese who voluntarily retired, the Government of India communicated to them and suggested that it should be held in abeyance pending discussions at the time of trade negotiations, which were to take place between the two countries very soon—The Ceylon Government did not agree to that and also to other requests from the Government of India and the latter were

Ceylon Constitutional Reforms—The question of reform of the Ceylon Constitution which was debated in the State Council from 9th March to 13th July, 1939, has been engaging the attention of His Majesty's Government and an Order in Council extending the life of the present State Council, which was normally due to expire in March, 1941, for a further period of two years was published in the Ceylon Gazette Extraordinary, dated 19th October, 1940 On 28th October, 1941, the following communication from the Secretary of State for the Colonies was read by the Speaker in the State Council-

The urgency and importance of reform of the Constitution are fully recognised by His Majesty's Government but before taking decisions upon the present proposals for reform, concerning which there has been so little unanimity, but which are of such importance to the well-being of Ceylon, His Majestv's Government would desire that the position should be further examined and made the subject of further consultation by means of a Commission or Conference

This cannot be arranged under war conditions, but the matter will be taken up with the least possible delay after the war"

The proposals for constitutional reforms in Ceylon were revived, as a result of persistent demands in that country, by a declaration by H M G on the 26th May, 1943, authorising the Ministers to proceed ahead with the drafting of proposals for a new Constitution, to be examined in detail by a Commission or Conference declaration put the grant of full responsible government under the Crown in all matters of internal civil administration as the goal of the eontemplated constitutional advance Ministers recordingly drafted their proposals in secret without consulting the representatives of the minority interests in the Island and submitted them to the Secretary of State for the Colonies HMG have now announced that a Commission will be sent to Ceylon at the end of this year to examine the proposals made by the Ministers and it will enter into consultation with all minority parties concerned with the Constitution The Government of India are watching the devclopments with the help of their Representative in the Island, with a view to ensuring a satis factory settlement of the Indo Ceylon problem in the new Constitution

In July 1944, His Majesty's Government made a further declaration that in pursuance of their declaration made in May 1943, a Royal Commission would visit Ceylon to examine and discuss any proposals for constitutional reforms involved, including the minorities. The Minls ters contending that the arrival of the Commission was contrary to the declaration of His Majesty's Government made in May, 1943, withdrew their proposed scheme for constitutional reforms, and decided not to co operate with the Commission However, the Commission consisting of Lord Soulbury (Chairman),

Mr (now Sir) J F Rees, Vice Chancellor of University of Wales, and Mr F J Burrow the retiring President of the National Unit of Railwaymen arrived in Ceyion on 221 December, 1944, and invited proposals for the reform of the Ceylon constitution. The India eommunity in Cevion presented their carbefore the Commission which completed i sittings and returned to England in March 194 Its report is awaited

Exchange of Representatives—In Octobe 1942, with the concurrence of the Government of India, the Government of Ceylo appointed Sir Baron Jayatilaka as their Speen Representative in India to secure and maintu adequate food supplies for Ceylon from Indi and to improve relations between the tw countries The Government of Ceylon have als welcomed the appointment of an Indian Repre sentative in Ceyion of similar status should th Government of India decide to appoint one

Unfortunately Sir Baron Javatilaka died, afte a brief illness, on his way to Ceylon in May, 1944 The Government of Ceylon appointed Si Tikiri Bauda Panabdkke as his successor He took charge of his office in March 1945

The Government of India appointed, on reciprocal basis, Mr M S Aney as their Repre sentative in Ceylon in September, 1943 The post of the Agent of the Government of India in Cevion has also been continued and is a present held by Mr P C Mathew, I CS

Miscellaneous —Severai compiaints were made to the Government of India by Indian merchants in Ceylon against the Govern ment of the Island in regard to requisitioning of stocks of textiles and other essential commodities soon after their arrival in the Island for being distributed through Government Co operative Stores and Government nominated private The ground for such requisitioning was dealers given to be to prevent the goods finding then way to the black market The Government of India are now understood to be examining the question with a view to ensuring that Indian traders in the export, import and internal retail trade in Ceylon retain their pre war proportion of business in Ceylon In the meantimo the Ceylon Government has introduced a system of individual rationing of textile by coupons based on the 'points' system, under which there would be no more requisitioning of textiles for so coupons at the control of the control of the control of textiles. for eo operative stores and Burma -The position of Malaya and Burma—The positional Indians in these countries has been fully dealt with in the previous issues of the Year Book with in the previous issues of the Year Book. They came under Japanese Occupation early in 1942 During the first half of 1945, large portions of Burma including Rangoon were re occupied by the Alies and these parts are now under British Military Administration

The Governments of India and Burma are now understood to be engaged on the considera

Sport.

With the War removed from India's doors, sport in the country benefitted appreciably in the year under review and transport difficulties were not so pronounced as in the previous vear, although racing was again hard hit Cricket, hockey and football, as usual, were the most popular branches, and football, especially, received a great fillp

Cricket -The Board of Control for Cricket in India is responsible for the affairs of the Several representative teams competed, as usual, on zonal lines for the Cricket Championehip of India, for the Ranji Tropliv, a magnificent gold cup of unique design which keeps green the memory of that illustrious of that illustrious Indian erieketer The Ranjitsinhji biggest attraction of the year, the Bombay Pentangular Tournament, which comprises teams representing the Muslims, Parsis, Hindus, Europeans and The Rest, was an outstanding success, and will be remembered for the wonderfully exciting final between the Muslims and the Hindus

Football —The game is controlled by subordinate provincial associations in affiliation with the All India Football Federation. It has gained tremendous popularity in recent years, and the introduction of Rule 33 by the parent body, which prevents the wholesale transfer of players during the senson, has proved most beneficial. The Santosh Memorial Shield, the official championship for the country competed for by the various provinces on the zonal basis, was not held. The premier competitions in the country are the IFA Shield, in Calcutta, and the Rovers Cup, in Bombay

Hockey—The game, which is controlled by the All-India Hockey Federation, is easily the most popular in the country, and the standard of play the best in the world, a fact which is amply borne out by India's triumphs at the last three Olympiads There is an official championship, competed for by provincial teams, and the trophy is a quantily carved Maori Shield, presented by the Maoris to the Indian team which toured New Zealand—The principal tournaments are the Aga Klina Cup in Bombay, the Beighton Cup, at Calcutta and the Yadavendra Shield, at New Delhi

The Turf —Rueing in India is organised on a large seale, and all the many courses are controlled, between them, by the Royal Western India Turf Club and the Royal Calcutta Turf Club The standard is very high, and the race courses, particularly those in Bombay and Calcutta, compare favourably with the best in the world The importation of first class thoroughbreds from Australia and England has, owing to the present war conditions, practically ceased, and this has given a big fillip to the indigenous breed, which has made remarkable improvement in recent years. The principal races are the newly framed Indian Derby and the Echipse Stakes of India, both run in Bombay, and the King-Lmperor's and Viceroy's Cups at Calcutta The annual meetings at Bangalore, Mysote and Secunderabad were not held, owing to travel restrictions

Golf —The game has a blg following, and almost every town of any size has its own course. The Royal Calcutta Golf Club's "A" eourse is considered the best in the country and the one recently lald out by the Bombay Presidency Golf Club, at Chembur, holds great promise. In view of the seriousness of the War situation, it was feared that the annual Golf Week at Nasik, always popular with followers of the game in Western India, would have to be dropped, but the excellent support forthcoming made it possible for the event to materialise and prove as successful and enjoyable as any of its predecessors

Tennis—Tennis is looked after by the Ail-India Lawn Tennis Association through lib provincial associations, and a definite effort was being made, until comparatively recently towards the improvement of its standard of play by the employment of expert coaches and the selection of young players for these coaches to work on, the aim of the parent body having been the training of a Davis Cup team. The shortage of tennis balls, however, has compelled this scheme to be temporarily stopped and has also resulted in many popular annual tournaments in the big centres, particularly Bombay, not being held

Athletics — There is an All India Olympic Association, with subordinate associations in most of the provinces, but athletics generally do not approach the standard of other games. There was noticeable improvement in the Games held in some of the provinces, but in no ease did the performances approach International standard Lack of tracks and suitable training grounds is a big handleap to progress being made, but the governing body is tackling this question and a big improvement was noticeable at Patrila where einder and cycle tracks were used during the All-India Games

Other Games —Most of the other games have their controlling organisations Table Tennis and Billiards have caught on wonderfully with all classes, and Badminton has madappreciable progress Amateur boxing is strong in Bombay, Bengal, Lahore and in the Services but is still in its infancy in other parts of the country.

Ajanta.—The Ajanta Hills contain 20 caves last Guru Govind (1695-1708) declared the equal (5 chaityas or shrines or churches and 24 viharas right of all bikhs of all castes to bathe in the or monasteries, all Buddhist) and present a sacred tank. The temple and the pool suffered record of an almost unique combination of print-ing, seulpture and architecture of a period of liands of the Durani invader, Ahmed Shah about 9 centuries (2nd or 1st een BC to middle Abdali The Klinks (specially the Dal or army

The caves, even and as caves and not as multa or conclave of the Sikhs, probably the eve temples, (e.g., Kallash, Lilora) extend over first of its kind. On defeating the invader's a distance of about 600 ft in a perpendicular viceroy, the Sikh chiefs met at Amritsar and rock. Thus the roots were not hown, only struck for the first time the Govindashahi coins the facades were hown and sould trace. The cares, exervated as erres and not as a distance of about 600 ft in a perpendicular rock. Thus the roofs were not hown, only the facades were hown and sculptured. The Archieological Department numbers the cases from Last to West Paintings have been noticed In 16 caves

The sculptures and the paintings of one cave belong to different periods Frescoes have been painted sometimes long after the excavation of a cave Sculptures in different periods have been undertaken to continue the decoration of the eaves of the sculpture of Bharnt and Sanchi, partially are four entrances with doors covered with covered with later printings, have been found silver plates nicely wrought. Entrance by the In ecrtain of the caves

The enves were first noticed in 1810 Greeds ignoramuses, inclemency of weather and much wrapped with gilded copper, and quotations damp, natural to the country, had done the from the Grantha-Saheb (the Sikh bible) are worst imaginable injuries. That it could plentifully inscribed. The Grantha Saheb is survive to any extent is due to the peculiar formulæ of plastering and painting During the present century steps have been taken to-wards preservation of the great works Lately, Hyderabad State has taken charge of the caves

The subjects of representation are almost always taken from Buddhist literature generally portray the figure of Buddha and incidents from his lives (his last life as Buddha and his previous births as man or a lower animal) Secular pletures are comparatively few, but not for three miles on the crescent of the Ganges beasts prowling in their pleasure, a pair of which is practically a stretch of spacious ghats, lovers, etc. These drawings are remark of which there are 64 in good or indifferent lovers, etc Women have received very great Ajanta Women with their ably good attention in Ajanta eyes dreamily half open, faces with delicate and tense expressions, poses most graceful and charming, and hands and fingers delicately modelled have made indelible impressions upon all succeeding ages of Indian art

Amritsar -The Pool of Immortality with the Golden temple in it makes Amritsar the most famous shrine of the Slkhs Ramdas, fourth Guru (Prophet) of the Sikhs (1574 81), is said to have received from Akbar a piece of land, within the limits of which he dug a reservoir, since well known as Amritsar Some Sikh accounts, however, record that the pool had been an ancient one and a Valragi (recluse) devoted to Rama claimed it as a sinctuary The Guru, however, succeeded in ousting him The appellation Haramandir for Darbar-Sahib is perhaps reminiscent of a tradition that it had been the site of a temple of Shiva At first the locality was called Raddaspur The next Guru Arjun (1581-1606) made Amritsar the proper seat of his followers, the centre which should attract their worldly longings for a material bond of union. The tenth and the since well known as Amritsar of 7th cen AD) Alanta forms specially founded by Jussa Singh Kulial) restored the the great nuseum of Indian painting shrine and rebuilt the tempic (1763 64) At this time they held at Amritaar a formal Gur In 1802 01. Ranjit Singh covered the dome and very possibly the whole structure with golden repouses copper work Hence it is known as the Golden temple As it served as the court of the Gurus, it is called the Darbar Saheb

The temple stands on a raised plinth 65 ft square in the centre of the tank and is surrounded sproious verandalis A white marble rtaken to continue the causeway 204 ft long, with an archway over it, Paintings, reminiscent joins the temple with the mainland There principal gateway leads to the Bhung, where the arms of the Gurus have been preserved Except the lower parts of marble, the whole edifice is the material object of veneration

> In the Guru Ka Bagh or the garden of the Guru there is the pretty Bab Atal Tower There are some interesting late ninetcenth century frescoes depicting incidents of the life of Guru Nanak

(Kasi)—Benares, the religious Hindu India for centurics, is Benares capital of Hindu India for centuries, is visited by millions of pilgrims every year It lies between the Barna and Asi and stretches We have a bull-fight, many other Massive medieval-looking edifices line the bank, condition

Benares has 1,500 comparatively temples, besides countless minor shrines most Important temple is the one dedicated to Vishwanatha (Lord of the Universe) It is also known as the Golden Temple (the domes and spires were covered with gilt golden repousse copper-work) and stands in a typical Benares Although it is the most famous shrine of India, it is conspicuous by its comparative smallness and the absence of ornamentation Latterly Benares has become the seat of the famous Hindu University

The Qutb mosque, the Qutb Minar, the tomb the Indian Vulcan Local craftsmen come to of Iyaltimash (Altanash), the mosque of Azinir worship here. The dating of the Buddhist and the gateway of the chief mosque at Budaun caves may be made from the 3rd to the 6th (UP) form the early great Muslim edifices of century AD. India The Qutb mosque was named after a Muslim saint Qutbuddin of Ush near Baghdad It was built in 1196 under the Vicerovalty of Qutbuddin Aibek. The present dilapidated mosque preserves only a small portion of the original one

The Qutb Minar (circumference 47 ft 3 ins at the bottom and 9 ft at the top, height 280 ft) a five storeyed detached minar, was begun by Qutbuddin Albek and completed by Iyaltimash (1232) It is the most beautiful example known It does not form part of to exist anywhere the mosque, which has its own minars Tradition goes that it makes a pillar of victory, first erected by Prithviraj and later reconstruct-of Aurangabad (Hyderabad State) It was known as Grishmeshwara (an appellation of Shiva) and held holy by the Hindus, especially the Shaivites It has the largest cave temple in India, a form of architecture which in its development makes a most remarkable feature of architecture in India 'The caves are excavated in the face of a hill or rather the excavated in the face of a hill or rather the scarp of a large plateau, and run nearly north and south for about a mile and a quarter, the on the 14th day of the bright moon of Bhadra

The Buddhist temples in the southern section, known locally as Dheralerna, are the claest. The In the middle of the 15th century, the Lodis removed the capital to Agra. Sher Shah built a hall which was probably used as the lecture was Agra. His son built Selimgarli after his name. Akbar and Jehangir lived mainly at Agra, Lahore and Ajmer. The last Muslim Delhi Is Shahjahanabad, the city of Shahjahan, which is now known as Old Delhi. In 1857, in course of the suppression of the Sepon Mutiny, the last Mogul Emperor was taken prisoner and Delhi was formally annexed to the British Crown. At the Delhi Durbar on the 12th December, 1911, by an Imperial Prociamation, the seat of the Indian capital was removed from Calcutta to Delhi (Now Delhi). The first cave is a caves number twelve Next come a number of monasterles and traks A illtle further up is the cave of Vlsvakarma,

Beyond the three storeyed temple is the Hindu region, containing 17 large caves below the brow of the scarp and a large number of smaller ones above. The Hindu caves are generally more decorated than the other ones and the Kallasha. Temple is the most famous of all the cave temples of Ellora Both the architecture and the sculpture of Ellora reached their culmination in the Hindu cave temples They present some excellent specimens of Indian sculpture and architecture (6th 8th een AD) The gem of the collection is the Kullash temple, a masterpieco of Indian architecture and sculpture, with a claim to be called unique of its kind in the ed by the Mushm emperors Some Muslim lad to be quarried or chiselled to turn out accounts say that it had been begun by the Hindus and completed by the Muslims averaging from 154 ft wide by 276 ft long with a scarp 107 ft high at the back Colossal in size and ambitions in plan, the whole temple, inside and outside, the roofs, ceilings, walls, pillars, every part of it, has been extravagantly sculp tured with lavish decorations. The sculptures as in the case of Ajanta, Elephanta and clse-where had been painted with a thin coating of lime plaster

The whole execution shows an extraordinary Ellora—The Ellora Hill, containing the cave temples stands about 19 miles north-west of Aurangabad (Hyderabad State). It was gradations of sevential and subtle treatment of the varied

It is a very remarkably well planned city All the streets were laid south to north Nothling Nothlng is more welcome to an Indian city than the south The city had necessarily grown most Lanes are free from a general towards the south deviating or serpentine eharaeter Homes were two storeyed and the staircases lead not to the lower storey but to outside This feature is not unknown in the houses in the hills This feature Covered balconies or open porticoes are conspicuous by their absence The courtyards are to an extent small Proximity of the dwellings points to a very erowded city Molienjo-Daro is a city of bricks, fire-burnt and sun-burnt had probably stressed more on drainage than any other ancient city Evidence of under-ground drains are to be found everywhere They are large and high and provided with manholes. The vastness of the drainage surely reflects the greatness of the upper structures, now very much lost to view It is not known, however, whether the drains led to any eommon dumping place away from the city, although soak pits have been noticed, but from their size one cannot be sure that they were used as the main dumping grounds. A flight of steps into one of them would rather suggest that they proved minor temporary repositories, refuse from which has been systematically seraped off Bathrooms are another by Udayin Sethupati with the assistance of feature significant of the cleanliness of the city

The objects found in the remains mainly consist of seals, jewelleries, potteries, figures (human and animal) and toys The seals have on them inscribed characters of a conventionalised form of pictograph writing, which have not yet been deciphered Most of them are of steatite and of square size The more common steatite and of square size The more animal is difficult to be identified features both equinc and boyine, with one horn

Puri (Jagannatham) —A popular Hindu pilgrimage centre on the eastern seaboard of India, specially sacred to the Vaishnavites The White Pagoda of Jagannath or the Lord of the Universe is at Puri The presiding deities are Jagannath (Krishna seen with his disc, Sudarshana), his brother Balaram and his sister Subhadra

The strict commensal rules of the Hindu caste system have no application in Purl, especially in the matter of taking together the Mahaprasada, eooked or uncooked eatables ceremoniously offered to the deity This is unknown anywhere else in Hindu India It has been asserted that this peculiar feature marks Buddhist influence serve as emblem of Narayana or Vishnu)

The court of the White Pagoda is 665 ft east to west and 644 ft north to south A 24 ft high stone wall was built around it by King Purushottamadeva There are four entrances The Lion-Door in the east is decorated with seulptures. It has a pyramidal roof Before the door stands a beautiful pillar of the Sun(Arun stamba), 44 ft high The temple had originally a pillar surmounted with the figure of Garuda, the legendary bird, the earrier of Vishnu

The temple of Jagannatha is a combination of four temples, which adjoin one other

All the gods and goddesses in the temple and yard are strict vegetarians, except Vimala, in whose honour goats are sacrificed on the second day of Durgapuja at midnight, when Jagan-natha and other gods are supposed to be asleep

There is a very large number of menastic establishments (Maths) at Puri, the most important of which are Shankara, Nimai Chaitanya, Kavir, Nanaka-Shahi and Vidura Math, Chakratirtha, Svarga dyar, and Lokanath

The most important event in Puri is the Car Festival, when an image of Jagannatha is taken in procession in a huge Rath or wooden vehiele

Rameshvaram—An island in the Palk Straits, adjoining Ceylon, and an important Hindu place of pilgrimage, connected with the mainland by railway. It forms the interlude to the closing railway act of the great performance of South Indian architecture and sculpture

Indian Festivals and Observances.

Bara Wafat —(Death on the 12th) is called In Bengal Fatiha-i-Duwazdahum (Prayers of the the Hindus to begin education of their children as Mauludu-'n-Nabi (Birth of the Prophet) date is 12, Rabi I

It is a joint celebration of the birth and the death of the Muslim Prophet In some parts of India it is celebrated only as the birthday of the Prophet (Jashn-1-Milad-Sharif) It is believed that his birth and death took place on the same date, although there are differences of opinion on this. It is a great day of feasting for Muslims (the Wahhabis, however, do not observe it, they regard it to be an innovation or Bidat) On this occasion the life story of the Prophet is recited and its points of excellence stressed Prayers are offered for the benefit of his soul Prayers are also read over cooked food which is then given to the poor Seme observe it on the second day of the month As the date is disputed, the more devout read the prayers on all the days from the 1st to the 12th day of the month

Dasara (DASHAMA = TEN DAYS) -This festival is held on the 10th of Ashwin Shuddh (Oct) It is called Durga Puja or Durgotsava, and is supposed to relate to the autumnal equinox The festival commemorates the victory of Devi, wife of Shiva, over the buffalo headed demon Her lmage is worshipped for nine days and afterwards consigned to the river This is also the day on which Rama marched against Rawan, the demon king of Lanka (modern Ceylon) Early in the morning Hindus perform pupa to their household gods or religious books Marathas and Kshatriyas, or those books Marathas and Kshatriyas, or those who consider themselves of the martial race, worship their weapons and ask protection for them throughout the year in the falth that, to the propitiousness of the sword, they owe every prosperity. In the afternoon they go to the temple in procession.

The day is also considered most auspicious by In Turkey and Egypt the day is known The nine preceding days of Dasara are called ludu-'n-Nabi (Birth of the Prophet) The navaratra, a compound word for 'nine nights' During this period devotees of Durga engage a Brahman to read hymns before her image, extolling her exploits and describing her rewards to her votaries On the ninth day, at every temple of Durga, the spered fire is made and fed with rice and ghee to the chanting of mantras It is customary among Bania women to keep up a dance called garba during these nine nights.

The celebration of Dasara is also said to owe its origin to the Pandavas (the five sons of Panda) who selected this day as an auspleious one for making preparations for their war with their paternal cousins, the Kauravas, which is narrated in detail in the Mahabharata

great pomp in Mysore State

Dipavali (Popularly termed Divall or Dewali)—Dipa means a lamp and Dipavali means a row or collection of lamps. It is a festival of rejoicing at Lord Krishna's triumph over Narakasura, a demon Rows of lamps at all places. places, sacred and secular, make a mest beautiful feature on the occasion Exhibitions of fire works, erackers, etc., add to its festive nature

On the 14th day of the waning moon of Kartlla (Sept-Oct), known as Naraka or Bhuta Chaturdashi (Chaturdashi means 14th lunar day), Krishna destroyed Narakasura The demon was, however, a great devotee of Krishna and had done genera repense to proputate the and had done severe penance to propitate the Lord, but he had abducted 16,000 women for his harem and had to be destroyed for his sins view of his piety, however, the death anniversary was enjoined to be observed as a sacred day. In the morning a hath is taken and certain rites with a large made of the day. with a lamp made of rice-dust, etc , are observed. New dresses are worn and sweets are served

Idul-Azha means the (great) saerificial ceremony or festival The festival commemorates Taleb, the cousin, and Tatimah, the daughter Abraham's offer to sacrifice the object dearest to him, his son Ishmael (not Issae), on Mount Mina close to Meeca (the Bible gives the name of the land as Morlah) Its observance is one of the necessary acts in the performance of the Haj All adult Mushms who can afford it are required to make a sacrifice of an animal the animal is a big one (cg), a camel or a cow), it is allowed to be the joint offering of seven, (according to some authorities as many as seventy) It is meritorious to sacrifice one animal for each member of the family, but on economic grounds the sacrifice of one animal for a whole family is allowed. A fully grown up and sound eamel, eow, goat or sheep is considered The sacrifice is offered with a short prayer absolutely surrendering the soul to Allah and paper, according to the rank and wealth of the acknowledging His greatness as the accepted party-are exhibited and conveyed in proces The meat is distributed equally among sion through the streets the poor, the relatives and friends and members of the household

In India the eow is the usual beast of saerifice In other Mushm countries the camel takes its place. The cow being held most sacred by Hindus, the more popular Muslim monarchs of India (pessibly a few of Afghanistan as well) had stopped its slaughter out of consideration for Hindu sentiment

'Id-ul-Fitr —" The festival of breaking fast," eailed also Ramazan hi-'Id, and "the feast of alms," is celebrated on the 1st of Shavval On this day Muslims bathe, put on new clothes, apply antimony to the eyes, and perfume themselves, then distribute the fitr or sadl ah, which is 2½ seers of wheat, dates, or any grain used for food, to the poor or religious mendicants. All then proceed to the Idgah, repeating "God is great. There is no God but God." God is great There is no God The Mulla ascends the mimbar but God" and after a short thanksgiving pulpit, reads the Khutbah or sermon He then descends to the lowest step (which with the Shiahs is the third, but the fourth with the Sunnis) and recounts the virtues of the king, and prays for him Then a general prayer is offered, and the eongregation rise with a shout of Din'—"Faith!" and fire of muskets The evening is spent in rejoicing and merriment

In the Mahabharata, Rhishma the great lihate most acholarly and valorons celihate cennate most acmountly and vanous prince related that King Chitr bhom of the Irshvaku dynasty popularised the festival. On this day when the Kin was fasting a sage suggested to him that the human soul belin, one with God Indulgence in pleasure to the self and not infliction of pain to it by fasting would please God best The King explained that th self of flesh and blood was not the reel self and narrated the legend of a fest. In a previous life, the King was born a hunter. One d rk night be to t his way in the forest and took hight he to this way in the loress and took abelier for the night on a burs or bel (Indian wood apple) tree. The binter had no food for the whole day and was ruminating on how his f mlly must be keenly feell g the double miscry that was the beautiful the contraction. of at rving and mis ing him He wept bitter tears To make himself comfortable nd also to have a better view of the list of the land and approaching game he tore away and threw down the boughs and leaves obstructing his vision. It so happened that that night Shiva was undor that blief three and the tears and leaves fell on him Shiva was propitiated by this act of the hunte although unknowingly done and declared that if anybody fasted on that day and worshipped him with offerings of water and blue petals he would on de th be eccepted in Shive a heaven

Another account in later Puranic atorica (eg L ga Pu na) n rrates that a hunter apending the day imprisoned in a Shaiva mon a tery or temple for having falled to pay his d bt was let out on p tols. His w y home lay through a forest and a night grew too d rk to
